A Christmas Camera

To those who believe in buying gifts of lasting quality we suggest cameras. Cameras appeal to people of all ages, but especially to the young. Better buy one good, wholly desirable gift of this kind than a dozen lesser ones. Picture taking is a fascinating diversion... it gives one a new insight into nature. It develops the artistic sense. It provides a sort of pictorial history of one's life. "LET US HAVE A CAMERA TALK." Prices range from $2 up to $65.00.

DAILY SELECTIONS FOR READERS OF THE GUARDIAN

Furnished by W. S. Leason

BETWEEN OURSELVES.

How the days months and years slip by. Today begins the sixth year of this little corner of The Guardian. During the last five years, over one thousand five hundred selections have been passed along to thousands of interested readers, and many have contributed personally and otherwise, in keeping up a heart to heart interest. Indeed I know of many who daily cut out these selections and either put them in a scrap book, or send away to others. Personally I consider it a very great privilege to be able to pass along the best thoughts of others in condensed form, poetry or prose. There are times when we all need, and long for a kind word of sympathy encouragement or words of cheer. During the coming year I will endeavour, with your assistance, to make this little corner helpful and instructive, and shall be on the lookout for the best material, as time will permit. This month of December makes one think of the days and faces that are no more with us. As we look forward, how suitable these lines. Commit these to memory. He holds the key of all unknown, And I am glad; If other hands should hold the key, W. S. L.
