INSTRUMENTS RUN THE ODDITY SCALE

NEW YORK, Dec. 12 (AP)—Musical instruments that look like skeletons, coffee cups, combs and butter knives make up a collection in the hands of Dr. Frank Black, music director of the National Broadcasting Company.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12 (AP)—A joint meeting of the Y's Men's Club and the Kinsmen Club of Summerside was held last evening in the hall of the Y's Men's Club for the purpose of organizing the survey which is being made in a section of Summerside tonight and tomorrow night, as reported correctly in yesterday's Guardian, in connection with the coming visit of the mobile x-ray unit to Summerside.

Mr. Arthur Yardley, field organizer of the P.E.L. Tuberculosis League was present and addressed the meeting. He said that the purpose of this canvass was to save lives. Last year 87 people died of tuberculosis in Prince Edward Island and it has been estimated that there are 300 undiscovered active cases at present. In the normal course of events, said the speaker, these cases would be discovered but for some it would be too late for treatment. That is why the survey comes in. It is like lighting a fire. If you start early it can be controlled. The only way that tuberculosis can be contracted, he said, is from another person with tuberculosis. If these 300 undiscovered cases can be found it may be possible to break this endless chain of infection. It has been the experience in the country districts, said Mr. Jardine, that the great majority of the people will be behind this canvass.

Mr. H.T. Holman, J.P. presided at the meeting and explained the way in which the survey is to be

Merchant Seamen

In a return tabled in the House of Commons today, Secretary of State Paul Martin ruled that Canadian merchant seamen will not be accorded preference for employment in the civil service on the same basis as members of the armed services who served overseas.

This ruling deals with an issue raised recently both by merchant seamen themselves and the Canadian Legion. Representations were made to the Government by the armed services and the Canadian Legion. Representations were made to the Government by the armed services and the Canadian Legion.

Mr. Martin and other members of the Dominion Cabinet do not share this view. They hold that since wartime wages of merchant seamen were much higher than those of the uniformed forces, it would not be equitable to give them the same preference for government employment with members of the services.

The same principle is being applied by the government to establishment credits. A recent ruling was handed down to the effect that the seamen would not be eligible for these credits.

Forest Pest

While plotting his estimates through the chamber this afternoon, Minister of Agriculture, Mr. J. A. Glen stated that serious damage was being caused to forest areas in the Maritime Provinces by the spruce budworm.

Mr. Glen was unable to give an estimate of the number of square miles affected by this insect pest but said that exploration surveys were being made by members of his department to determine the extent of the damage and to develop on suitable remedial measures.

materially helping to seal off the gap through which the remnants of the German 7th Army were attempting to escape.

In January 1945 he requested that he be given a combatant role. He was posted to No 2 Sqn as Battle Captain. As a result of the heavy casualties during the grim fighting on 26 Feb Capt. McGowan took over the Sqn during the late morning's fighting. He led the remaining tanks of No 2 Sqn forward amid a barrage of artillery fire against determined infantry armed with bazookas. Capt. McGowan was wounded in the neck by a sniper's bullet which came from the trench. He continued his advance in the face of long range anti-tank fire which brewed several tanks on both sides of him. He was then further wounded by shell fragments close to the left eye. His wounds were bandaged by his crew and he continued the advance till the objective was reached.

Mr. McGowan's personal bravery at all times has been an inspiration to all ranks of his Regiment, and his versatility and technical skill have rendered invaluable service to the Unit throughout the advance across Northern Europe.

As a combat officer he handled his tanks with such tactical skill and to attain its objective despite difficult tank conditions and heavy tank losses. His cheerfulness in the face of difficulty has smoothed the way over many rough obstacles and his courage and ability as a mechanic and organizer have greatly aided the Unit to maintain in the field a maximum
