LECTURE AT ST. DUNSTON'S—It is seldom that the students of St. Dunstan's receive a treat such as that given them a few nights ago by Premier Bell. They followed him with the closest attention for fully an hour and a half while he introduced them to the many wonders of mysterious Egypt. There are men who have travelled as extensively as Mr. Bell but it is doubtful if there is anyone who possesses the same amount of observation and faculty for description. His vividness of portrayal was such that it required but a slight trick of the imagination to stand with him on the veranda of the hotel and watch almost the entire eastern world parade itself in the broad street below. He described the appearance of a great many types of the Eastern races, the picturesqueness of their dress, etc., and added many interesting facts about their modes of living. He circled with the students the great pyramid of Gizeh, with its base covering 13 acres and climbed 700 feet to its summit. Looking out from this elevation, over the great waste of sand it impressed him, he said, as if the desert was being tossed about like the sea during a storm and it was suddenly quieted by the divine injunction, "Peace, Be still." He took them out into the desert to visit the ruins of the once famous city of Thebes, the City of a Hundred gates immortalized by Homer. He visited with them the Tomb of Pharaoh the location of which was a mystery to European scientists until revealed recently through the agency of an American detective. Here they were introduced to the sole occupant of the Tomb, an Egyptian mummy—who "perhaps had walked in Thebes streets three thousand years ago." The bare description of these wonders of Egypt would have been sufficient to compel interest, but coupled with touches of humor and even a little ventriloquism it was irresistible. Mr. Bell's lecture was valuable to the students both from a geographical and historical point of view. He must indeed be a listless student who has not received from the lecture an inspiration and impulse to dive into the history and tradition of the East. The Reverend Rector as well as a number of the students commented on Mr. Bell's lecture, emphasizing its educational value, etc., and a vote of thanks and appreciation was tendered him through the president of St. Thomas Literary and Debating Society. It is the earnest wish of every student of the University that Mr. Bell will find it convenient to favor them again soon with one of his interesting and instructive lectures.

Soldiers Employment

Girls gave up their jobs to help work on the farms and keep things going. One time the want of food and ammunition being just as serious a matter as the want of soldiers, as one was no good without the other, there was a big impression made upon many, who had not much inclination for farm work, to go on the land and keep on the land and help production to help to win the war. But when the war was over these boys and girls left the farms as they thought there was nothing to demand their remaining there any longer, and so the farmer began to become impoverished even the labor he had while the boys were away. The boys who returned, I am sorry to say, have not settled down to any great extent as farm help. The inducements held out to them by the Government, to become farmers, is such as to prevent any boy with any ambition returning as a helper, while the inducements offered by the Civil Re-establishment Board, for national training in any industry, has tempted many who otherwise would have returned to their father's farm, to remain in the cities and become consumers instead of producers.

Want of labor is the whole cause for the selling of farms, for during the war it was easier to get labor than today. The young men are not satisfied to remain on the old homesteads under the old conditions and the old people cannot any longer keep the farms going. While there are good prices given for farm and stock they are selling out and going to the city to live or buying small places, where they can work for a living. I think it strange that the soldiers do not stick up more for the civil re-establishment of nurses, who left home and comfort and the best of positions and followed them to the battle fields, assisted in dressing their wounds and roughing it nearly as much as the soldiers themselves. I think nurses are just as entitled to have some thing done for them as the soldiers. They have to face the world for a living, but you don't hear much about them asking to be assisted and nobody seems to care whether they find situations and employment when demobilized or not.

Instantly! Corns Stop Hurting!
Corns Loosen and Lift Out
No pain! Few drops loosen corns and calluses so they fall off—Try it! Magic!

For a few cents you can get a small bottle of the magic drug freezone recently discovered by a Cincinnati man. Just ask at any drug store for a small bottle of freezone. Apply a few drops upon a tender, aching corn and instantly all soreness disappears and shortly you will find the corn so loose that you lift it out, root and all, with the fingers.

Just think! Not one bit of pain before applying freezone or afterwards. It doesn't even irritate the surrounding skin. Hard corns, soft corns, or corns between the toes, also hardened calluses on bottom of feet shrivel up and fall off without hurting a particle. It is a scientific compound made from ether. Get the genuine!
