—HAVE NARROW ESCAPE — The occupants of a car while driving over the Dunk River bridge had a narrow escape on Saturday evening when their car plunged over the bridge taking with it the iron railing. The car just missed plunging into the water and landed on the opposite bank. The party were returning from Borden and going towards Summerside. The driver, Norman Richards of Souris with two nephews were not seriously hurt. There is a sharp turn just before the bridge and the driver thinks something went wrong with steering gear. The car was practically demolished.

—DEATH OF MR. JOHN R. GLOVER—The death occurred on Saturday at his home in Summerside of John R. Glover at the advanced age of 85 years. Mr. Glover had been in failing health for some time. He was formerly of Kelvin but had lived in Summerside for some years, where he was most highly esteemed, for his many fine characteristics. He leaves to mourn his wife formerly Miss Louise Mill of Mill Point, one son Frank at home and one daughter, Mrs. Darius Hogg of Wilmot, to whom sympathy is extended. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon from his late residence to the Peoples Cemetery at Kensington. S.

—DEATH OF MRS. THOMAS LAUGHLIN—Many friends will regret to learn of the passing of Mrs. Thomas Laughlin on Friday at her home in Sherbrooke. Mrs. Laughlin was only ill about three weeks and her death comes as a shock to her family and friends. Mrs. Laughlin was formerly Miss Mary Ellen Hammill of Freetown. She was 77 years of age. All her married life was spent in Sherbrooke where she was beloved for her kind and charitable disposition. She was most hospitable and her house was always open to friend and stranger, everyone being sure of a welcome at the Laughlin home. Mrs. Laughlin was a devout member of St. Paul's Church and received the consolation of her religion before she died. There are left to mourn three sons, Raymond on the homestead, Walter and Edward of Sherbrooke; four daughters, Mrs. Percy Weeks, Pope Road, Mrs. Major MacDonald, Sherbrooke; Mrs. Thomas Noonan and Mrs. James Condon of Richmond; and one brother, Mr. Patrick Hammill, Freetown, as well as a number of grand children and great grandchildren, to all of whom much sympathy is extended. The funeral was held on Monday morning from her late residence to St. Paul's Church, Summerside, Rev. Fr. Kelly celebrated the Solemn High Mass of Requiem, Rt. Rev. Mgr. MacLellan officiated at the last rites at the grave. The funeral was largely attended, many old friends coming from distant parts to pay a last tribute of respect to a dear friend. The pallbearers were Messrs. Thomas Noonan, James Condon, Major MacDonald, Peter Doyle, Wilfred Hammill and Walter Hammill. S.

SUPERIORITY

today, to find that the Germans had taken possession of a barren islet in the middle of the river.

A Perfect Target

Heavy trench mortars, which pollus have had few chances to use since the war began, were trained on the perfect target. The fish-tailed mortar bombs, which closely resemble airplane bombs, rose high in the air, turned over in a slow curve and descended on the Germans.

The latter hastily scrambled into a small boat and made for their own shore, pursued by a hail of French machine-gun bullets. French military experts were at a loss to explain the aim of the Germans in attempting to occupy the exposed island.

In the attack on Forbach, German shelling alternated between intermittent shots into the town proper and a bombardment of three sides of the outlying sector.

Dominate Saarbruecken

Military sources said French artillery batteries behind Forbach dominated the German industrial city of Saarbruecken, where commercial activity has been paralyzed by military action.

The French general staff said it realized the Germans were trying to reduce the salient which bulges into Germany where the frontier runs almost straight north from the village of Emmersweiler west of Forbach.

This bulge where the defence has been described by Reich military commentators as "dangerous," is the direct objective in the three areas of German fire.

French and British planes carried our flights far into German territory. At least three German planes attempted a similar flight into France, but without similar success.

The three planes were sighted over Tourcoing, seven miles northeast of Lille and close to the Belgian border. They were greeted by a spirited barrage from French anti-aircraft artillery and machine-guns, and all three quickly flew away over Belgium.

—MANY POTATOES MOVING—Potatoes are moving into Summerside in large quantities at the present time. The steamer David H. Atwater, which has been loading all last week sailed yesterday morning with 45,000 bags of seed potatoes. The steamer was loaded by Simmons and MacFarlane and MacFarlane Produce and destined for Norfolk, Vir. The steamer Duba from Sorel, Quebec is at the Marine wharf taking on a cargo of potatoes and will probably finish loading at Souris.

—ENTERTAIN SOCIAL CLUB—Mrs. Josephus Smallman entertained the Social Club of Trinity United Church on Friday evening. The ladies came in costume and Hallowe'en music and songs were contributed by some of the guests. Mrs. Douglas Gordon was the pianist for the sing song and Mrs. George Bowness accompanied for the solos sung by Mrs. A. S. MacKay and Mrs. Smallman. Mrs. Gordon gave a reading. A dainty lunch was served. The decorations used were in keeping with the Hallowe'en season. S.

Goodbye Mr. Chips Playing At Summerside

"Goodbye, Mr. Chips", James Hilton's charming novel of the life of an English school teacher, is now playing at the Capitol Theater, Summerside in the long awaited screen adaption, which brings to audiences, following his triumphs in the "The Citadel", Robert Donat, together with Greer Garson beautiful English actress. Third of the pictures filmed in M. G. M.'s English studios, "Goodbye Mr. Chips" tells the story of a kindly school master starting his career in his twenties becoming a veritable institution in a big English school and shaping the careers of boys destined to become great men. Donat brings deep understanding to the role, which carries him through four periods. His makeup is enhanced by the psychology which makes the character fairly live at each age, Miss Garson is a compellingly skillful actress as well as beautiful. Terry Kilburn, the appealing youngster of "Lord Jeff" has an interesting role, playing four generations of boys who attend the school, grow up and send their sons back. Dramatic highlights include the rescue of the heroine in the Tyrolean Alps and a spectacular air raid during the world war with football and cricket games at famous English schools.

ficials in charge of Government purchases and appointments in Canada that patronage lists "be destroyed and not replaced." The letter, said Dr. Manion what unanswered. It reads as follows:

Letter To Premier

Ottawa, 22nd September, 1939.
Dear Mr. Prime Minister:—
I regret to inform you that I am receiving letters from various parts of the country claiming that patronage is being indulged in very much the same as in peace times.
I had letters about this from Hamilton, Regina, Halifax, and other places. I have been ignoring them in the hope that instructions might go out that, in view of the fact that all classes are expected to enlist and do their bit for us during the war, all classes also would have the right to tender on supplies and to obtain whatever positions there may be. The letter I have from Halifax claims that "not only in contracts but in employing ordinary labor to work at the outer defences and forts surrounding Halifax," the patronage system is being utilized to the utmost.
I am quite sure you are not aware of this but I suggest, with the best of intentions, that you have instructions sent out that this type of thing must cease, particularly as it applies to war work but it seems to me that at this time it ought to cease in regard to all work. I am placing the matter before you with the hope that you will give instructions along that line.
Yours very sincerely,
(Sgd.) "R. J. MANION"

Mr. King says that if I "would make public the specific details of any instances of political charges . . . they will be at once investigated."

The Prime Minister is better at off ing investigations than at correc ng abuses. At a cost of $30,000 he investigated the scandalous Bren gun contract, but though Mr. Justice Davis condemned the transaction on practically every page of his report, the only result was a violent defence of the minister responsible by Mr. King, his ministers, and his party. In spite of all the evidence adduced, Major Hahn and his friends are still working on the contract. Therefore, the public may justly doubt the utility of accepting at its face value Mr. King's expressed willingness to "investigate" irregularities. Anyway, it is not investigations that the public wants, but a cessation of favoritism and patronage.

Let Mr. King adopt the suggestion in my letter to him (unanswered) of Sept. 22 and issue specific and emphatic instructions to all military and civil officials in charge of government purchases and appointments of any kind in all centres of Canada that patronage lists must be destroyed and not replaced, and that all appointments —during wartime at any rate— must be made absolutely on a basis of merit and not on political grounds.

And let Mr. King make it his duty to see that his instruction are carried out.

MOLOTOFF

House, the United States repeal of the arms embargo simply is a mask to cover their struggle for profit."

Molotoff declared the Russian foreign policy of peace would be continued and made no reference to indicate that Russia might provide military aid to Germany.

"We know the best foreign policy for the Soviet Union is our tested policy of peace which already has secured for us no mean successes," he asserted.

The home policy he described as "our constant concern during all these years for the security of our country and the strength of our defences."

The Premier-Foreign Commissar heaped criticism again and again on capitalistic countries, particularly singling out Britain, France and the United States.

Joseph Stalin, war commissar Klementi Voroshiloff and other Soviet leaders applauded Molotoff's speech. Diplomatic representatives present included Sir William Seeds, Ambassador from Great Britain.

His speech followed publication of a manifesto by the Communist Internationale which urged workers of the world to revolt against the "imperialist war," accused the United States of "warming its hands near the fire of war" and called the Soviet Union the "rampart of peace, liberty and socialism and the fatherland of the workers of all countries."

The celebration interrupted the Finnish-Soviet talks underway here on Russia's demands for establishment of military and naval bases on the territory of its little northwestern neighbor.

The manifesto said that Italy was "only waiting for an opportune moment to hurl itself on the conquered and to carry off its part of the booty."

Fox Educational Week Officially Opened At S'side

Interesting Five - day Program Launched By Lieut. Governor B. W. LePage.

The third annual Silver Fox Educational Week at Summerside was formally opened yesterday afternoon by His Honor Lieut.-Governor B. W. LePage. New interest was taken in the demonstrations this year by the addition of poultry and mink. This educational feature is held under the auspices of the Summerside Board of Trade with the co-operation of the Provincial Government. Mr. W. J. Lidstone chairman of the Fox Educational Committee is to be congratulated on his arrangements for the week's program. He is ably assisted by Mr. G. R. MacQuarrie, mgr., T. D. Carruthers, and C. B. Rogers.

W. F. Burke, provincial fox field man, has charge of the fox and mink demonstrations and Mr. F. M. Nash, Dominion Senior Poultry field man, has charge of the poultry demonstrations, Mr. L. W. Hancock, and Mr. B. G. Rogers have charge of the entertainment committee.

Afternoon program:— The opening program took place in the main room of the Labour Union Hall, which was appropriately decorated in red, white and blue. The speakers platform was draped with the Union Jack. The Summerside Citizens Band were in attendance and played selections during the opening ceremonies. A large number of children were present. Mr. Lidstone presided, and in his remarks stressed the fact that now more than ever men and women are called upon to do their utmost in patriotic service and to raise produce on the farm is one way to serve your country. The introduction of poultry into this educational feature was mainly with the idea of improving the poultry industry of the province. Mayor John E. Campbell extended a welcome to visitors and wished the committee every success in its efforts along educational lines. Hon. B. W. LePage who was called upon to open the demonstration week, expressed his pleasure at seeing so many young people present, 'as they are the citizens of tomorrow," he said.

The educational value of the demonstrations cannot be too strongly stressed and he felt quite sure that the governments would continue to give the support they have done in the past. Premier Campbell in a short address congratulated the committee on their decision to carry on in spite of the war and felt sure their efforts would meet with success. Hon. W. H. Dennis, Minister of Agriculture, gave a short address, stressing the benefits that have been derived from the field work of his department both in foxes and poultry. He welcomed the opportunity to speak to the children and gave an outline of the club work in poultry that is being accomplished by the Dominion Government and the Provincial Government. Other speakers were Messrs B. W. Robinson; E. P. Foley and L. R. Allen.

Poultry booth:— The poultry demonstration room is well worth a visit. Mr. Nash who has charge of this department, has arranged an educational practical demonstration dealing with every phase of poultry raising from production to the finished product. Brooder houses, laying houses, self feeder and hoppers are all featured. Charts dealing with the correct cooling methods for eggs, grading and packing, stressing the importance of care in storing eggs.

Marketing and distribution of eggs and poultry have a place on the program. Charts relating to grading with a view of standardizing the products of the hennery are on view and Mr. Nash and his assistants are on hand to discuss any problems with the poultry breeder. A chart dealing with the record of performance of different birds was studied with interest. A candling room has been rigged up at the lower end of the booth. Mr. Nash will put on demonstrations of plucking, dressing and preparing birds for market for the benefit of visitors. Lectures and demonstrations will be given each day throughout the week.

The Experimental Fox Farm have a booth near the entrance to the main hall where Mr. Smith has arranged charts and practical demonstrations on the raising and feeding of foxes. Mr. Smith, Dr. Gunn will discuss the scientific breeding of foxes during the week.

Evening Program

The evening program at the fox demonstrations was in charge of the Experimental Fox Farm. The Supt. Mr. G. Ennis Smith gave an interesting resume of his visit to Norway. Speaking particularly of their efforts in raising platina type foxes, Mr. Smith said they were very difficult to raise and did not advise Island ranchers to go in for them extensively. Mr. Smith was of the opinion that the Norwegians had made some mistakes in the selections of their breeding stock with regard to that particular type of fox Mr. Smith thought that the Island ranchers were ahead of the Norwegians in breeding practices. Mr. Smith gave demonstrations in breeding and selection for the improvement of type and quality. The foxes used in the demonstrations were from the Experimental Farm. Charts were also used in the demonstrations. A number of questions were answered relative to breeding and type of fur. Mr. Robert Inman spoke on the importance of vitamins in the diet of a fox especially at this time when there is a tendency to feed processed feeds. Vitamins supplied much that is found in the natural diet of foxes in the wild.

C. K. Gunn spoke on the optimum time to mate vixens in order to obtain maximum litter size. Experimental evidence was presented and illustrated by lantern slides, to prove the advisability of mating vixens early in the aestrus period in order to get large litters. The lectures were all on educational lines and the ranchers attending expressed appreciation to Mr. Smith and his staff for their valuable information. S.

wander in the wilderness and wait for a better day," Gandhi said.

"Even now, the ugly spectacle of playing off the Moslem league against the congress party seems to be going on. I had expected that the stupendous European crisis would bring a better perception to British statesmen.

"The mention of the Indian princes in this connection is particularly unfair. They owe their existence to a paramount power and have no status independent of it. They represent nobody but themselves. To invite the congress party to settle matters with the princes is the same as inviting it to settle matters with a paramount power."

The veteran nationalist leader had just returned after lengthy discussions with the Marquess of Linlithgow, viceroy of India, over the government's refusal to hold immediate consultations on the question of giving India dominion status.

Lord Linlithgow announced collapse of the conversations with Gandhi and other Indian nationalists last night and immediately invoked the emergency powers in the government of India act.

These powers vest authority in the provincial governors in the event the constitutional machinery fails to operate— an eventuality which the viceroy regards as having materialized with resignation of five provincial ministries controlled by the congress party.
