LOCAL RADIO CONCERT. —An interesting experiment local radio broadcasting was made from Mr. Theo. Bayer's radio apparatus equipped with a broadcasting set by Mr. Walter Hyndman on Saturday afternoon. IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE—The black leather grip lost on Thursday last from the car of Rev. R.H. Stavert, between Fredericton and Kensington was found shortly afterwards by Mr. Jordan Andrews of Bradalbane .He found it near the home of Mr .Benjamin Caine where there is a somewhat rough place on the road. The joltings of the car had evidentally thrown the grip off the seat against the door, which probably had not been securely clasped and forced it open. It is understood that the young man did not even open the grip. And not until he saw the advertisement in the Guardian was he able to find the owner. Friday evening Mr. Andrews took the grip down to Mr. Stavert's boarding place. Mr. Stavart was away at the time. On his return needless to say he was delighted to find his grip awaiting him. He expect. to see Mr. Andrews soon to reward him for his kindness and manliness in returning it so promptly. Lesson—Always advertise in the Guardian.

A WONDERFUL SHOW—It is a long time since we have had as good a show as the one the Young-Adams Company has this season. says the St. Albans, Vt, Daily Messenger. Mr. Young has brought many good shows to St. Albans but never before has he equalled the present company. A bumper house greeted them last night in spite of the inclement weather and they deserved it. Marjie Adams never appeared to better advantage. She had an excellent part in Mary Ann, and was a whole show in herself. The support was splendid, every character being remarkably well taken. Not a dull moment during the evening. The four acts went over with a bang and the vaudeville between acts was all good. The Scotch act, consisting of singing dancing piping and drumming was a big feature and made a terrific hit. Four acts of melodrama six big specialities, a Kilty Band and Orchestra, make up one of the very best shows seen here for many years. The show is clean, has class, full of ginger, and made a most favourable impression. Mr. Young and Miss Adams are well known in this city.

—MUSHROOM CROP SHORT.—Mr. John F. Gallant, Summerside, champion mushroom gatherer knows where every specimen of the lucious commodity has grown pretty regularly year after year and he has kept the town fairly well supplied for many seasons past with profit to himself and pleasure to all concerned. This year however, the crop has been a complete failure and he tells us that in about as much hiking as some of those professional globe trotters have done this fall he has been rewarded by finding just one solitary mushroom and not much of a one at that. When another member of our debating club on Central St. told how he only an amateur at the game had earlier in the week gathered quite a respectable can full in one hike John said, like hell you did or words to that effect .
