Seeding Time

(Experimental Farms news)

The importance of starting plants early enough in the spring by sowing seed indoors in window boxes or in hotbeds cannot be over emphasized if the best results are to be obtained from the plants of those crops that should be produced by that means, states T. F. Ritchie, Division of Horticulture, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

As a rule, from six to eight weeks prior to the time when such plants can be set out in the field will be about the right time for sowing the seed. When seed is sown earlier than this it is diffficult to produce stocky, vigorous plants without giving many extra transplantings or subjecting the plants to severe checking in an effort to prevent excessive growth.

Experiments have shown that plants that have made continuous, unchecked growth from the time the seed was sown until the plants were set out in the field gave the best returns. The popular, old theory was that to get early maturity it was necessary to sow seed early and transplant a number of times, as well as to subject the plants to severe hardening off before planting out time. This old method resulted in doing much unnecessary work and in many cases produced disappointing returns. It can safely be said that the best financial returns result where well grown stocky plants are used.

When seed is purchased growers are reminded that only the best seed of recommended varieties should be obtained.

Scouts of Sydney, N.S. have had charge of Salvage collections in that town for the past two years. In that time they have collected 1,300,000 pounds of needed salvage. This is believed to be a record for all Canada.

The Chief Scout of the British Empire, Lord Somers, recently underwent operation in London England. Lord Somers had a distinguished record in the first World War, winning the D.S.O., the Military Cross, and the Legion of Honour.

The Boy Scouts of America will celebrate their 34th birthday on February 8th. A Good Turn by a British Scout which so impressed an American visitor in England was the motive power which got Scouting started in the United States. With nearly a million and a half members, the Boy Scouts of America is now the largest Scout organization in the world. James E. West is the Chief Scout and President Roosevelt is the Honorary President of the organization.

Two Yorkshire Boy Scouts, Patrol Leaders George Willis and Wilfred Atton, have been awarded the Crtificate of Gallantry for their promptness, efficient boatwork and gallantry in rescuing two children and three adults who had gotten into difficulties during a storm on Lake Windermere.

Pilot Officer George Purslow, who was recently awarded the D.F.C. said: "Those times (it seems ages ago) I spent both in the Cubs and the Scouts, I always recall with pleasant memories. More important still is the knowledge and common sense I learned."

Nearly 1200 Canadian Scouts earned their Cyclist Proficiency Badge last year. This badge requires that they own a fully equipped bicycle, must be able to take it apart, clean it, and put it together again, be able to make minor repairs, know the traffic rules for their provonce, and offer their bicycle for community use when called upon to do so.

Major the Rev. Roy Durnford, who conducted Christmas services in Ortona, during the Canadian assault in that city, and Lieut. W. Gildersleeve, who played the organ were both active in Boy Scout work before enlisting. Major Durnford was Scoutmaster of the Seal Cove Troop at Prince Rupert, B.C., and Lt. Gildersleeve was assistant Scoutmaster of the 6th Vancouver Troop. These Christmas services during the height of the bitter battle, with shells falling about as the men sang carols was one of the thrilling stories of the battle for Ortona.

A British sergeant, stationed at a North Africa hospital tells of the way in which Boy Scouts helped the allies when they landed in Algeria. A hospital was set up, he says and the adult population fled from the district. But a little band of Boy Scouts, aged 13 to 16, stayed on helping in every way they could with the sick and wounded. "Never once" he adds, "did I see any fear although the bombing was concentrated in this small target. The story just shows that the spirit of Scouting till lives in the occupied countries."

At Christ Church, Edmonton, the Bishop of Edmonton, the Rt. Rev. W.F. Barfoot dedicated a flag in memory of 13 Scouts from the Church who have given their lives in the present war.

CHEMISTRY is the taking of a relatively small group of basic substances, and, by the apparent magic of Chemistry, so changing them that they take on new forms and new properties that render them of great value to man in his many activities.

A few examples: Cellulose Chemistry brings us such products as "Cellophane", as plastics, as "Fabrikoid", and as certain highly valuable lacquers. From abundantly available coal tar derivatives, air and water, comes nylon yarn from which, after the war, nylon hosiery will once again be made.

Sulphuric acid, made in Canada to supply an essential ingredient of manufacture for many widely distributed industries, works for the farmer also, because, when chemically combined with phosphate rock, the result is the super-phosphate so essential to mixed fertilizers. Again, there are the salt wells at Windsor, Ontario, from which, in addition to your table salt, Chemistry produces chlorine and caustic soda, both indispensable in many different industries.

Throughout the war Chemistry has served Canada well—just as in the years before the war. When peace comes, Chemistry will take its place among the factors helping to build a great nation. Present-day services to humanity of the products of Industrial Chemistry are but an indication of future services in providing new products, new materials, new processes, to meet the demands of a restless, progressive post-war world.

Canadian troops which participated in the invasion of Kiska have now returned to Canada. They formed part of a Canadian-American task force which occupied the island without opposition, the Jap forces having retired without putting up a fight. The Canucks put in several months in the dreary Aleutian outpost before being relieved. These pictures taken during and after the Allied landings show: Left, Brigadier H. W Foster, who commanded the Canadian troops participating in the Kiska assault. Right, Canadian troops, wearing the United States Army equipment issued for the operations against Kiska, marching against a dreary background typical of the Aleutians.
