What is Royal Oak?

It is a solid handsome cake of cleansing soap—the perfection of quick-acting, labor-saving "cleansers." It has no equal whatever in the laundry, and besides it will clean paint, make oil-cloths bright, and give the floors, tables, and shelves a new appearance. It will take the grease off the dishes, knives and forks. The wash basin, the bath tub, even the greasy kitchen sink will be clean as a new pin if you use Royal Oak. One cake will prove it we say. Be a clever housekeeper and try it. Take no substitutes. Sold everywhere.

The lecture was thoroughly enjoyed throughout and well deserved the hearty applause and the unanimous vote of thanks tendered on motion of Mr. James Carruthers and seconded by Mr. Wm. G. Taylor. Rev. R. S. Whitten occupied the chair.

AN incident that shows what a powerful stimulant can be given to the latent profanity of foreigners, by the present condition of Railway wharf occurred along the devious foot-path of that institution last Wednesday night. A gentleman, faultlessly attired, and at first supposed to be a clergyman, who arrived by the Northumberland, undertook to walk up to his hotel, and en route—to enjoy the invigorating air after the heavy rain that had fallen during the forenoon. He strode along to his doom, apparently at peace with himself and the world, drinking in great chestfuls of the ozone-laden air until he plunged into gully No. 1, near the end of the coalshed. The first plunge convinced his hearers that he was not a clergyman—at least not of any type known here. He tried to get out but took the wrong course emphasizing each step in language that showed clearly he had been educated abroad. As if not satisfied with the character of the mud he knew so well how to describe, he tramped round in it, and under his eloquent description the mud itself turned blue. He got out but he was a changed man—outwardly at least, and finally arrived in Summerside. His remarks about the railway wharf, after the excitement had cooled off, would make an eloquent appeal for that sidewalk.
