Securities Hold Firm On London Mart Despite Raids

LONDON, Sept. 2—(CP)—Security prices held firm in the market today in the face of timid speculative interest and aid raid warnings.

Government bonds rose to around the best prices since the war started last September. The war loan 3 1-2's added as much as 1-4 point at one time, although late trading saw the advance pared.

Textile and tobacco issues were favored and coppers closed higher. The last apparently benefited by rumors the government made a deal with Rhodesian copper producers to extend an agreement to take substantial tonnages for another year.

Oils moved ahead over a broad front but industrial leaders were spotted with losses. Rubber shares were evenly maintained.

A cheering item to the market was the annual report of Wardle & Davenport, silk and hosiery manufacturers, who announced the best years since 1929-30.

Deanna Durbin In "It's A Date" At Capitol, S'side

A grown-up Deanna Durbin made it seven straight hits when her newest film, "It's a Date," opened before enthusiastic audiences yesterday at the Capitol theatre, Summerside.

In many ways the new Joe Pasternak production is the Universal star's best picture. It has the most colorful setting—Hawaii—in which Deanna has ever appeared. Its comedy rates with the funniest ever screened and its romance is as poignant as the most successful hit-makers in Hollywood can produce.

The music, with Deanna singing four numbers, is again outstanding.

One of the star's finest supporting casts shares credit for her latest triumph. Kay Francis, as Deanna's mother, a famous and glamorous actress, returns to high favor with an excellent performance and Walter Pidgeon, as romantic interest for both Deanna and Kay, has perhaps the most successful role of his career.

Plot Moves Swiftly

The story begins on Broadway, moves speedily to Maine and finally to Hawaii. Deanna and Miss Francis are offered the same stage role by a producer, a part Deanna tries to refuse when she learns her mother wants to play it. Pretending love for Pidgeon and saying she will "give up her career," Deanna sets out in pursuit of the hapless Pidgeon, whose love for the mother is secretly returned. Who gets the role, and who gets the man, is unfolded in a surprising and suitable finish to one of the year's most entertaining pictures.

French In Martinique Favor British

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Sept. 2.—(CP Cable)—More than 90 per cent. of the people of Martinique, French West Indian Island, want to fight on at Britain's side, according to a resident of St. Lucia, B.W.I., who has just arrived here from Martinique.

He said the natives of Martinique are solidly pro-British and anxious to sever relations with the Vichy government. He said the minority consists of large land-owners, persons in the government service and soldiers, who are being used to suppress pro-British demonstrations.

(Travellers calling at Guadeloupe, another French Island in the West Indies, reported last week demonstrations were staged after the Petain government signed the armistice with Germany. One visitor said 30 per cent. of the residents on that island were backing General de Gaulle, leader of the "Free Frenchmen.")

Since the armistice, the Martinique visitor said, mayors of several communities there had demonstrated loyalty to the Allied cause.

Both French colonies are known here to be suffering severe economic strain and to be facing a shortage of food. Commercial activities on the islands are almost at a standstill, it was reported. The bulk of the 1940 production of sugar and rum, chief exports of the islands, have not been shipped out.

Members of a French family living here received word, too, that Martinique was completely out of communication with France for some days after the signing of the armistice. The position now was not known here.

The prizes were won by Miss Rita Shea and Mr. Charles Dunn, consolation by Mrs. Hudson Coughlin. Dancing was then enjoyed, music was furnished by local talent.

Master Dale McKenna, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald McKenna has returned from the Prince County Hospital and is convalescing favorably under the care of Miss Anna Whelan.

Roosevelt Calls For "Absolute National Unity"

NEWFOUND GAP, Tennessee-North Carolina Boundary, Sept. 2.—(AP)—President Roosevelt told an audience today "the greatest attack that has ever been launched against freedom of the individual is nearer the Americas than ever before."

To meet that attack, he said, "we must prepare beforehand—for preparing later may, and probably would, be too late."

In an address in which he dedicated the great Smoky Mountains National Park "to the free people of America," the President called for "absolute national unity," in the interests of total defence.

Mr. Roosevelt said: "We need a conviction, felt deep in us all," he added, "that there are no divisions among us. We are all members of the same body. We are all Americans."

"We are free today," the President said. "If we join together now — men, women and children—and face the common menace as a united people, we shall be free tomorrow." But he admonished, the nation must prepare in a thousand ways.

"Men are not enough," Mr. Roosevelt declared. "They must have arms. They must have skilled leaders — who must be trained.

"Ne bases must be establishd to enable our fleet to defend our shores. Men and women must be taught to create the supplies that we need. And we must counter the agents of the dictators within our country.

"Our vital task of conservation is to preserve the freedom which our forefathers won in this land, and the liberties which were proclaimed in our declaration of independence and embodied in our constitution."

Mr. Roosevelt warned that the United States people must be prepared to make sacrifices to achieve a strong defence. But he said they need have no fear of losing social improvements that have come to them in later years.

There is an enemy at home, he said, in the "mean and petty spirit that mocks at ideals, sneers at sacrifice and pretends the American people can live by bread alone."

"I hope it (the great Smoky Park) will not belong to them in theory alone and that in practice the ownership of this park will not be in the hands of some strange government puppet subject to an overseas overlord.

"I hope the use of it will not be confined to people coming hither on government-specified days and on government-directed tours.

"I hope the trees will not be slaughtered by the axe in order that a government may conduct wars of aggression against other nations.

"I hope that roads and paths and trails will still be built in the cause of liberty of recreation and not confined to the ulterior purposes of a war machine controlled by an individual or an oligarchy."

SEES VICTORY IN STARS

The war will end by Nov. 15 with a resounding British victory if C.Q.M.S. R. H. Horstead's reading of the stars is correct. Horstead, who comes from Windsor and is now overseas with a Scottish regiment, claims to have foretold the beginning and end of the last war. He has checked his zodiac charts several times and always gets the same results, he says.

Teachers Hold Convention At Hunter River

The teachers of Hunter River and the surrounding districts held their local convention in Hunter River School on Tuesday, August 27th with approximately twenty-five in attendance. In the absence of the president and vice-president Mr. Melvin MacDowell was appointed chairman.

The following committees were then appointed:

Resolutions: Miss Woodside, Miss MacLeod.

Question Box: Miss Brown, Miss Trainor.

Nominations: Miss MacKenzie, Miss Matheson.

Press: Miss Inman, Mr. Currie.

The first speaker of the morning was Mr. Reginald MacDonald who expressed the view that the first forward step in our Educational system should be in the way of the larger unit of administration. He also sounded a hope that teachers will soon have some raise in salary.

Mr. Edward MacPhail, Supervisor of Schools read a letter from the Superintendent of Education relating to War Savings Certificates, which stated that those receiving salaries of $600 and upwards must now contribute 2 per cent of their salaries as a war tax. Those receiving smaller salaries are asked to contribute in the form of War Savings Certificates.

Mr. MacPhail referred to the difficulty of obtaining certain annual school meeting reports and teachers' notices of engagement, and asked the co-operation of the teachers in these matters. He also asked all teachers to report to their supervisors by the end of September all pupils who have not attended seventy-five per cent of the teaching days, stating name, age, name of parents, days attended, etc.

Miss Verna Darrach, Director of the Junior Red Cross, expressed her pleasure in attending the convention. She gave a report of the splendid work done by the Red Cross in the past year.

The final speaker of the morning session was Supervisor MacKenzie. He referred to what the teacher should teach the children about the present war. It is inevitable that some attiude must be taken. He read an article in this regard addressed to the teachers of New Zealand, and said that the same should apply to our teachers. The article stated that the teacher should act as a buffer between the child and the world, but that the senior pupils should have clear ideas of what the war is about.

During the afternoon, talks on methods of teaching geography were given by Miss Matheson, Miss Holroyd, Miss MacLeod and Miss Stewart. Mr. Melvin MacDowell gave an illustration of how to teach the idea of positive and negative numbers in algebra, and Miss Woodside explained how to conduct a baseball spelling match.

Miss Gillan of the P.E.I. Libraries showed some very interesting lantern slides.

Questions were then answered from the question box by Mr. MacPhail, Mr. MacKenzie, and the teachers present.

The following nominations were brought in:—

President: Miss Woodside.

Vice-president: Mr. Melvin MacDowell.

Secretary: Miss MacKenzie.

Several resolutions were then read by the resolution committee.

The meeting adjourned with the National Anthem.

Tank Experts Assist With New Brigade

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—(CP)—British and United States tank experts are assisting Canadian army officials in organizing the new Canadian armored brigade and it is possible that a number of armored fighting vehicles built in the United States will be obtained for the new unit of the Canadian Active Service Force, it was learned here today from informed sources.

Col. F. F. Worthington, who has been in command of the armored fighting vehicle training centre at Camp Borden, Ont., and who heads the new brigade, has been in Washington conferring with American tank officials in the war department and British officers. He is expected to visit tomorrow the army testing ground at Aberdeen, Md., near Baltimore, where the new mechanized equipment is put through its paces.

The United States army armored corps of two divisions presumably is being investigated by Col. Worthington, with a view to incorporating some of its features into the Canadian brigade.

At present the American corps is using light tanks of about 10 to 12 tons and some combat cars, in addition to a few medium tanks of about 25 tons. A large contract has been let for additional medium tanks and a group of British tank officials are here negotiating for 4,000 of these 25-ton Juggernauts.

Well-informed military circles here believe that some of these medium tanks may go to the training centre at Camp Borden to give the four battalions in the armored brigade the latest American equipment to work with along with the tanks being developed in Canadian factories.

The fall silhouette will be straight and narrow with lowered waistline, says a New York despatch.

You don't like it? That's too bad. Because, of course, you, too, will adopt the new silhouette, come fall. "They" have spoken, warns Amy Porter, fashion expert of The Associated Press. "They," by the way, are Parisian designers—Schiaparelli, Balenciaga and the rest, who control fashion trends war or no war.

Some experts think North American women won't accept the new silhouette in its severest form. They think women accustomed to the comfort and grace of 1939 fashions with natural waistlines, flaring skirts, may rebel. For the rebels, there'll still be unregimented fashions. And narrow skirt effects will be achieved painlessly, by means of pressed pleats, inverted pleats, front and back shirring.

Right now, whether you realize it or not, you're probably a living example of a transition silhouette, says the A.P.'s writer. Notice, that print dress you have on. Doesn't the skirt fit a little closer than last year's? And how about your spring suit? Wasn't the jacket rather long, with fullness starting below the hipline? Transition again—a device used by dressmakers to accustom you to gradually changing lines.

Early fall collections show dropped waistlines, even in fur coats. Skirt fullness in dresses is confined to the front so that there's a straight panel-like line in back—and new corsets are inches longer. Everything points to a swing of the pendulum back to the 1928 clothes—sometimes called the ugliest styles women ever wore—with short, narrow skirts and wide belts encircling hips. If "they" take a notion to lengthen skirts, we'll be back to the post-war hobble skirts of 1918, when a girl could get on a street car all right, but couldn't get off unless she jumped into somebody's arms.

AN EYE-OPENER

When an English peer was the principal guest at a dinner given in New York, the little daughter of his host, who had been stealing surreptitious glances at him during the meal, said to him shyly: "And you are really and truly an English lord?

"Yes," he answered pleasantly, "really and truly."

"I have often thought I should like to see an English lord," she went one," "and—and—"

"And now you are satisfied?" he interrupted laughingly.

"N-no," replied the little girl "I'm not satisfied; I'm a good deal disappointed!"
