Cabinet Approves Irish Bill

(Dom. Press Special)
LONDON, August 2.—The cabinet today approved the Irish Bill practically as passed. It is expected to be introduced in parliament Friday.

Worms in children work havoc. These pests attack the tender lining of the intestines and if left to pursue their ravages undisturbed, will ultimately perforate the wall, because these worms are of the hook variety that cling to and feed upon interior surfaces. Miller's Worm Powders will not only exterminate these worms, of whatever variety but will serve to repair the injury they have done.

Real-Fruit Desserts The Rarest Sort

The only gelatine dessert which has fruit-juice flavors sealed in glass is Jiffy-Jell.
No artificial flavor can take the place of fruit. For Jiffy-Jell the fruit is crushed, condensed and sealed in glass. A bottle of this liquid essence comes in the package. And sugar is used—not saccharine—to sweeten Jiffy-Jell.
Jiffy-Jell comes in ten flavors. Try loganberry and pineapple for desserts. Try lime-fruit flavor for tart salad jell. Try mint for a refreshing mint jell.

HAS MADE A CLOCK THAT CAN TALK.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 1.—A clock that speaks instead of ticking is the invention of Vincent Pinto. He has it running in his home at 1624 South Eighth.

Pinto studied clockmaking in Italy, and with his twenty-year-old son Joseph completed the clock after eighteen months hard work. At present the clock says at 11 o'clock at night: "Eleven o'clock; time to go home."
"This was because Rosa, the eighteen-year-old daughter, entertains many friends."
The clock is about the size of a grandfather's clock. The works and case were all made by hand. According to Mr. Pinto, however, the mechanism may be condensed to fit into the size of an alarm clock. The clock is a thirty-day movement. It can be made to call the hours, half or quarter hours, or all of them, with its phonograph mechanism, and has chimes in addition.

EVILS OF THE OVERRICH MIXTURE
Wasting "Gas" Involves Wasting Oil—And Worse
One may liken an engine running on an overrich mixture to a kerosene lamp, burning with the wick turned up much too high. They both smoke. In the case of the engine the smoke or soot collects upon the spark-plugs and short-circuits them, causing misfiring and it also settles upon the cylinder heads, piston heads and valves, joining with any oil or road dirt here present, to form carbon deposits in exactly the same way that the lamp chimney and room walls and the smelting engine gives diminished power, the effect of a grossly overrich mixture being so slow and imperfect a combustion that the working pressure is much lessened and greatly reduced engine output results. The sluggish combustion of an overrich mixture subjects the cylinder walls to heating for an abnormal proportion of the piston stroke and results in overheating of the engine. An engine starts hard on a lean mixture, but it is not so generally recognized that the presence in the cylinders of a mixture too rich or combustion renders starting impossible. This condition can readily be brought about by using the strangler judiciously, especially with a hot engine. It is when the mixture is too rich that the exhaust contains the deadly carbon dioxide and engine operation under such conditions is extremely dangerous in an unventilated garage. Without question, the overrich mixture is the most important factor in the results so generally obtained as to fuel economy, cylinder oil economy, the maintenance of clean plugs and regular ignition and in the deferring and minimizing of carbon formation in the combustion spaces.

PLAY IN THE NEW LONDON HALL

On Tuesday evening, July 20th, the Long River Dramatic Club put on the well-known rural comedy, "Valley Farm," in the Clifton Hall. The curtain rose at 8 o'clock but long before that time the spacious hall was packed to overflowing, by an anxious expectant throng, and it is putting it mildly to say that they were not disappointed. Before the first of the four acts was completed, the audience was delighted and their applause was so hearty that the actors, quite confident, and entered into the spirit of the pretty story of "Valley Farm" and so portrayed their respective parts that they received round after round of hearty applause.

The leading lady Miss Ruth MacArthur, as Hetty Halcomb, took her part through all her vicissitudes with all the grace and originality of a veteran actress, and after the play Miss MacArthur was the subject of much merited praise. The other major parts was taken by Mr. Ernest Dunning who, as Harold Rutledge, a young New Yorker both looked and acted his role with the freedom and ease of the city home owner "Valley Farm."
Space will not permit to refer to the acting of each performer individually but all will agree that the real actress and impersonator of the evening was Miss Mabel Fielding, as Alvin Halcomb's sister of the city who owns "Valley Farm." Many times did the less experienced performers have a convenient respite while waiting for the stern of applause according to Alvin to subside. The comic character in the play was Mrs. Frank Gillispie, as "Verbin" the bre girl. This part was a scream from start to finish and Mrs. Gillispie certainly used her sense of humour to good advantage in its portrayal.

For the remaining characters, suffice it to say that they did splendidly and according to the opinion of a well pleased audience there was not a weak number in the cast.
Much credit and thanks is due to Miss Fielding who by her perseverance and patience as instructor during the preparation of the play, did so much to insure the success of it was. The Club also takes this means of thanking Mrs. D. M. Johnstone, and Mr. George Green for substituting in the place of two of the original cast Hetty Halcomb, a country transplanted to city soil, Ruth MacArthur.
