A Royal Residence

In view of the proposal that the Secretary for Scotland should take up his residence at Edinburgh Castle it is opportune to recall the fact that the Castle was in the past frequently used as a Royal residence.

In 1174 it fell for the first time into the hands of the English, as William the Lion had been captured in battle by them. A ransom of £100,000 was demanded, and later the Castle was given with some other buildings as a hostage for the King. Fortunately, however, that which was lost by the chances of war was quickly restored by a more pleasant means, as, a matrimonial alliance having been concluded between a cousin of King Henry of England and King William, the Castle was handed over as part of her dowry, after having had an English garrison for nearly twelve years.

Appointed as Queen's Residence

Alexander II, their son, convened his first Parliament in Edinburgh in 1215, and Alexander his son in turn, having been betrothed to Margaret, daughter of King Henry III of England, nine years before their nuptials were celebrated at York, she, as Queen, had Edinburgh Castle appointed as her residence. It would seem, however, to have been more of a stronghold than a palace, and she complained to her father that "it was a sad and solitary place, without verdure and by reason of its vicinity to the sea unwholesome." She was only in her sixteenth year. The Earl of Monteith was at the time governor of the fortress and all the offices of the city and of the nation were in the hands of this powerful family at this period.

Many Englishmen of rank accompanied the young Queen-Consort, and between these southern intruders and the jealous Scottish nobles there soon arose disputes that were both hot and bitter. The kingdom was rent into two powerful factions—one secretly favouring King Henry, who artfully wished to have Scotland under his own dominion: another headed by Walter Comyn, John de Baliol, and others, who kept possession of Edinburgh and with it the persons of the young monarch and his bride. These patriotically resented the ambitious attempts of the King of England, whose emissaries, while their rivals were preparing to hold a Parliament at Stirling, took the Castle of Edinburgh by surprise and liberated the royal pair, who were triumphantly conducted to a magnificent bridal chamber in Northumberland.

Residence of Alexander III

During the remainder of the long and prosperous reign of Alexander III the fortress continued to be his chief place of residence, and for the holding of his courts and for the transaction of judicial affairs and much of the public business it is said St. Margaret's Chamber was used.

In 1357 a Parliament was held at Edinburgh, when Regent Robert presided. There were present delegates from seventeen burghs, and among these Edinburgh appeared at the head for the first time.

So often had the storms of war desolated the Castle (which had become the residence of King David II after his return in 1357) that it was found to require extensive repairs, and to this the king devoted himself. On the cliff to the norward he built David's Tower, an edifice of great height and strength. He died there on February 22, 1370, and was buried before the high altar at Holyrood. He was the last of the direct line of Bruce—a name inseparably connected with the military glory and independence of Scotland.

Queen-Mother and Son

King Robert III and his Queen resided in the Castle and Holyrood alternately, and young King James II resided entirely in the Castle for the two years subsequent to his coronation in 1438, under the custody of the Lord Chancellor, greatly to the displeasure of the Queen-Mother, who found him thus placed completely beyond her control and influence. When visiting him at the Castle she professed a great regard for the Chancellor and a desire to be with her son, with whom she took up her abode. She managed to conceal the young King, with his own consent, and thus he was conveyed to Leith and from thence to Stirling. Later, however, she carried off the young King again and restored him, for political reasons, to the custody of the Chancellor in the Castle of Edinburgh.

Royal Birthplace

After this many kings and queens resided at the Castle, but the greatest event which ever took place within its walls was on June 19, 1566, when, in a room on the ground floor at the south-east corner of the Grand Parade, which still exists, James VI was born, in whose person the rival crowns of Mary of Scots and Elizabeth were to be united.

There on the east side of the Square of the Castle is the Old Palace or Royal Lodging, in which many stirring events have happened, and where the longest line of sovereigns in the British Isles dwelt.

Should it now be used as a residence for the Secretary for Scotland, thus again representing the King and Governments of our time, it will thus be in keeping with those notable times in our Scottish history and also in line with the demands of these modern days.

(James Baird, F.S.A., in the Weekly Scotsman).

Thrift and Planning

Account for Improvements

You women who take a pride in your home—who sensibly practice thrift in all your buying—you are just the folks who should be taking advantage of the Holman Home Plan. It was designed to assist customers to buy the articles they needed at once—to improve the home soon, sensibly, and satisfactorily. Just suppose you needed a new Kitchen Range—perhaps your old one needs expensive repairs. By using the Holman Home Plan, you can buy your new range today—the down payment, in all probability, may not exceed what it would cost to repair your old stove. The balance, when paid in ten monthly payments, seems remarkably little—and during all this time you are enjoying the benefits of a new range. The size of your income does not matter. Holman's Home Plan is designed for everyone. Resolve to help yourself to its benefits

SEEKS FRIENDLY COOPERATION

(By The Canadian Press)

EDMONTON, July 25 — Miss Grace Russell of Lanark, Scotland, secretary of the Lanarkshire Federation of Scottish Women's Rural Institutes, hopes to bring about closer relationshipp between institutes of Scotland and of Canada, she said on a visit here.

Miss Russell is a graduate of the Glasgow and West Scotand College of Domestic Science, Glasgow. Her mother's interests in women's institute work led her to take it up.

She said she was particularly interested in short course conducted by the Alberta Women's Institutes and in the various handicrafts they sponsored.

STOCK QUOTATIONS

MINING

(Canadian Press)

TORONTO, July 25—The Toronto mining market turned heavy today and closed with losses predominating in the golds and silvers. Trade in a few of the penny issues speeded up and several of the medium price golds saw considerable action but the aggregate turnover was off. The net loss in the the gold group was of minor importance while miscellaneous mines registered a drop of .70 to 92.56.

Trade was decidedly skimpy in the big yellow metal group and all closed unchanged except for a loss of 40 cents for Pioneer. The market took no notice of the latest McIntyre statement showing a moderate drop in earnings for the last quarter. Pickle Crow was offered in same volume late in the day and the price weakened 7 cents to 2.20. Issues off 1 to 3 cents were Sullivan, Kirkland Lake, Gunnar and McKenzie.

Volume was low in the base metal section and price changes were small. Noranda gained ¼ to 38¼, Sudbury Basin added 5 cents and Falconbridge weakened 5 cents to 3.85.

Heavy buying appeared in Manitoba-Eastern early in the session and gains were registered but were not held entirely.

ECLIPSE VIEWED

(By The Canadian Press)

BEAVER LODGE, Sask., July 25—Total eclipse of the full moon was clearly visible from the north shore of far northern Athabaska Lake on the night of July 15. At this season of the year the moon does not climb very high into the sky and concludes its journey of visibility in a few hours.

The moon was totally eclipsed when it lifted above the tree tops south of Nyman's Bay. Inhabitants of this gold field country watched the phenomenon with keen interest.

English Child Has Edge on "Largest Baby"

GLOUCESTER, Mass., July 26.—Joe Randazza, Jr., is just about ready to give up his fight to wrest the "world's largest baby" title from the brow of Leslie Bowles of Ramsgate, England.

Randazza now weighs 135 pounds, something of a record for a lad of three years and six months. But his English rival, two months younger, tipped the scales at 142 today to take a good lead.

The home folks are pulling for Joe—with the exception of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Randazza. Mrs. Randazza is perturbed because her son is not a normal child as regards weight. He is one of six children. The others are normal for their age and Joe was normal at birth, weighing only eight pounds.

Now he wears a pair of men's overalls cut in length but not in breadth. His shirt collar is 16½ inches, trousers 38 inches, and his sneakers, only shoes he can wear, are size 12½.

RAMSGATE, Eng., July 26.—England's largest baby, Leslie Bowles, put on 14 pounds during the last month to bring his weight at the age of three years and four months to 142 pounds.

The boy has outgrown his specially-built perambulator and is now taken about in a specially-constructed small automobile.

GRAIN

(Canadian Press)

CHICAGO, July 25—Despite sensational reports of severe crop damage to spring wheat, grain markets wound up today with little net change in prices.

Rapid fluctuations were accompanied at times by active trading, but taken as a whole, business lacked volume. Late reactions from earlier advances were associated with unusual lack of general public speculative interest.

Wheat closed steady, unchanged to ⅝ higher compared with yesterday's finish, Sept. 86⅛-¼, corn ⅝-1¼ down, Sept 35⅝-¾, oats ⅛ off to 1 cent up, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to 12 cents gain.

WINNIPEG, July 25—Strength in United States markets offset Liverpool's weakness in determining price trends on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today, wheat futures closing a quiet session unchanged, July at 81¾ and August 82¼ cents.

Traders apparently were unperturbed by offerings of Russian wheat at Liverpool, the first such wheat to be offered for export this season. The price quoted was equal to 88 cents a bushel C. I. F. Liverpool, three cents more than Canada's No. 2 Northern.

Buenos Aires was weak off ⅝ cent. Argentine clearances of wheat this week, it was estimated would total 1,500,000 bushels, compared with 3,000,000 bushels this week. Cash and coarse grains were quiet.

ST. CATHERINES W. I.

The regular monthly meeting of the St. Catherines Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Mack Morrow with the President in the chair. The meeting was opened by singing the "Ode", also repeating the Creed in unison. There were ten members and eight visitors in attendance.

Minutes of the previous meetings were read and approved. A brief discussion then followed concerning preparations for the picnic. One member joined the Institute. The President gave a very interesting report on the Annual Convention. Under heading of new business, it was moved by Mrs. Mack Morrow, seconded by Mrs. James Lamont that the president and the secretary take the sum of $10.00 out of the bank. There had been no further business Mrs. James Lamont kindly invited the members for their next meeting. Roll call will be answered by a "Question Box." Meeting then closed by singing God Save the King, after which a delicious lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Catherine MacNevin, and the Secretary, Jean Moore. The remainder of the evening was pleasantly spent in music and conversation. Receipts, $1.75; Expenses, none.

STARTS TO TREAT CANCER PATIENTS WITH NEW FIND

KINGSTON, Ont., July 26. — Dr. Hendry C. Connell, discoverer of biological products known as "ensols," for cancer treatment, has organized his Kingston clinic, and has begun treatment of all patients who seek help. Dr. Connell said today he is satisfied with the results of his discovery.

In organization of the clinic, Bertram Holsgrove, biology technician at Queen's University, will be in charge of all laboratory work; Dr. Charles Mundell in charge of all treatment, assisted by Dr. John Tweddell; Dr. W. A. Jones will handle radiology work, and Dr. Charles Elliott will have charge of examinations.

Dr. Connell said clinics in other places will be arranged as soon as he has consulted with other physicians and explained the method of treatment, whereby the "ensol" solution is injected into the blood stream.

Dr. Connell said his discovery in no way will be exploited or put on a financial basis, and that persons treated may be seen by interested physicians.

NEW YORK EXCHANGE

(By Frank MacMillen, Associated Press Financial Writer)
(A. P. By Guardian's Special Wire)

NEW YORK, July 25—Stock market traders used the last hour of trading today to turn some of their accumulated paper profits into more tangible form.

General steadiness in the early hours was finally reversed, with many active issues off fractions to around 2 points. Rails and industrials felt the brunt of the realizing, but the utilities were not exempt from a lesser share. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost .5 of a point from the 1935 high made Wednesday, to close at 45.8. Turnover amounted to 1,337,760 shares.

While the last hour of dealings saw the principal selling wavelet, it also witnessed, in the closing few minutes, signs of returning support. Several of the weakest issues finished with modest improvement over their lows for the session.

Other than the continued flood of half-yearly earnings reports outside influences played a minor role in market developments. The General Motors report was awaited eagerly, but did not appear until after the final gong. The motor industry giant showed a profit for the second quarter of $1.17 a share compared with 88 cents in the second period last year, bringing net income for the first half of 1935 to $1.85 a share, against $1.51 in 1934.

There was the usual evidence of sellective nibbling at some sections of the list, especially the preferreds, but many active issues were off around a point or so, including U. S. Steel at 40 3-8, Westinghouse at 60 3-8, National Biscuit at 30, American Smelting at 42 7-8, United Biscuit at 24 3-4, Case at 65 1-4 and Sears at 50 1-4.

In the Canadian list Hiram Walker dropped 2 1-2 and International Nickel more than a point. Fractional recessions occurred in Canadian Pacific, Dome, McIntyre-Porcupine, Noranda, Distillers-Seagrams, Ford of Canada, Imperial Oil and Lake Shore.

MISSIONARY HOME ON FOURTH FURLOUGH

HARVEY STATION, N.B., July 25.—Home on his fourth furlough in 33 years Rev. J. A. Glendinning, a Canadian Baptist Missionary in India has been visiting Miss Minna A. Glendenning here for the past several days and on Saturday left for Carleton County where he will visit his son, Rev. Arthur G. Glendinning.

Really a pioneer evangelist, Rev. Mr. Glendinning has charge of an area of 50 square miles between Calcutta and Madras among the aborigine Annistis, demon worshippers who are Orya speaking outcasts. Work has developed rapidly in that district so that 3,000 have become Christians in the past twenty-eight years. There are nine churches in the district.

For his work Mr. Glendinning was awarded The King's Silver Jubilee Medal. He was in England during the first part of the Jubilee celebration. Speaking on Indian affairs he said that India has suffered as all the world, low prices of wheat depressing the price of rice.

He will return to India in the autumn of 1936.
