TELLING COLORS APART

What is termed the color sense is the power or ability to distinguish kinds or varieties of light and their distinctive tints. We owe the faculty of doing this to the structure of the eye and its elaborate connecting nerve machinery.

A Surprise

"The doctor has just told me," said the friendly neighbor, "that your husband cannot recover."

COYLE FAMILY IS PATRIOTIC

The Coyle family, on Richmond street, between Queen and Pownall, can hold up its head with the proudest, for with all of the five sons, on active service it is doing a most noble duty for King and Country.

The oldest boy, Philip fought with the Australians at the Dardanelles, was wounded three times; the last time, severely, in the leg. Word reached his mother, Mrs. Stephen Coyle, but recently that this son had arrived in Australia, being transferred with other Anzac troops from England to the Southern Commonwealth.

The second son, Louis, went overseas with the 105th, crossed to France with the first draft and was wounded in the shoulder.

Mr. Stephen Coyle, the father of those gallant sons, is seriously ill with rheumatism, and Mrs. Coyle is much distressed over the absence and perils of all her boys, so she applied for an extension of leave for this, her youngest son—as he expects his unit to leave shortly for England.

This extension of leave was refused and, hard as it was to part with him, her last and youngest son, after a reunion of only one day, Mrs. Coyle had to bid good-bye to her boy yesterday morning when he left by the early express en route to Toronto.

THE DEEPEST MINE.

The mine that goes farther down than any other in the world is the rock salt near Berlin, Germany, which is 4,127 feet. It is not, however, straight down, but somewhat slanting.

The deepest boring in the world is an artesian well at Potsdam, Missouri, which is 5,500 feet down or more than one mile straight down.

Ringworm on Child's Head

Caused Great Distress and Spread to Neck and Ears—Cure Was Speedily Effectuated When Right Treatment Was Recommended.

Grand Bend, Ont., Sept. 14.—There is no disease of the skin more obstinate than ringworm, and the mother who writes this letter does so fully realizing what it will mean to other anxious mothers to know about Dr. Chase's Ointment.

This remarkable cure was brought about two years ago, and as there has been no return of the distressing disease there can be no doubt that the cure is permanent.

Mrs. D. Stebbins, Grand Bend, Ont., writes: "I am going to tell you of my experience with Dr. Chase's Ointment. My little girl had sores come out on her head which looked like ringworms. They were spreading fast, and I tried home treatment, but nothing helped her. I took her to the doctor, and he opened some of the sores, which were as big as the yolk of an egg. The salve he gave me to put on was very severe, and the poor child would cry for an hour or more after the application. For six weeks it continued to spread all over her head, and came down to her neck and ears. She suffered terribly. At last some kind ladies told me about Dr. Chase's Ointment, so I got a box, and the first time I put it on she was relieved of pain, and the second time the swelling was all gone. Before we had finished the first box the sores were nearly all gone. I have told all the people around here about your Ointment, and I cannot praise it too much. It is now two years since my little girl was troubled in this way, and it never came back, so you can see she is completely cured. You are at liberty to use this statement for the benefit of others who may be suffering in a similar manner."

Joseph Brenner, J.D., endorses this statement as follows: "This is to certify that I am personally acquainted with Mrs. D. Stebbins of Grand Bend, Ont., and believe her statement with reference to Dr. Chase's Ointment to be true and correct."

LAMENT

(Spring, 1917) We thought the Spring at least was ours. And when the violets came again Our hearts would dance and flame again. Triumphant with the flowers. We thought that with the lilac-spire Some tender blue would spring anew. In dusty ways and bring anew The old sweet lost desire. We thought whatever winter took With seed of April sod would wake Our wistful youth, and God would make Laughter in tree and brook. But all in vain; the roses laid This year no meaning bare to us. Their faces once so fair to us No sudden glory made. For we are housed too long with grief To virtue find in bud or leaf. In vain the fields renew themselves. The bending blades renew themselves. Their gift, how slight, how brief!—Winifred Cotter in The Canadian Magazine for June.

"REAL" ARTIFICIAL HANDS ARE MADE

Newspapers from Holland have long articles telling of the wonderful strides made in Germany in medicine and surgery as a result of the exigencies of the war. Thousands of German soldiers who have lost their hands, their arms and legs are being fitted with artificial members in a hospital in Singen, which are said to be the most ingenious and simple substitutes yet devised.

An artificial hand, which is the work of Professor Stodola, technical engineer, and Professor Sauerbruch, one of Germany's famous surgeons, enables a man to do all the work that he heretofore was able to do before the member was amputated. In order that Professor Sauerbruch can carry on his work to the fullest possible extent the Prussian Minister of War has established the hospital for the purpose at Singen. He has as his assistants Professors Ruge and Felix, famous professors of anatomy, of Switzerland.

Under Perfect Control

According to the German accounts, after the amputation of a man's hand the muscles in the stump of the arm are grafted with the skin from the amputated member, and this skin becomes a part of the muscles. To this skin the artificial hand is applied, just as a pipe of smaller diameter is set into one of larger diameter. The artificial hand is then under perfect control of the muscles of the arm which heretofore operated the muscles of the hand, and it is claimed that a man can almost "feel" with the artificial member.
