hair isn't as eye-catching as that of your blonde or red-headed friends. Remember that you can wear much stronger dress colours than these friends can. Moreover, you will discover, if you will experiment with bright dress shades, that many will bring up glints of red or gold in your hair which you never suspected were there.
 Give blue in various dress shades a trial. Also give rich green shades a chance to bring up hidden colour in your hair.
 The best way to try out colours is to make the test with crepe paper collars in the various colours with which you want to experiment. Crepe paper is available in colours which almost exactly duplicate many of the popular dress colours worn today.
 To determine which colours will do the most for your hair, view the effect of your crepe paper collar in a mirror held up in strong sunlight.
