

WAS VERY WEAK NERVOUS AND MELANCHOLY

Mrs. Geo. McKenzie Campbellford, Ont., writes:—A short time ago I was troubled very badly with my heart and nerves, the cause of it, I think, was my going through the change of life.

"I was very weak and melancholy, and so nervous I could hardly bear to hear a clock ticking, and I did not sleep well.

"I was advised to try so I sent at once for a box; took them and got another, and before they were all gone I felt good, my nerves are fine, I do not mind any noise, and I can sleep well. I can not recommend them too highly to those suffering as I did."

Price 50c. a box at all druggists and dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Are you afraid of danger? her new employer demanded of Miss Brown, pretty stenographer. "The work you do for me may change your entire life, bring you adventure, intrigue, romance. You may even have to hide. "Will you risk it?"

Right then and there Miss Brown shut the door on her life of routine and stepped into a world of breathless living. Read her exciting adventures in our latest serial by "The Prince of Story Tellers" which will start in the Guardian next week.

"I had pimples on my face for about six months. They were hard, large and red and scaled over. The itching and burning were so severe that I could not keep from scratching the eruptions, which became quite sore. My face looked so bad that I was ashamed. "I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. It helped me so much that I purchased more, and after using six cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." SONIA

By VIDA HURST

Before she had time to get away she saw morning. The door opened and an irreproachable as ever, he entered her little room. "Have you found a position yet?" "No," she replied, uncompromisingly.

His colorless voice continued: "I thought perhaps I might be able to do something for you. A friend of mine keeps a bookkeeper."

Sonia's green eyes met his icily. "Mr. Thomas, there is no necessity for you to disturb yourself about me."

"I should be glad to help you if I can. I regret the unpleasant situation as much as any one. There is no reason why I shouldn't be of service to you."

"No reason why you should." His eyes narrowed. "None, indeed, save the fact that you are a younger girl my nephew was interested in."

Sonia rose. The color was sweeping in waves across her cheeks. Her eyes were stormy. "I see no reason for prolonging the agony. I asked for my old position and you did not see fit to give it to me."

"I am sure you can understand my position in the matter." "Oh, surely," she agreed sweetly. "I understand, and I also release you from any false sense of obligation."

"I don't know if you can secure another position without recommendations." "Don't let that bother you. I assure you I'll find something."

He retreated in good order, with no sign of defeat. But Sonia was furious. "He would condescend to help me, would he? Well, I'll show him I can get along without assistance from any one."

Weeks dragged by. Sonia forced herself to leave the room every morning and make some pretense of searching for employment. But there was no heart in her asking. She knew that when she had received the reply that they would be "nothing just now."

One evening Franklin came. His mother had finally been persuaded to go east. Although he assured Sonia that this was a distinct concession on her part, she failed to wax enthusiastic.

He accused her, half jokingly, of not desiring to marry him. "Oh, but you know I do," she replied. "But there is so much to be undone first that the idea doesn't mean anything."

She permitted Franklin to pay for the food when he came for dinner, but she could not accept other financial aid from him. One night when she had figured until she was dizzy she decided she would have to use some of the money Don had left. She consoled herself with the thought that she would pay every penny back before he returned.

After all, it was a gift. In her heart she knew he would never permit her to return it, and its solid substance gave her new courage. Of course she would find employment soon. There must be a job for her somewhere.

It was almost a month since Don had gone. She thought of him often, but with such pain that she pushed him from her mind. One night she woke to see his kind, perplexed eyes staring from the darkness. She knew it was an illusion, but she put her hand across her mouth to keep from screaming. She told herself that what she did, he had received her letter by now as well as the report from his mother.

But sleep had become impossible. At that moment she would have given anything to hear Don whisper, "Never mind, dear, I understand."

Yet when Franklin came the next evening she flung herself into his arms, crying, "Love me. Kiss me. Make me forget." "Forget what, sweetheart?" "Oh, the mess we've made of things. The difference between the lives we lead and what we intended to do."

Dear Brother and Sister—We, on behalf of the members of Refuge Division No. 201, knowing of the great sorrow that has entered your home, desire to convey to you our deepest sympathy for the recent sad bereavement, which you have suffered in the death of your infant daughter. Although we cannot fully realize your heart-ache, and our words can afford you but little comfort, yet there is One Who sees and sympathizes, and to Him alone must the bereaved ones look for comfort, and for fortitude to bear their trials and sorrows. It may seem strange that so young and pure a life should be so suddenly snatched away, yet God's ways are not our ways, and when sorrows surround us, we must look trustfully into the face of the Master and say, "Thy will be done."

Although you will miss your darling baby and will be lonely without her, may you never forget that little Marguerite is in a land where there is no more pain or sorrow and where the tender Shepherd cares for His little lambs. Your dear baby's with the angels. Playing, laughing, and never sad; And if you could see your darling, All your crushed hearts would be glad. Signed on behalf of the members of Refuge Division. Ruth Stevenson Agnes Arthur, Walter Weeks. KINDLY REMEMBERED. On the evening of Jan. 4, a pleasant event occurred at the home of Mrs. Everett Holmes, and the members and adherents of the Kingston Baptist church assembled there and presented her with an address, accompanied by a well-filled purse, as a recognition of her service as organist. Mr. Stephen Ackland read the address, and Mr. Daniel Ward made the presentation. The following is the address: Dear Mrs. Holmes—While mentally reviewing the work accomplished in Kingston Baptist Church during the past year, we are reminded of the efficient and cheerful help in which our organist and choir have assisted our pastor, to make the church services so helpful and inspiring. You, Mrs. Holmes, as our talented organist, and choir leader, have very faithfully and punctually contributed to the musical part of our services. As a small remembrance and a token of our appreciation and respect, we wish you to accept this gift accompanied with our sincere wish for a very Happy and Prosperous New Year. Signed on behalf of the members of Kingston Baptist Church. Daniel F. Fraser, Stephen Ackland.

Mrs. Holmes, replying, thanked them for their kind act, and assured them of her services as organist as long as her health and strength would permit, as it was a great pleasure for her to do so. The ladies kindly and abundantly provided a jainty supper, to which all did ample justice. The remainder of the evening was spent in music and song. Mrs. Holmes played some beautiful selections, to the delight of all present. After singing "God be with You till We Meet Again," the gathering dispersed, all feeling delighted with the event.

STOP THE FAT AND GET THIN The way to reduction is to stop the formation of fat. Modern science has found that way—by turning your food into fuel and energy—by supplying a natural element that helps do that. It is much better than starvation. That modern, scientific method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. Now the results in slender figures, new beauty and vitality, are seen everywhere. Each box of Marmola contains the formula, also the scientific reasons for results. So you know the effects are beneficial, and why they all occur. Learn what so many have learned in 20 years about it. Do it now. McCormick's Oven-kist JERSEY CREAM SODAS

Cable Head—At their December meeting the members met at the home of Mrs. (Capt.) John McDonnell with twelve members and one visitor present. It was decided to hold a dance in the Institute hall in aid of the Institute Fund. It was also decided that Whist would be continued in the usual way. The names and addresses of former pupils who are absent were procured and are to be forwarded to the school and are to be included in the school visitor present. After a pleasant social hour the meeting closed.

To the Electors of Ward 5 Ladies & Gentlemen:

I have again decided to offer my services to the electors of Ward 5 at the forthcoming Civic Election on February 8, 1928. Having represented you the past six years in the City Council, and the last four years as Chairman of the Finance Committee, my record is before you.

I stand for good clean Civic government. I am in favor of permanent work, consistent with our revenues. Our debt is growing, but the need of keeping our city in good shape is essential and the permanent work must go on. I am in favor of economy and will not support any increase in taxes unless absolutely necessary.

If elected, you can depend on me to safeguard your interests in every way, as I love my native city. Yours sincerely, T. W. L. PROWSE
