GERMAN SOLDIERS WANT UNDERWEAR.

BERLIN, Sept. 18.—Crown Prince Frederick William to-day telegraphed to the Zeitung Am Mittag as follows: "Please collect and forward as early as possible woollen underwear and socks for my soldiers. Greetings."

It was only a few days ago that the Crown Prince telegraphed to a Berlin newspaper asking it to collect and forward tobacco and cigars for his soldiers.

The healing of the wound of Prince Joachim, the youngest son of Emperor William, is progressing normally, but it will probably be several weeks before he is wholly restored, according to an announcement at the Imperial Court to-day. No news from official sources for publication has been received since the midnight bulletin, whose reports of attacks and counter attacks, indicates that the battle is still progressing.

GERMANS HAVE BIG ARMY.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The correspondent to the Daily Mail at Ostend learns that important events are expected in North Belgium within the next few days which is not allowed to disclose. He says there is little doubt that there are three German Army Corps about 150,000 men in Belgium.

PEACE POSSIBLE BETWEEN AUSTRIA-HUNGARY AND RUSSIA

MILAN, Sept. 18.—The Corriere Della Sera says that preliminary steps are being taken toward a possible arrangement for peace between Austria-Hungary and Russia. It is asserted that Emperor Francis Joseph cherishes the hope that Great Britain would offer no serious opposition since apart from the cordial traditional friendship that has marked Anglo-Austro relations, there is strong ground for believing that England really desires the preservation of Austria-Hungary.

The motives constraining to set an initiative are to be found in the remarkable revision of public feeling in Vienna, where there are grave symptoms of hostile revolt, and in other parts of the Empire, particularly in Bohemia.

The negotiators, however, state that France, too, has always showed special regard for Austria. Indeed, Vienna diplomats would fain discern a token of Anglo-French benevolence toward their country in the comparative inactivity of the Allied fleets in the Adriatic as though Great Britain and France, being mainly concerned in humbling the pride of the Prussian roundheads, were both loath to deal Austria a death blow. They opine, too, that Russia's principal objective is likewise Germany, that the smart whacks inflicted upon Austria are strictly strategic, so as to insure to Russia a free hand in crushing the German hegemony, and that, provided Austria shows a sincere readiness to give satisfaction to Serbia herself, Russia will not be unwilling to make up the quarrel straight away.

KING OF BELGIUM PRAISES BRAVERY OF BRITISH TROOPS.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—King George to-day received the following telegram from the King of the Belgians:

"I desire to congratulate you most heartily on the splendid action of the British troops at the battle of Marne. In the name of the whole Belgian nation I express to you our deepest admiration for the stubborn courage of the officers and soldiers of your army. God will surely help our armies to avenge the atrocities committed on peaceful citizens and against a country whose only crime has been that she refused to be false to her engagements."

King George, on receipt of the telegram, sent the following reply to King Albert:

"I thank you most sincerely for your kind telegram and for your appreciation for the services of my troops. I earnestly trust that the combined operations of our Allied forces in combat with your brave army, whose heroic efforts are beyond all praise, will meet with continued successes, and will free your much tried country from the invader."

WILL NOT CANCEL THEIR PATENTS FOR PRESENT

OTTAWA, Sept. 17.—The Hon. Martin Burrell has by order-in-council been given power under the emergency act, passed at the emergency session in parliament, to deal with the question of patents held in Canada by aliens. No general cancellation of these patents is contemplated at the present time, and the provisions of the order are substantially the same as the rules passed by the British Board of Trade, under the Imperial War Measure, which states that patents may be suspended during the war and for six months after its conclusion.

Individuals desiring the right to manufacture an invention covered by any such patent must make special application to the Minister of Agriculture, who will grant it only when he is satisfied that it is in the public interest that he should do so.

The minister is given absolute power of discretion as to the terms on which the application is to be made by alien enemies for the present being held in abeyance.

THE IMPERIAL LIMITED IN HEAD-ON COLLISION.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Sept. 17.—The Imperial Limited from Montreal smashed head-on into a stock train at Rosport, east of Port Arthur, at 5.30 o'clock yesterday morning. The mail coach of the Limited was completely demolished, the engine being forced back into it and telescoping it. Alfred Bilbe, the engineer of the passenger train, sustained bruises over the heart, and the fireman of the stock train was slightly injured in jumping from the cab. The escape of the others is regarded almost as a miracle. Both engines were badly damaged, and had to be replaced.

sent to this, and on Tuesday at 11 o'clock, as was mentioned in yesterday's Guardian, they will meet at the Baptist Church corner (Prince and Fitzroy Streets) and will march to the scene of the Exhibition headed by the 82nd Regiment Band. From the gallery they will sing the following songs: "Kue Britannia," "O Canada," "The British Grenadiers," "O Bless the Prince of Wales," "Island Hymn" and the National Anthem. They will then be presented with the medals. The Lieutenant-Governor has been requested to open the Exhibition, and it is expected that speeches will be delivered by him, Premier Mathieson, Hon. Murdoch McKinnon, Commissioner of Agriculture, Mayor Stearns, and Mr Frank R. Hartz, President of the Association. After the formal opening, at 1 o'clock the horse races will begin and the attractions thrown open to visitors.

Some of the judging will take place on Tuesday, but the majority of it will not be taken up before Wednesday, beginning at 9 a.m.

Two aeroplane flights will be given each day. With the very large number of exhibits to be judged, the exciting races which will be run, the flights and the attractions, Charlottetown should present a lively and interesting appearance next week.

ARMY FIELD SERVICE MEETING AT CARDIGAN

On Tuesday evening an enthusiastic meeting filled the large hall at Cardigan to hear Judge Fitzgerald's address in support of the Army Field Service Fund, all eager to learn from such a source the true facts in relation to the present struggle, and to do their duty fully and generously by supporting the appeal for aid to the utmost extent.

The address of Judge Fitzgerald was a masterly and eloquent presentation of the case, and resulted in a very handsome amount of both oats and cash being subscribed on the spot; and his appeal to the ladies for aid to the Red Cross Society was no less successful, resulting in the immediate formation of a branch of that Society, with a large and enthusiastic membership.

Rev. J. C. Martin, of Cardigan also delivered an excellent address, filled with valuable information with reference to the war and its causes, and pointing out the necessity for prompt and liberal support of the cause in which we are all so vitally concerned.

Mr Horation Nelson, of Montserrat, a member of the Army Field Service Committee, presided, and Hon. J. A. Macdonald, also a member of the Committee, explained the outlines of the plan by which this contribution is to be handled. A vote of appreciation to the speakers was moved by J. G. Scrimgeour, and seconded by J. A. Macdonald, to which Judge Fitzgerald fittingly replied.

CATHOLIC PAPER CRITICISES KAISER'S MESSAGE.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The Chronicle says, for daring to criticise a telegram sent by the Kaiser to President Wilson with regard to the conduct of war in Belgium, the Berlin Kolnische Volkszeitung, the leading Roman Catholic newspaper in Germany has been suspended by the censor. An official states that the criticism was one calculated to please foreign countries and as such was utterly to be condemned.

Although German newspapers are strictly censored, they now and then manage to blurt out a few words showing how illusions are passing. Thus the Vorwaerte says that statements about bad equipment of the French troops are proved to be untrue by the appearance of prisoners who are very far from being in rags as the Germans were led to believe.

HALIFAX HORSE RACES

most of the competitors were interested in trying to "get Dr. Sharper's goat." They succeeded so well that he got pretty unwell and made wild breaks in the first three heats. The drivers of Oakley H. and Gladiola were called to the stand and given some advice by Starter Power. Not heeding it they were fined five dollars each. Oakley H. won the first heat by a narrow margin of six inches from Dora, Sharper finishing last.

The second heat was Oakley's but the finish was close with Dora. Sharper was behind, having broken badly at the start.

The third heat was a big drive between Cameron, driving Oakley, and Boutlier, driving Dora. Oakley won the heat by a length but the judges placed him last for interfering with and cutting off Dora on the home stretch. Sharper was a close third in this heat.

The fourth heat was very exciting. Sharper made a break as usual on the turn and lost about sixty yards when he settled down to business and gradually drew up on the leaders. In the last quarter he looked hopelessly out of it but his driver shook him out and Sharper trotted a blue streak to the wire, beating Oakley a length. The doctor's last quarter was caught in 30 seconds by three watches.

The fifth heat was a repetition of the previous one, all the horses were very tired but Sharper had the stay of the bunch.

To-morrow at two o'clock they go out to battle for the finish. The race is the topic of conversation at the various hotels.

The horses which will take part in next week's meet at Charlottetown will arrive there on Monday night.

HAND-TO-HAND FIGHT IN SHADOW OF PARIS

Germans Trapped As Their Invasion Reached High Water Mark

FERCE BATTLE RESULTED

Kaiser's Forces Lost Heavily When Forced Back—Rivers Swollen With the Dead

LONDON, September 16.—A Times correspondent, who wires from five miles south of Provins, in the department of Seine-et-Marne, and tells how the Germans were checked southwest of Paris in their advance on the French capital, says:

"I have traveled to this point practically along the whole line of the allied army, though, of course, always in the rear. General von Kluck's host in coming down the Marne and the Grand Morin rivers to Sezanne, twenty-five miles southwest of Epernay, met little opposition, and I believe little was intended. The Allies, in fact, led their opponents straight into a trap. The German cavalry led the tired German mile after mile and the Germans believed the Englishmen were running away. When the tremendous advance reached Provins the Allies' plan was accomplished and it got no further.

FIGHTING OF SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, WAS FERCE.

"The fighting on Sunday, September 6, was of a terrible character, and began to dawn in the region of La Ferte Gaucher. The Allies' troops who were drawn up to receive the Germans, understood it would be their duty to hold on their very best in order that the attacking force at Meaux might achieve its task in security. The battle lasted all night and until late Monday. The German artillery fire was very severe, but not accurate. The French and English fought sternly on and slowly beat the enemy back.

"The attempts of the Germans to cross the Marne at Meaux entailed terrible losses. Sixteen attempts were foiled by the French artillery fire directed on the river, and in one trench 600 dead Germans were counted.

"The whole country was strewn with the dead and dying. When at last the Germans retired they greatly slackened their rifle fire and in one place retired twelve miles without firing a single shot. One prisoner declared that they were short of ammunition and had been told to spare it as much as possible.

"Monday saw a tremendous encounter on the Ourcq. In one village which the Germans hurriedly vacated, the French, in a large house, found a dinner table beautifully set, with candles still burning on the table, where evidently the German staff had been dining. A woman occupant said they fled precipitately.

HAND-TO-HAND FIGHTING ON THE OURCQ.

"There was a great deal of hand-to-hand fighting and bayonet work on the Ourcq, which resulted in the terrible Magdeburg regiment's beating a retreat.

"On Monday night, General von Kluck's army had been thrown back from the Marne and from the Morif and to the region of Sezanne and his position was serious. Immediate steps were necessary to save his line of communications and retreat. To this end reinforcements were hurried north to the Meaux district and to Ourcq, and tremendous efforts made to break up the French resistance in this quarter, for Meaux is to Paris as Reading is to London.

"The second attempt on the Ourcq shared the fate of the first. Though all Monday night and well on into Tuesday the great German guns boomed along this river, the resistance of the Allies could not be broken. "Hold, Ras the command, and while the Ourcq was being held, the struggle at Sezanne was bearing the splendid fruit. The German resistance on Tuesday morning was broken. I heard the news in two ways—the German guns were silent, and from the wounded who poured down to the bases.

WOUNDED EAGER TO JOIN THE FRAY

"The wounded men were no longer downhearted, but eager to rejoin the fray. On every French lip was the exclamation that 'they are in full retreat,' and 'they are rushing back home,' and in the same breath came generous recognition of the great help given by the British army.

"I am convinced that the full extent of this rout is not yet appreciated in England. It was of a truly terrific character, and such a blow will not fail to have a lasting effect. "The number of wounded entailed colossal transportation work. I myself counted fifteen trains in eight hours, a fine, grim set of men, terribly weary, but very amiable, except the officers.

MARNE RIVER SWOLLEN WITH THE DEAD.

"The enemy crossed the Marne on the return journey north under great difficulties and beneath a withering fire from the British troops, who pursued them hotly. The German artillery operated from a height, there was again much hand-to-hand fighting and the river was swollen with dead.

"On Tuesday night the British were in possession of La Ferte-sous-Jouarre and Dhateau Thierry, and the Germans had fallen back forty miles, leaving a long train of spoils behind them.

"On the same day, in the neighborhood of Vitry-le-Francois, the French troops achieved a splendid victory. Incidentally they drove back the famous Imperial Guard of Germany from Sezanne toward the swamps of St. Gond, where a century ago Napo-
