THE Ames Holden Co. of Montreal who only a little over a year ago, leased a large warehouse adjoining their factory, now find these two buildings too cramped for their large increase of business, and have been looking around for another suitable factory, were approached by the citizens of the city of St. Hyacinthe, Que., who have offered the Ames Holden Co. very great inducements to locate at St. Hyacinthe. We understand the deal has been closed. This will give employment to 300 skilled workmen, and add several thousand dollars monthly to the now large output of this old established firm.

Experienced sufferers state that no remedy relieves neuralgia so quickly as a hot application of Polson's Nerviline, the strongest liniment made. A NUMBER of those occupying stalls in the temporary market building complained to The Guardian yesterday regarding the door on the north side, which owing to the snow was unable to be closed all day. The draughts and the drifting snow made it rather unpleasant as well as dangerous to the health of the occupants of the east end, among whom are a number of women. A porch attached would remedy the matter.

THE private postal cards being sent out by James Paton & Co. to their customers are novel and attractive as well as excellent illustrations of the different Scottish plaids. Each one of the series shows a Scottish Highlander in the full dress of one of the Highland clans, and the tartan, bagpipe, sash and coat of arms of the same clan and the home of the chief. Among the maxims in broad Scotch, by a Scotchman who keeps a thing or two in the wide field of advertising is to the Campbell a greet, in like this—"It's a far cry to Loch Awe, but just nod your head and we will deliver you your new spring hat." The Davidsons are saluted thus—"Your new spring Derby is here." The clan Murray, thus—"It dinna tak' a muckle biller to buy a new spring hat at Paton's." The McLarens are told tersely that it is none of their business why Paton & Co. sell a $3 Derby hat for $2.50 but it's their business to buy a $3 hat for $2.50. The McKenzies are invited to "give us a call when ye are thinking on purchasing a new spring hat." The Robertsons are told to "dinna forget Paton's when in need of a spring hat." The clan McDonald are told that "the McDonalds as well as all other Hiela' gentlemen buy their hats at Paton & Co's."
