 Says Detroit Makes 50 p.c. of Her Own Whiskey
 (The Canadian Press)
 DETROIT, Mich., June 17.—Beer and liquor are obtainable at scores of places in the heart of Detroit and round houses, in the outlying districts and in restaurants, soft drink establishments and similar places in the city and in Ecorse, Wyandotte and other down river towns. But more than fifty per cent of the illicit beverages sold is made in and around Detroit.
 This is the consensus of opinion of rum runners, police, federal and local police officers, and Canadian customs officials. The bootleggers who are selling alleged Canadian whiskey claim that it is genuine Canadian—but they stand alone in their assertions.
 The runners who are operating boats across the Canadian river—and they are openly and steadily at it—admit that they are NOT transporting much whiskey.
 An operator sat in his boat at Petit Cote, the Canadian terminal for the beer running fleet, taking on a load.
 "Whiskey is falling off," he said. "In the first place there is little demand. The Americans are apparently getting all the whiskey they want, but it isn't coming from Canada. Our customers over there don't ask us for whiskey. They want beer."
 This operator averages about four hundred gallons of beer a day in his out board motor row boat. He makes, at fifty cents a case, about $5 for four trips. He clears his boat from the Canadian part with regular clearance papers labelled "Beer for export." When he leaves port he can't go back until his cargo has been unchained and he has been coming in and out for three years.
 Customs officials at Windsor, who are in close touch with the amount of liquor and beer taken out of the country, refuse to disclose figures. But one of them said, "anyone who thinks they are running large quantities of whiskey is crazy."
 The cafe and road house owners and proprietors of other establishments on this side where liquor is sold, do NOT get their "hard" liquor from Canada, is the claim of the runners. Many of them buy it as Canadian liquor, but it is actually made in Detroit and fitted with counterfeit labels.
 Canadian distillery officials scoff at the stories of great quantities of whiskey going across the river. They claim that they have more business than they can handle and that it would be exceedingly difficult for anyone to get the men to smuggle. In fact, there have been cases reported to the customs officials where attempts were made to smuggle Canadian liquor from Detroit into Canada, to be disposed of in Windsor. One shipment was confiscated. It was tested and found to be alcohol colored and flavored.
 Detroit is wet. One can order beer by the case, and it will be delivered to his home. It is possible to obtain whiskey in many hotels in Detroit.

Married Woman Gets B. A. With Honors
 NEW YORK, June 17.—Obstacles to some folks were incentives to Mrs. Katherine Boulton Clay of Newark, N. J., who, with a class of debutantes received a degree of Bachelor of Arts from Bernard College the other day and took her sheepskin home to show to her admiring husband and three children.
 Mrs. Clay's cultured education was interrupted in 1909 when, at ten-two and a half years at Vassar, she married Clifford Clay, a writer for trade journals, and until two years ago she was too much occupied rearing her family to prepare a thesis.
 The new turn in the old simile, that "they're packing sardines as tightly as subway passengers" was a reality for her. She did most of her studying hanging onto a strap in the underground railways and put a lot of confidence in her eleven-year-old daughter, Kathryn. Kathryn helped take care of her two young brothers.
 Not only did Mrs. Clay get her degree but she received honors for her study of modern languages and had some of the highest grades of her class. She intends to study Italian this summer and after concentrating on her children for a few years resume collegiate study again in pursuit of a master's degree.

Unwelcome Visitor Returns with a Score of Friends
 NEW YORK, June 17.—Mrs. Mary Tobin, who lives at 235 Old Bergen Road, Jersey City, recently discovered a rat in her house. Being afraid of it, she did not like to incur its enmity by appearing inhospitable, so she decided to be friendly. She tossed it bits of bread and placed a saucer of milk for it on the floor. Nothing loath to accept these evidences of good will, the rat ate the bread, drank the milk and departed on her tail in delight. Mrs. Tobin congratulated herself with her unwelcome visitor. A day or so later however she was horrified by another visitor from the rat, who came with a dozen companions to show his appreciation of her kindness. Mrs. Tobin was terrified, but did not know how to get rid of them, so she persuaded her former plan of making friends. Each day she placed puns of milk for them about the house and generously distributed loaves of bread, some days going so far as to take no less than ten extra loaves for her obnoxious guests. This went on for over a fortnight, during which time the rodents made themselves thoroughly at home. Their ranks increased daily until the noise they made attracted the attention of Mrs. Tobin's neighbors, who notified health officials. But Mrs. Tobin had gone too far to draw back. Her only salvation lay in gaining the rats' affection, so, thinking to endear herself to them, she built a ladder from a hole they had made in the floor to another in the roof. This enabled the rodents to stage a "Rat Revue" in the open air every night, which motor-witness, illuminating the "revue" with their lights. Finally health officers intervened, and prepared a banquet for the rats consisting of bread soaked in arsenic. One official stated that when he entered the kitchen the floor was covered with nearly a hundred rats, who paid not the slightest attention to him. They were so affrighted, absolutely fearless, and one actually licked his hand. After the banquet the rats were removed in baskets.

Kellogg's Bran is nature's relief from the terrors of constipation!
 Never make light of constipation or any one of its symptoms—there is no telling what disease you may be heading into! The one thing to do—IMMEDIATELY—is to fight constipation to the last ditch! Not with pills or cathartics; they cannot give you lasting relief! Not with foods with a low bran content; they do not have the bran-bulk to do the work! What you need, what will give you permanent relief is Kellogg's Bran because it is ALL BRAN! Kellogg's Bran is scientifically prepared to relieve constipation. It will relieve the chronic case or the mild case. You need it, your family needs it!
 But, you must eat Kellogg's Bran regularly—each day! At least two tablespoonfuls; in chronic cases this amount with each meal! And, eating Kellogg's Bran is a delight rather than a hardship. It has a delicious, appealing nut-like flavor that wins the most fastidious appetite.
 Every day when you eat Kellogg's Bran as a cereal, sprinkled on your favorite hot or cold cereal or cooked or mixed with hot cereals, think of the health every spoonful contains for you! Think how Kellogg's Bran is sweeping and cleansing the alimentary tract; how it is driving out the toxic poisons and freeing your system from dangers of dreaded diseases! Your physician will recommend it.
 Kellogg's Bran is extra-delicious made into countless bakery batches. Recipes on every package.
 All grocers sell Kellogg's Bran; it is also obtainable at first-class hotels and clubs in individual packages. Ask for it at your restaurant.
