MEXICO CITY, June 8—Sixty-three persons were killed, seventy-five were wounded, and property worth $100,000, was wrecked by an earthquake shock which shook the Mexican Capital, and turned into tragedy the rejoicing over the arrival of Francisco Madero.

When the work of searching in the ruins will be increased somewhat, as throughout the city there are doubtless many who are wounded who, with traditional fear of the authorities and the government hospitals are anxious to evade discovery.
