..*WEDDING BELLS.—Murdoch W. Monroe of Lindsale, and Mary Jane McKenzie of Victoria Cross, were united in marriage by Rev. G. C. Henry, Minister of the Montague Christian Church. The ceremony was performed at the parsonage, Wednesday evening. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Sarah McKenzie of Lindsale, and the bride's brother, John I. McKenzie was best man. The young couple will make their home at Lindsale.

..*RUMORS CURRENT.—It is reported that a section of the new recruits will be quartered in Souris, winter probably to the number 200. The old Stone Hotel and Thomas Kichham's vacant store in Souris are spoken of as the possible buildings to be occupied for this purpose. The idea is a good one as the recruiting station will be within easy reach of many young men who are not getting out not easily obtain accurate information as to fitness, conditions, &c.

..*WANTED A SCRAP.—The following letter was sent to her son, Chas. Frank MacDonald, from her son, Chas. Frank MacDonald, and is now in France. Somewhere in France, Nov. 5th, 1915. Dear Mother:—Just a few lines to let you know that we arrived in France safely and saw Alex, we were with him for more than an hour when he found that he was only five minutes walk from where we were, so Dan and I went right over and saw him and Lin McCormack. They certainly were surprised to see us so we go over every night. I guess by this time he talks that he has to work pretty hard getting out all the ammunition. He has changed considerably since I saw him last but he has good health which is the main thing. It is terrible muddy here, winter is just beginning. I don't know how long I will be billeted here but I will see Alex every day and here. Some of the boys of the regiment went into the trenches for a try out, I will be going in a few days. I sent you a card before I left England with my address on it, if you did not receive it, you can get the address from Dan's father, as we can't put it on the letters we write from here. I will try and see Charlie. He is quite a distance from here but I will try and get a horse to go and see him. I hope that we will get into a scrap soon, so as to have it over with one way or the other. You might send me a couple of pairs of socks. We got issued with socks but they are not as good as the home made ones. I am in good health hoping you are the same. Good-bye for this time, from Chester. Note.—Alex mentioned in

..A SPLENDID LECTURE.—The third of a series of lectures under the auspices of the C. M. B. A., Souris, was given in St. Mary's Hall on Nov. 30th, by Rev. Father MacAulay of St. Peter's. In spite of the inclemency of the weather a goodly number assembled and after a few introductory remarks by the chairman, Mr. Laughlin MacInnis, Father MacAulay was called to deliver his address. The theme of the discourse was What constitutes true success and how to attain it, and the masterful style in which it was delivered together with the moral lesson underlying it will long be remembered by those who had the good fortune to be present. The Gentleman opened his address by stating that success to the average man or woman meant the acquisition of wealth, honor or rank but to the true seeker of it, these were not the things that he sought. He pointed out the fuller sense of the word success, strive manfully to combine moral and spiritual success and then apparent failure will only spur us on to greater things. The truly successful man is he who leaves the world a little better than he found it and whose life may be an inspiration to others. The vulgar idea of success is wealth and social position, but few things of real worth can be purchased by wealth, whereas all of any value can be acquired by nobleness of character. Success is not a matter of mental education alone is the road to true success while others affirm that religion possesses the power of real noble worth, as religious thoughts tend to elevate and refine the taste, so that all that is base or mean may be suppressed. It is deemed necessary to combine both as every individual of intellect gives a wider scope for the carrying into execution of those many talents, with which God has endowed us. The ancient motto "Mens cana in corpore sano" is very divergent from the ideal of true success, but we should rather aim at the latter, the destiny which all enlightened minds aspire to and an honest upright life should mean more to us than mere transient fame with all its delights. Profound religious convictions will awake our latent energy and give us a moral nobility without religion is mere nonsense as a tree could not be made to blossom and bear fruit that was pulled up by the roots and thrown by the roadside, as moral sense both public and private does not measure up to this ideal. Our citizenship must be open to us. All true minded men strive to attain the largest measure of temporal success obtainable. Let this be only a secondary consideration and the prime motive be high principle and character. All men should aim to be a specialist in his own line and here on P. E. Island the majority of the men are adapted by environment to the pursuit of Agriculture. A few may be fitted by nature to follow life in the cities by the true word of this community lies in the land. Therefore the specialist should be "stick to the land" and success will be ours. The first and greatest measure of success is enthusiasm. If we put all our energy in the accomplishment of anything we cannot fail. Let there be no stop until the goal of success is attained and God will favor us with those opportunities and not drift aimlessly with the tide of vague ideas, waiting for something to come our way. Let Exceior be our motto and our ambitions will develop into the surety of success. Day dreams are usually indulged in by youth though we are all more or less influenced by them but when actualities dissolve the chimera we must fall back on a cool head and a steady hand to carve out our destiny in this world. Be a true and noble man therefore, first of all let nobleness of character be the acme of all your aspirations and when success will come as is surely will, you will have no misgivings about its attainment and the laurel wreath of victory will be eyour prize. At the close of the lecture, a hearty vote of thanks was moved by Mr. J. J. Hughes, M. P., and seconded by Dr. A. A. MacDonald, M. P., for the excellent address given by Father MacAulay. It is hoped that Father MacAulay will again favor Souris with such another instructive discourse.

DOG IS QUITE NEW

Jones is a meek little man till he's roused; then nothing stops him. The other night Mrs. Jones and he couldn't sleep a wink all night because of the noise their neighbor's dog made out in Allston.
..*Mrs. Jones declared at breakfast he'd tackle the owner of the dog on the way to business, and "get this thing settled."
..*Well, Joseph," asked Mrs. Jones that evening, "did you do anything about that wretched dog?"
..*Mr. Jones puffed out his meager chest with pride. "I told Brown that if he didn't put a stop to it I'd buy a piano and let both our girls take lessons!"
