The wedding took place at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Patula. The bride's many friends in Summerside unite in best wishes for her future.

The sad news came by telegram from Winnipeg yesterday morning announcing the death at the hospital there of Daniel Coles, son of Fred Coles, of Milton, Dan, as he was popularly known, left home last spring in the prime of his youthful manhood to seek his fortune. He was getting along well but early in this month, typhoid fever, the scourge of the West laid its hands upon him. On the 10th he wrote his last letter home and he was then in bed fighting the first stages of the malady. Monday night the end came. Great sympathy is felt for the bereaved.

The presentation of diplomas to the graduation class of nurses took place at Falconwood Monday evening. Five young ladies presented themselves for the diplomas, which were presented by Dr. James Warburton, Hon. G. E. Hughes was also present and in a short address congratulated the class upon the completion of their training. The young ladies to receive diplomas were: Miss Elizabeth Murray, Murray River; Miss Myrtle Huntley, City; Miss Helen McKinnon, DeSable; Miss Louise McQuarrie, DeSable; Miss Elizabeth McNaughton, Thornadyke. On receiving the diplomas each graduate was presented with a bouquet of flowers by little Miss Florence Bailey, a tiny visitor to the Island from Madison, Wis. Papers were read by Miss Helen McKinnon, on "Nursing the Insane" and by Miss McQuarrie on "Some Common forms of Insanity." These were listened to with keen appreciation by the patients and warmly complimented by the visiting trustees, who expressed the opinion that the public might benefit were the information contained in these papers brought before them by the public press. Since the inauguration of the course of training here by Dr. Goodwill some twenty-five young women have graduated. These have gone into private institutions for mental diseases, in private homes to nurse the insane and into other public institutions mainly in Massachusetts and New York where their remuneration for the work for which they have qualified themselves is high and the demand constant. Their unflinching success is ample evidence of the thoroughness of experience and training gained at Falconwood.

CUTICURA Works wonders. Soak them, on retiring, in hot water and Cuticura Soap, dry, anoint freely with Cuticura Ointment, and wear soft bandages or old loose gloves during the night.

SOFT WHITE HANDS On Rising. The I. O. F. originated the ban against liquor sellers or drunkards as members of fraternal societies. He uttered a strong appeal to all to make the fraternal side of the order a monument to each individual and illustrated the plea by the good deeds of the late Earl of Shaftsbury, whose motto was "love, serve," and whose attitude to his fellow men was a lasting monument to his memory.

Mr. Clarke's address was a masterpiece of effort and nothing but a verbatim

Father Morrissey's Lung Tonic Really Cures. Treating a cough with most 'cough cures' is like repairing a leaky kettle with a piece of rag or a dab of putty. Though you succeed in stopping the leak for a little while, you never know when it may break out again, for the hole is still there. So ordinary 'cough cures' relieve, temporarily, the irritation in throat or lungs which makes you cough, but that is all. They do not cure the cough. Father Morrissey's No. 10, commonly called 'Lung Tonic', relieves the irritation by loosening and removing the mucus in the passages, but that is not all. No 10 tones up the whole system, especially the affected parts, restores the inflamed membranes to a healthy condition, and so strengthens them that they will not easily fall a prey to the same trouble again. Father Morrissey's No. 10 is sold in trial size bottles at 25c. and in the large regular size at 50c. At your dealer's. 104. Father Morrissey Medicine Co., Ltd., Chatham, N.B.

ASEPTO SOAP POWDER sweetens the home ASK YOUR GROCER. In Rochester, N. Y., where the ravages of this insect were very serious prizes were offered, in 1894, to school children gathering the largest number of egg clusters, and excellent results were obtained. It should be pointed out, however, that such a competitive method among young people is not so safe as through the employment of men to hunt every egg mass, for which much tree climbing is necessary; the children might be encouraged to aid such men. If the above method of destruction is adopted it may not be necessary to resort to spraying the trees with an arsenical poison, as many cities are accustomed to do. But should such a procedure be found advisable great care should be exercised in the selection of spraying pumps and the method of spraying. In many places more arsenical spray finds its way into the drains than on to the leaves, owing to faulty methods of spraying. Mr. Pearson refers to the use of steam sprayers in the United States, but no doubt he means power sprayers, which are run by gasoline engines, and such as are employed in the Gipey and Brown-tail Moth work in the New England States. The cost of destroying the egg masses of the moth and the banding of the trees with tanglefoot is insignificant compared with the results—healthy shade trees in the streets and parks, a protection from the sun and a pleasure to the eye. C. GORDON HEWITT, Dominion Entomologist, Division of Entomology, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, Aug. 23, 1910.
