

CARRYING GOLD ACROSS THE OCEAN

How the Valuable Cargo is Safeguarded—The Responsibility of the Captain of the Ship—The Little Chance Thieves Would Have to Make a Haul.

New York, April 6—The captain of one of the big trans Atlantic liners which carries in its strong room millions of gold a year, while recently discussing the subject with a reporter, said: "After the gold, worth perhaps half a million or a million, and which is packed in solid wood boxes, strengthened with enormous bands of iron, has been placed in the bullion room, access to which is only obtained through the flooring of the saloon, I sign the receipt, and then become responsible for its safety."

"From this moment [I] arrive at Liverpool the key never leaves my person, it hanging suspended from my neck inside my clothes by a piece of ribbon."

"Do I think it impossible for thief to obtain access to the strong room? Fifty desperadoes, shipping as passengers, might, as you say, wait till we were out in the open, and then, after murdering us all, help themselves to some of the gold—not all, it would be too heavy—and then take to the boats. Yes, fifty determined men might do this. But how are fifty criminals to assemble in New York without police becoming aware of their presence. Why, I should spot them before we started. Responsibilities for such treasuries as I carry sharpen the wit. No, the money is safe enough on the ocean."

"I simply from habit keep my eyes open during the voyage till we reach the docks—not that my responsibility ceases—then. Should the ship arrive on a Saturday or on some holiday the vessel is considered at sea, and not only is it left sternly refused, but the most extraordinary precautions are taken to prevent a surprise attack from shore."

As soon as the officials from London, consisting generally of a few detectives, clerks of the steamship company—arrive the bullion room is opened, the boxes are removed in a strong net—each box being checked as it appears—placed on a trolley, and well guarded, hurried without a moment's delay to the bullion truck. When this is done and the word "All right!" is pronounced I have a big sigh of relief, for my responsibility then ceases.

"The bullion truck, as you perhaps know is a large-shaped box, lined with solid plates of iron, about four feet long by three feet high, and secured with several locks of the latest design. "When the gold is to be carried, by rail the bullion truck is always sandwiched in between the engine and the conductor's car, so that when the conductor has not got his eye on it the engineer or fireman has."

A MILLION NEEDLES

COULD NOT INFLICT THE TORTURE WOMEN SUFFER FROM HEADACHES

Headache is not in itself a disease, but a symptom or accompaniment of other diseases, principally those of the stomach, liver and bowels, such as Constipation, Dyspepsia, Liver Trouble, Bad Blood, Female Complaints, General Debility and Weakness. Headache is common to both sexes, but more frequently affects females.

The varieties of headache most common are sick or bilious headache, nervous headache, headache from constipation, debility or indigestion, periodical and spasmodic headache. Undoubtedly the cause must be removed before permanent relief can be had.

removes the cause of the headache, and not only does this but it also restores the entire system to healthy action and buoyant vigor.

"I was troubled with headache for a number of years, but could get nothing to help me. I procured a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and finding it was doing me so much good, I got two more. I am now fully cured and think there is nothing in the world like Burdock Blood Bitters for headache."

CAT HELPS MAKE WEATHER PROBS

New York, April 6—Charles H. Steele, of Brookfield, Mass., one of the almost numberless weather prophets in which the state abounds, has a distinctive feature which does not belong to the other prophets; in his predictions he is aided by his great cat, Tab. He attaches as much importance to the cat's paw prints as detectives do to finger prints, and he says that in eight years the cat has never failed him. The animal is a large tiger with a broad, intelligent head yellow eyes, a coat as sleek as velvet, and double paws. When wishing to ascertain whether there is a storm coming, Mr. Steele puts the cat out in the yard, which is sandy. If her tracks are plainly visible he at once knows that a storm is brewing. By the strength of the impression of her paws he can tell how near or how far off the storm is.

At the beginning of each winter he places the animal in the yard, and then by examining the tracks he makes a prognostication as to the number of snowstorms which will take place. In eight years he has never made a mistake, and although he is jeered at he insists that there will be thirty-three storms before the winter of 1906 is over. He refuses to tell how he arrives at this calculation, but says that after he has examined the cat's tracks he retires to his room to make a study of the elements for forty-eight hours, and his prognostication at the end of that time is the result. Tab is Mr. Steele's constant companion, eating with him at the table, sleeping with him, and following him about his work. He takes care that she is well fed and happy and that she stays in his room. It is believed that if anything happened to the cat Mr. Steele's powers as a weather prophet would vanish.

MOORE & McLEOD.

KING OF UGANDA.

LONDON, April 7.—The boy king of Uganda is becoming one of the most interesting figures in Central Africa. The dusky ruler has an English tutor; he plays football and rides himself on a free wheel bicycle. While mounted on the latter he is escorted by two of the African rifles on each side to catch him in case he falls.

WHAT CAUSES SNORING.

When asleep, people that snore breathe through the mouth instead of the nostrils which are choked with catarrh. Just use "Catarrhose" before retiring and you'll quickly cure the snoring habit. By destroying the cause of catarrh and healing the membranes, Catarrhose makes a complete cure in every case; it cleans the nostrils, stops the discharge and prevents dripping in the throat in a few minutes. Nothing so pleasant or certain to cure snoring, catarrh or colds as Catarrhose—that's worth remembering.
