Buy a Polygamous Pedigreed Male Fox

I can supply a few medium, light medium and pale silver males with 4 to 5 consecutive crosses of PRIZE BLOOD.

All my foundation stock is bred from a few outstanding individuals. I have line bred and in-bred them until the color texture and veiling has been I believe set. These qualities are most necessary for GOOD PELTS.

Why take chances buying foxes which have been bred from ordinary animals, some of the increase may be good but unless you get a high average of the right type in each litter you will take years establishing a quality herd.

You may pay a few dollars more for SUPERB FOXES but you will get he benefit of years of careful breeding, I did this and find it pays.

I only reserve a few males as I run 4 to 5 females to each male. I never had a pup refuse to DOUBLE MATE, this quality in a good male should make him more valuable to you.

Prices and Terms reasonable.

PRODUCE

(Canadian Press)

MONTREAL, Oct 29—Scarcity of supplies sent egg prices soaring on the Montreal dairy and produce market during last week's trading. Top grades of fresh eggs advanced five to six cents per dozen. Butter also firmed while cheese and potatoes were slightly easier.

The egg market ended the week at 38 to 40 cents a dozen for extras 32 to 33 cents for firsts and 17 to 18 cents for seconds, for graded shipments in carlots or less of fresh Ontarios. Exports of eggs for the week were 6,725 cases.

No 1 grade butter advanced ¾ cent a pound during the week, becoming 19½ cents for carlots or less. Arrivals amounted to 5,873 boxes compared with 8,950 the previous week.

Ontario and Quebec cheese eased ⅛ to ¼ cents a pound during the week being quoted on Saturday at 9 cents for Ontarios and 8¾ cents for Quebecs.

The potato market was slightly easier owing to heavy arrivals from the Maritimes. The market ended the week at 65 to 70 cents per 80 pound bag of Quebecs and 70 to 75 cents for New Brunswick green mountains in similar quantities.

Shaw Boosts Young Author

LONDON, Oct. 29—(C.P.)—Marshall Bell, a young Scottish novelist who is struggling to make headway in the literary world has received the blessing of George Bernard Shaw, also a 10 shilling note. Bell is an unemployed engineer living in Dunfermline.

He sent a copy of his book, "Pickles and Plays," to Mr. Shaw, and received from him 10 shillings, the purchase price of four copies. Shaw is keeping one copy and has told the young author, whose real name is James Bell Marshall, to offer the other three to a friendly bookseller to place on his counter by way of experiment.

Mr. Marshall was trained as an engineer and after four years' war service, returned to his trade in Edinburgh, but lost h's job. It was then that he started to write.

Made Landmarks His Great Work

LONDON, Oct., 29—(C.P.)—Sir Charles Peers, who is retiring from the position of Chief Inspector of Ancient Monuments, has probably done more than any man to preserve historic landmarks of Great Britain from ruin and decay. Sir Charles has held this office ever since the Government founded the Department of Ancient Monuments 20 years ago. The term "Ancient Monuments," is a very broad one so far as the department is concerned; it may embrace both a ruined castle covering many acres and a tiny bridge used by packhorses in old times. The government does not purchase such ancient monuments, but merely put them under the care of the department when the latter has certified them as worthy of preservation.

During the past 20 years more than 3,000 "ancient monuments" have thus been taken care of. For instance, the ruins of Whitby Abbey, on the Yorkshire Coast, were rapidly falling into Disintegration, more especially as they had served as a mark for German naval raiders during the war. Sir Charles Peers' department took them in hand, and nowadays the Abbey ruins make as gracious a memento of times past as could well be imagined.

Sir Charles Peers' retirement is due to his having reached the government age limit of 65. Besides association with a number of learned bodies, he is editor of the Victoria County Histories. He is to devote a large part of his new leisure to carrying on this work, and he will also be available to the Department in an advisory capacity.

"CHISELLER" NOT SLANG

NEW YORK, October 29—Because President Roosevelt used it in an address Sunday night, the word "chiseller" applied to one who cheats is no longer slang, Frank H. Vizetelly, lexicographer, declared today.

Several times in the course of two paragraphs, the President spoke of "chisellers," meaning those who shirked in the Government's recovery drive.

"President Roosevelt's use of the word automatically elevates it from the status of slang to colloquialism," said Vizetelly. "When a man of such station as the President of the United States employs a slang phrase he clothes it with dignity."

RACE CROWD GREETS KING AND QUEEN

NEWMARKET, England, Oct. 29.—Their Majesties were among the large crowd which found its way to Newmarket recently for the running of the historic Cambridgeshire, in which the King's colt Limelight was favorite 8 to 1, but was among the also rans.

A light drizzle of rain ushered in the day, but the immense sweepstakes being decided by the race drew the usual crowds to the track.

The appearance of the King in the Royal box during the running of the first race drew an ovation, many shouting:

"Good luck."

Skim Milk Or Meat for The Winter Hogs

(Experimental Farms Note))

In order that a poultryman may get every cent of profit coming to him, he must avail himself of all the means at his disposal to produce cheaply.

For instance when whole milk is sold anywhere from 60 cents to a dollar a hundred pounds, skimmilk has little value, yet if it is fed to poultry it will bring fair returns. If skim-milk were used instead of beefscraps as a source of animal feed, poultrymen would cut down on their feed bill and their cost of egg production at the same time.

An experiment conducted at the Dominion Experimental Station, Cap Rouge, Que., for five seasons proved rather conclusively that the lot of birds receiving skim-milk laid more eggs and gained more weight than the one which was fed beef scrap, other feeds being the same.

Skim-milk should always be fed sweet or always sour so as to avoid bowel troubles. Where skim-milk is not available beefscrap will have to be resortedto but the cost of production will be higher. No poultryman or farmer keeping hens can afford these days to feed expensive animal feeds when they can use skim-milk at greater advantage. Let us make a better use of the products which are at our disposal.

C. E. Ste. Marie, Dominion Experimental Station, Cap Rouge, Que.

In these local centres students take the work in music necessary to qualify for entrance to Mount Allison Music School. Care of The Breeding Stock

(Experimental Farms Note)

As soon as they are dry breeding ewes should be flushed by supplying a grain ration such as three parts of oats and one part of corn or barley, up to one pound per day per ewe, or by providing good rape or clover aftermath pasture. When the pasture is used care is necessary at the start in order to prevent bloating; the rape or clover should be dry and the ewes allowed on it only one or two hours per day at the start. Before breeding the flock should be culled and all ewes that are poor milkers, shy or non-breeders, poor type, or having poor teeth should be discarded. For best results the ewes should not be bred until they are a year old.

After the breeding season is over the ewes may be wintered on good quality clover hay and roots until two weeks before lambing, when a grain mixture made up of oats, 3 parts, brain, 2 parts, oil meal, 1 part should be supplied and the root ration reduced. After lambing, from one to two pounds of grain per day and three pounds of roots per ewe together with all the clover hay the ewes will clean up should be fed.

During the lambing period every care and attention should be provided in order to save the lamb crop. Many lambs are lost at this time that might be saved by a little care and attention on the part of the attendant, and this often means the difference between profit and loss in the year's operation.

After the pasture season starts the same close attention is not necessary, provided the pasture is of good quality and a change is made as frequently as possible to reduce the danger from internal parasites. The control of these parasites is one of the major factors in successful sheep husbandry and the two chief points to keep in mind are frequent changes in pasture and treatment twice yearly with mustard-bluestone solution or Nema capsules. The flock should be dipped both spring and fall to control external parasites.

This brief outline is a summary of the practices followed at the Dominion Experimental Farm at Nappan where a high class flock of Shropshires is maintained. During the past five years only sixteen lambs have been lost out of 252 dropped and the quality of the flock has been maintained at a low cost.

S. A. Hilton, Dominion Experimental Farm, Nappan, N. S.

WOMAN GIVES BIRTH TO SEVEN, ALL BOYS

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, Oct. 29—Birth of seven children—all boys—to Senora Carola Perez in one delivery is believed an event unique in medical history. While several cases have been recorded of septets, this is believed to be the first where all are boys.

The mother and children were reported all doing well and the father, Louis Perez, is jubilant. The Bolivar department Senate heard an appeal for a government grant to the family, then referred the matter to the department of public works.
