

Important Provincial News of the week for Saturday Subscribers.

THURSDAY

A very interesting match took place last evening at the home of P. W. and Mrs. Crockett, when their daughter Myrtle was married to Camden Marchbanks of the same place. Rev. Mr. Westmoreland, Alberton, tied the nuptial knot. There was a large gathering of invited guests and the presents were numerous and valuable.

FRIDAY

Dr. A. H. Smallwood has moved into his new and up-to-date office in H. J. Malcoms new building, Bouris.

The Rev. Jas. McDougall will preach on Sabbath, the 3rd, at Cape Traverse at 10:30; Searletown at 3 p.m. and Summerville at 7, and on Wed. and Thursday, the 6th and 7th, at Coleman at 7 p.m.

Wm. Saunders, who has been in the employ of the P. E. I. Railway for the past thirty-five years as section man in the western part of the province has retired from service and taken the government superannuation allowance. Mr. Saunders has been a faithful servant. Yesterday he left for a trip to New Brunswick.

A. E. and Mrs. Holland, St. Eleanor's have received the sad news of the death of their daughter, Miss Mary on the 28th inst at Philadelphia, Penns. The remains will be brought home for burial accompanied by a brother Arthur, and sister who was called to her death bed a few days ago.

A remarkable horse can be seen on the streets of Summerville almost any day owned and driven by Thos. E. Ramsay for twenty six and a half years. He is now twenty-nine and a half years old and stands as trim and erect as a four year old in color he is black. He was raised by Donald McKinnon of South West, Lot 16, and is of the old French and English blood.

The death occurred recently at the residence of her son, Robert Fitzsimmons, Long River, Bridge, Kent, the list of the late Michael Fitzsimmons. Deceased was born in New Ross Co., Wexford, Ireland, on June 10th, 1809, and had passed the century mark since June, 1909. She with her husband and one child, emigrated to P. E. Island in 1835 and settled on the farm, where after a period of 74 years, she was destined to lay the burden of her years down and enter a glorious immortality. To the very end she remained peaceful and happy, her death serene and only a slight deafness marred the perfect use of all her faculties, and the sorrow, which must come in every journey of so long a duration as hers, never for an instant had power to overcome a spirit as brave as it was gentle. The example of this truly Christian woman, who died without an enemy in the world, as she had lived without thinking evil of any, remains to inspire her surviving family and friends. Mrs. Fitzsimmons was a woman of vigorous and active mind and had a very retentive memory. Living in Ireland, during the stormy times, her description of the parting of the exiles from home, and the severing of all the endearing ties that bind a patriotic and loving people to the old land, was pathetic in the extreme. She was all her long life an earnest and devoted Catholic. Her death convictions of religion and the devoted affection of her three daughters and two sons, lighting the dim road that issues into everlasting day. She is survived by two sons and four daughters: Robert of Long River; Michael of Alberton; Bridget, who lived with her; Mrs. Thomas L. Murphy, Lot 11; Mrs. Margaret Murphy, Hammond; and her youngest daughter, Mrs. Joe McKinnon, who came from her home, Lewiston, Me, to nurse her mother, for the last four weeks of her life. Her remains were laid to rest after a Mass of Requiem by Mgr. Gillis, in Indian River Cemetery, beside her husband who died in 1859.

Yesterday forenoon Lieut.-Gov. McKinnon formally opened the King's County Exhibition at Georgetown. The attendance was not all that could be desired owing to the inclemency of the weather but the incoming trains, running with excursion rates, brought in a good number of visitors from Queen's and Hatteras Kings Counties.

Speaking of the exhibits, it is indeed pleasurable to note that the competition was much keener, the exhibits greater in quantity and quality, and the accommodations for live stock and other exhibits much improved.

The following is the prize list of the exhibition as judged and sent by The Guardian reporter.

GOVERNOR HARMON. The death of Gov. Johnson leaves Gov. Harmon of Ohio in the centre of the Democratic stage. If he should be re-elected as Governor of Ohio, says an Exchange, he will be the logical candidate for the next Democratic presidential nomination. If he should fall of re-election in that Republican state, it would not destroy his availability. He stands as he stood during the Cleveland administration for the conservatism of Democracy. There is little doubt that he would have the friendship of Bryan, in recognition of the absence of Bourbonism in his make-up and his progressive appreciation of the needs of the changing conditions. His record is unimpaired, and in view of the opportunity which appears to be opening for the return of Democracy to a challenging position in the political affairs of the country he is a commanding candidate for national leadership with few rivals.

THURSDAY. WIRELESS PHONE TO CHINA? In the agricultural building at the A. Y. P. exposition in Seattle, says the Seattle Post Intelligencer, many thousands of people have witnessed actual talking without wires. Mayor Miller conversed from one part of the city hall to another without wires. Third avenue made the following statement yesterday: "I am firmly convinced that it will be only a matter of a short time when we will have the whole Pacific coast connected with wireless telephones. At the present time we have plans and specifications for the erection of a 360-foot tower in Seattle. This tower is used as a long distance receiving station. With this erected we can talk from Seattle to Spokane, to moving ships, and, within a very short time with China or Japan."

EVERY MAN TO HIS TRADE. It is universally conceded that the head of a grocery store should have some special training, but quite a lot of people lightly assume that to be a successful public man required no special training at all, says an Exchange. If a man can sell groceries and make money he is held by the public to be capable of making a success of the government of a great city. And so it happens that, after an election, a great many very wise-looking men set by their friends and wonder why their plans miscarried, when after all those plans never had the least chance of success. Just now in New York, for example, the people who propose to reform the city and to crush the many out of existence have nominated a man for Mayor, or, and out of three or four millions of people perhaps there are not more than five hundred who know him. It would appear, after the papers have hunted up his record and looked him over, that the five hundred think pretty well of him; but the big, in-osses mementoes of the bondage which hitherto for which the rest of the people know him. If he is fit to be a public man at all, he is one of those to whom would apply the remark of Emerson, "I doubted his genius when I found he sought no finance and jute, and he is to be a candidate against Judge Gayer, a man who has lived in the public eye, interpreted the popular emotion, and who just recently overturned the whole police organization of New York because it denied to one poor boy the rights guaranteed by Magna Charta; in short, a public man, and so big a one that Tammany hesitates to nominate him because he would probably not be tractable, and hesitates to oppose because he would probably win anyhow. When a man is in business he can let his own way about buying and selling, which is in the main the whole ordering of his affairs. In public life it is human commodity with which he has to deal, men separately and men in the mass. But a special fitness is required for such a trade, ought to go without saying. That the great problems of the city are special problems, are reamed of in the counting rooms, ought also to be admitted. Great public servants have been developed out of good business men, and we have some examples of the fact here in Montreal, but they had the qualities of public men. In casting about for men to be the new rulers of the city, let us not forget that the possession of these qualities is essential, whatever other good qualities may be found with them.

IN MEMORY OF THE LATE WM PATRICK. Written by Rev Wm McLeod, Hampton. The late William Patrick, Hampton, who fell asleep in Jesus, on 11:30 a. m. Sept. 17th, in 1884, was a brother of the late Principal Grant, Senator McGregor and other ambitious youths. He married Miss, sister of Rev Dr. A. Falconer of Halifax, and began mercantile life in the old "Cameron Block" in Charlottetown, in company with his brother-in-law, the late James Falconer. Having a branch store in Hampton, over 27 years ago, with his parents he removed thither and owned and occupied the building now called "The Manse" and did business in the building, since converted into a comfortable church. Here his parents and sister died. He abandoned merchandise and devoted all his energies to farming. Eighteen months ago he sold his farm on the Green Road and rented a house belonging to Mr. A. Myers at Hampton Corner. For six weeks every and all night in a very busy season people in sufficient numbers attended him. Altho he was but a short time confined to bed, he remained unable to remain therein, he recovered and received a great deal of faithful attendance. This together with the very large attendance at his funeral in the Presbyterian Church in Hampton, at 3 p.m. on 19th (even the other similar service was being conducted three miles away at same hour) was a good reminder of the degree of the esteem in which he was held by his fellow citizens. Mr. Patrick was a very industrious, intelligent, honest man. He was widely read, conversant with many subjects and lines of literature; a very helpful practical citizen. The wife of the late Hon Matthew Smith said to me at the funeral "Mr Smith said Mr Patrick was the most upright man he ever knew." Professor Pollok who, visited him here sixteen years ago, said: "He was one of the best of my boys in my Bible Class in New Glasgow, when I was pastor there, and regularly walked from Stellarton to attend." He was not only Conservative in politics but also in speaking of "The things pertaining to the Kingdom of God," and reminded me much of some "Gunny Scots" who expressed less than ordinary experience. He ventured fifteen months ago, altho very weak physically, to profess faith for the first time at Sacramental table of the Redeemer. During his latest days he repeatedly and clearly defined his simple trust in Jesus atoning blood; his surrender to His faithfulness and hence confidence that he would ascend to the glories of Heaven. He was, taking him all in all, a desirable neighbor; a wideawake citizen and now we believe through the boundless saving grace of God enjoying rest suitable, reasonable, enjoyable, eternal. To the bereaved sisters Mrs Smith of New Perth, near Montague; Mrs. J. J. Mackenzie, Victoria; a brother in Mass, and his intelligent devoted wife, we tender our sympathy and the scriptural injunctions, "Set your affections in things above" and "God is our refuge and strength a very present help in trouble."

INTERESTING NEWS OF CHURCH CIRCLES. Independence.—The reports from several Financial District Meetings indicate that the spirit of independence is in the air, that several missions are feeling that they should no longer be dependent upon the Missionary Society for support. The N. B. and P.E.I. Conference is showing the benefit of the inspiration and counsel of Rev Thomas Marshall, the local Superintendent of Missions. He is not seeking to coerce the missions, but to lead some of them to see that as they would be offended if offered bread and butter from other people should be unwilling to have the expense of carrying the cost of his to them paid for by others. May the good work continue.

Rev J. Heaney, B. A., has accepted an invitation to remain at Carleton, St John, for a fourth year. We are informed that although approached from another Conference, Rev J. W. Hobbs, who intends leaving Gabarus at next conference, has decided to remain in the Nova Scotia Conference—Wesleyan.

Dartmouth.—This church had most successful rally day services in connection with its Sunday School, last Sunday. The attendance of regular pupils was 202, which exceeds any previous record. Rev J. Appleby, the pastor (who is well known in P.E.I.) delivered an excellent address and a special program was well carried out. The Missionary Committee of this church has decided to raise $750 for missions this year.

The Misses Gladys and Elaine, daughters of Rev B. C. Borden, who graduated at Mt Allison last spring have gone to Columbia College, New York, to take post-graduates work, the former specializing in house hold science, the latter in painting, etc. Dr Louise Hart left on Wednesday for New York where she will be engaged for some months in connection with her work as a medical missionary in India of the Dutch Reformed church. She was accompanied by her sister, Miss Alice Hart, who will spend some weeks in the city.

TORONTO, Sept. 29.—(Special)—Police commissioners here decided on refusing restaurant licenses to those Chinese who employ white women. This, in the opinion of the board, would help lessen difficulties of police in way of stopping the growing evil of white women frequenting Chinese joints.

WEDNESDAY THE NAME OF HOE.

Three generations of Samuel Bowles editing a newspaper are duplicated by three generations of R. Hoe making printing presses, says the Boston Herald. Robert Hoe, who has just died, was one of the most lavish spenders and competent connoisseurs among American collectors of objects of art and rare books; but his chief title to respect and to fame is the fact that in inheriting wealth and power he continued in the third generation the mastery handling of a great business, and by his own inventions supplemented those of his grandfather, father and uncles, and which a majority of the presses on which the country and the United Kingdom are printed. For much of the reformation has been wrought in journalism during the past century, that has multiplied vastly the speed, accuracy, and proflience of the art, the world owes an incalculable debt to Robert Hoe, the English immigrant who arrived in New York city in 1803, and to his partners and his and their descendants, who have made the business not only profitable but a model in its attitude toward the workmen whom it first trains and then retains in its employ.

THE KING AT THE OPERA HOUSE

See how they rush away! They have not time to say: God save the King! Is this the usual way? Has it really come to stay? Scarce a soul delays to say: God save the King. Why do the people flee? Why don't they bide a wee? To save the King? Ladies of high degree! Men who boast pedigree! Snobs with no family tree! Wherein to cling! All, all, join in the rout—Medium, and thin and stout, They all take wing. Young and old, short and tall, Flock from their seats, and box, and stall. And leave the empty hall. To save the King.
