church as it fought against outside influences of the present day.

"I view with a kind of horror any signs of division among ourselves", he said. "The task of the church in the changing world of today is not impossible, but the time is full of difficulty, not to say menace. The age calls us to draw closely together in the name of the church for petty differences among ourselves when the church is being undermined from without would be tragic."

English Church in U. S.

HALIFAX, Aug. 30—(CP)—History of the Church of England in the United States was traced by Rt. Rev. B. Brewster, Bishop of Maine, at a Synod luncheon here today.

The church in the United States had had its difficulties because it bore a different relation to the state than did the Church of England in Canada.

It had been forced to adjust itself to circumstances to which it was not accustomed.

The difficulties encountered, however, far from weakening the church, had given it the added strength that comes through adversity, he claimed, saying that the Church of England occupied a firm position in the United States today.

Discuss Union Progress

HALIFAX, Aug. 30—(CP)—Negotiations for the union of the Diocese of Newfoundland with the Church of England in Canada were said today to be making "substantial progress" when Chancellor R. V. Harris, newly re-elected deputy prolocutor of the General Synod, now in session here, read the report of the committee investigating the possibilities of such a union.

Further progress will be reported to the Ecclesiastical Provincial Synod of Canada, consisting of the Dioceses of Nova Scotia, Quebec, Fredericton and Montreal, which will be held next year.

At present Newfoundland is an independent see under Rt. Rev. William C. White and with a clergy list of 83.

During the 1934 sessions of the General Synod held at Montreal a deputation of two met with the committee and though no definite agreement was arrived at it is expected that next year will see still more progress toward union.

READY TO MAKE

"one pilot" bombed the liner because he thought it was one of 10 Japanese troopships understood to be in those waters. Two Japanese destroyers were manoeuvring near by. The Chinese said the Hoover lay between them and therefore the Chinese pilots thought she must be a Japanese transport.

Four Planes In Attack

Independent sources said four Chinese planes, swift bombers, took part in the attack.

The attack caused the Hoover to abandon her call at Shanghai and sail at once for Japan.

Japanese naval officers announced two of their seaplanes shot down one of the Chinese planes returning from the liner raid. It was found to be of American make.

The bombing came as both Japan and China prepared feverishly for battles north of Shanghai that threatened to dwarf any previous operations in the conflict for this city, now in its third week and with a death toll running high into the thousands.

The President Hoover, homebound from Manila, was approaching Shanghai to take aboard refugees when she was struck.

She wirelessed for aid, especially medical, and the Cumberland and two United States destroyers rushed to her assistance. The Cumberland, nearby, reached her first and the destroyers turned back.

"Garden Of Allah" Feast For Eyes And Emotion

STARRING MARLENE DIETRICH AND CHARLES BOYER AT THE CAPITOL, SUMMERSIDE

A glorious feast of color and romance awaits you at the Capitol Theatre, Summerside, today, with a matinee this afternoon and two performances this evening.

Opening last night David O. Selznick's technicolor production of the immortal Robert Hichen's love story of the desert, "The Garden of Allah", with Marlene Dietrich and Charles Boyer in the stellar roles thrilled the audience with its beauty and magic.

Words cannot describe the loveliness of this picture. The story lends itself perfectly to the magic of technicolor and to a brace of stars who could bring this wonderful romance to a living throbbing life on the screen.

Thrilling Love Scenes

Marlene is perfectly cast as the lovely Domini Enfilden who goes to Beni-Mora the parish of the kindly Father Roubier in the Algerian desert to find a new life and falls madly in love with the strange, brooding, mysterious Boris Androvsky, who, unknown to her, is actually a Trappist monk who has fled from the monastery after taking the eternal vows; and Boyer gives a brilliant and deeply understanding portrayal of the terrible conflict in the soul of a man who is torn between his love for a woman and his duty to God.

The glorious but ill-starred romance that flowers under the magic spell of the desert between this man and woman from widely separated worlds provides one of the most thrilling love stories that has ever come to the screen.

The soft colors of the genuine desert backgrounds adapt themselves perfectly to color and offer a striking contrast to the vivid scenes in the Algerian bazaar and the cafe of the Uuled Nail dancing girls.

Basil Rathbone plays the Italian nobleman, Count Anteoni; C. Aubrey Smith is seen as Father Roubier; Tilly Losch, internationally famous dancer, makes her film debut as Irena, the fiery Arabian dancing girl; Joseph Schildkraut plays Batouch; and all are superb.

"The Garden of Allah" has been brilliantly directed by Richard Boleslawski from a screenplay by W. P Lipscomb and Lynn Riggs, and is released through United Artists.

YOUTHS ARRIVE HOME FROM EUROPEAN TOUR

JAMES CLARK

JOHN DOWNING

Mr. John Downing, son of Mrs. H. M. Downing, and Mr. James Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter G. Clark, returned to their homes in Summerside yesterday afternoon from their European tour which was at the invitation of the British Overseas League. The boys are twelfth grade students of the Summerside Academy and were the only boys from the Maritimes that were asked to join the second tour which followed the trip to the Coronation.

Both boys declared the trip was worth a whole year in college and they learned more than they could ever hope to learn from books about the places visited. They stayed ten days in Germany and part of that time they spent at a Nazi youth movement camp where they were treated royally. They visited southern and northern England, the lake district and Scotland.

They arrived on the Duchess of York at Montreal on Saturday and were met at Moncton by Mr. and Mrs. Clark yesterday. The boys were very glad to be home and were given a rousing welcome.

Pretty Wedding Is Solemnized At Albany

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Aug. 11th at the home of Mrs. Henry Cameron, Albany, at 5.30 p.m. when her daughter Miss Maisie became the bride of Mr. Adelbert Palmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Palmer, Summerside.

The living room was charmingly arranged with flowers making a lovely setting for the wedding ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Mr. Baker of Bedeque.

Miss Esther Morrison of Lowell, Mass., played the wedding march as the bride entered the room with her brother, Mr. Lorne Cameron, who gave her in marriage. The bride wore a lovely dress of white satin and lace with short veil and coronet of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of carnations and gladiolas.

Attending the bride was her cousin, Miss Sadie Bradshaw, who was dressed in pink satin and carried a bouquet of sweet peas.

Mr. Albany Palmer was groomsman for his brother.

A sumptuous wedding supper was served in the dining room for the immediate relatives and friends.

After a short honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Palmer made their home in Summerside. A reception and post nuptial shower was held at the home of the bride's mother on their return from their wedding tour given by the girl friends of the bride.

Mrs. Malcolm Morrison of Lowell, Mass., aunt of the groom, and Mrs. Daniel MacDonald of Medford, Mass., also gave showers for the bride.

The many lovely wedding gifts testified to the popularity of the young couple. S its enormous reserves of manpower by a decree authorizing mobilization of 40,000,000 males between the ages of 18 and 45 to meet Japan's military invasion.

The mobilization order was forecast as early as Aug 7, when hostilities had not reached their present scope.

Technically, the government's action consisted in authorizing the Executive Yuan to apply article III of the national mobilization law.

It was believed the first contingent summoned to the colors would consist of Chinese aged 20-25, with penalties provided for those who fail to join.

impose a tax. This right was reserved for the Mother Land. They were compelled to pay for the support of the British army of occupation, and whenever there was a trial, they were denied the right of the jury system, and the offender was tried by a naval court. With even these hardships imposed upon them it was very difficult to work up a spirit of revolt against the Mother Land, and the situation could have been saved had there not been in the Colonial Office of Great Britain a group of inferior men entirely ignorant of the issues at stake.

The speaker recommended for the purpose of increasing the understanding between the peoples of Canada and the United States the exchange of school teachers along the lines of the exchange with Great Britain, a greater interchange of professors in the universities and of the ministers of the various churches.

It would be an excellent move also, he suggested, to have an exchange of history text books as a corrective to biased viewpoints.

In concluding his address, Dr. Bonnell referred to the relations between the United States and Great Britain, and declared it was doubtful if they were ever as cordial since the American revolution as they are today. At the time of the death of King George V, the hearts of all British peoples in the United States were touched by the widespread display of American and British flags at half-mast in all the cities of the nation.

In their foreign policies the two nations are now consulting each other, and just so long as the two great democratic Anglo-Saxon nations of the world stand together, we need not despair of human freedom.

He concluded with a quotation from the Atlanta Constitution, one of the most influential newspapers in the southern States:

"The English speaking peoples constitute today more than ever before, the chief hope for survival of the finest our civilization has brought forth, and only by continued and greater mutual friendship can they carry on together in a world grown strange and fearful."

Rotarian Hon. B. W. LePage was in the chair and the following guests were present: Rotarian S. J. Harrington, St. John; Walter (Bus) Mathieson; L. D. Murray; S. T. Green; Dr. MacLauchlin; Dr. Ayers; Rev. Hugh Miller; Cedric Boulter; J. A. Webster; Hon. J. P. MacIntyre; Walter Wilson; Edwin C. Johnston; Dr. J.D. Coffin, Plaster Rock, N.B.; and Neil Higgins.

How Bomber Won Decision

house left that circled Joe's neck harmlessly. Tommy charged in twice, connecting with lefts, while Joe took his time and waited for an opening. The champ shifted to the body but then backed away as Tommy again charged forward. Joe pumped his left to Tommy's face three times but Farr rallied and had Joe blinking with a series of hard smashes to the head. The crowd was in an uproar as the challenger carried the fight to the champ and staged another game rally. Tommy grinned at his handlers as they wiped the blood off his face. Farr's round.

ROUND NINE

Tommy led briskly with his left as they met in the centre of the ring. There was a slight swelling under the champ's right eye. Louis opened a fresh flow of blood from under the cut under his rival's left eye but Tommy retaliated with both hands hard to the head. Tommy forced Joe to give ground and punched the champ's body with both hands in a neutral corner. Farr forced Louis to the ropes where they clinched. Tommy kept throwing his left and was beating Joe frequently to the punch. Louis backed away after Farr landed both hands solidly to the face. They exchanged light lefts in midring just before the bell. Farr's round.

ROUND TEN

They sparred in the centre of the ring before Farr forced Louis to give ground with a left to the ribs. Tommy swung both hands to the head and continued to keep the aggressive. Tommy took a stiff left as they came into a clinch. Joe began to find the range again and clouted the challenger with a right hook to the ear. Both kept busy with their lefts. Joe again countered with a right but barely escaped being nailed by a right hander that Farr brought up from his knees. Tommy's next rush was stopped short by the champ's solid right hook. The champ staggered Farr with both fists to the face just before the bell. Louis's round.

ROUND ELEVEN

Farr came out in a low crouch. Joe pumped his left several times to the nose and then ducked inside Farr's vicious attempt to counter. Tommy tried smartly to find an opening by shifting his attack from the head to the body but the champ was unwilling to open up. Louis danced away from a long left but continued to find Farr a puzzling target. Tommy charged Louis with both fists swinging. He drove the champion to a corner and connected with a hard right to the head before Joe countered with a snappy left hook. After sparring at a fast pace in midring, Tommy let fly again with both hands and had Joe again in retreat just before the bell. Farr's round.

ROUND TWELVE

Louis worked his left briskly to the head and tried hard to find an opening. Farr refused to stay in one spot, however, and outpunched the champ in a brisk exchange along the ropes. Farr got in some effective punches with his left hand after narrowly escaping a terrific Louis right that had haymaker written all over. They speared each other with lefts. Farr's face was well smeared with blood again but the challenger repeatedly rushed forward as he continued to force the fight. Tommy landed a right hook to the champ's face just before the bell. Round even.

ROUND THIRTEEN

They exchanged lefts to the face. Farr bobbed and weaved as he circled the champion in midring, drawing nothing more seriously than long lefts that he took most on top of the head. Louis poured his left to Tommy's battered face as ringsiders cautioned the challenger to keep moving. Tommy chopped a right to the ear. Louis was short with a right but continued to pile up points with straight lefts and jabs. Louis cocked his right hand but Farr kept out of range. Tommy swung and connected with both hands to the chin just before the gong. Louis' round.

ROUND FOURTEEN

Louis jabbed quickly three times as Farr cautiously circled the champ. Tommy stuck to his protected crouch and was taking fewer chances. The challenger missed a long right but Joe connected with a choppy right hook. They exchanged a dozen long lefts before Louis bounced away from an overhand right. Farr's next right-hand sailed harmlessly over Louis' head. The champ shot a hard right to the face but Farr refused to give much ground. Tommy chased Joe half way across the ring, swinging his right, but failed to connect. Louis jabbed Farr briskly with his left just before the bell. Louis' round.

ROUND FIFTEEN

Farr came out in the centre of the ring before the bell rang. Tommy connected with his left jab and outpunched the champ at close range. Farr charged in and forced Louis to cover. Joe jabbed twice, then gave ground and was belted around the head by the rugged and determined challenger. Tommy fired both hands to the head before he was brought up short by a hard left hook. Blood poured from Farr's nose. They speared each other with left hands and Tommy clubbed the champ along the ropes as they clinched. Farr tried hard to connect with long rights but was wild and took too many chances. Louis punished him about the face but Tommy had Louis giving ground as the final bell rang. Farr's round.

Would Like Another Bout With Bomber

(By Gayle Talbot)
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Aug. 30—Tommy Farr, peering from beneath slits of eyes and almost crying as they cut the bandages from his injured right hand, refused stoically to alibi his defeat or take issue with the decision that enabled Joe Louis to retain his world heavyweight boxing title tonight.

"I couldn't see him toward the last," he said between puffed lips. "But I came here to give them a go, and I did, didn't I?" he pleaded with the score of reporters and handlers who crowded about him in the dressing room.

"You sure did, Tommy," soothed his Manager, Ted Broadribb, who for the first time since they reached the United States, looked like he almost was fond of his battered fighter.

"What do I think of the decision?" Tommy repeated slowly after his questioners. "Well, I won't say anything about the decision. I'll leave that to you fellows. And please don't say much about this finger. I don't want them to think I tried to alibi."

"Gosh, but Joe is a great puncher," he said, fingering the mouse of his left cheek. "I don't know whether he's the hardest hitter I ever fought. But he hits hard enough. He hurt me a couple of times, but I never was close to being knocked out. They don't knock out Tommy Farr. I gave them a go, didnt I? I would like another chance at him."

Canadian Duo Win Trophy Permanently

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 30—Proud in possessing permanently an United States trophy, Robert N. Watt of Montreal and his 24-year-old son, Laird, boarded a train tonight for Montreal as father and son national tennis doubles champions.

The 53-year-old president of Canadian Lawn Tennis Association and his son, the Dominion's third seeded player, regained today the title they held in 1933 and 1934, by defeating William J. Clothier and his son, William H. of Philadelphia, in straight sets, 6-3, 7-5.

36TH BATTERY

The casualties in the other ranks were correspondingly high. Nearly 500 men passed through the rolls of this artillery unit.

A commendable record of service in the field is held by the war-time battery. The decorations won by its personnel include one Distinguished Service Order, two Croix de Guerre, eight Military Cross, ten Distinguished Conduct Medals, twenty Military Medals and nine members were commissioned as officers from the ranks.

The 36th Field Battery was a unit truly representative of the Maritime Provinces, its rolls including men from Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island.

Major Walter Crowe, now deceased, who recruited the battery, and who eventually became a County Court Judge, commanded the 36th Battery while it was stationed for training in Fredericton. On arrival in England, he was transferred to the Legal Department, Major, now Colonel, D A McKinnon, D. S. O., of Charlottetown became Commanding Officer, and led the unit on the Western Front until after the Armistice, when he was invalided home. Col. McKinnon is one of the leaders in the business and sporting life of the Maritimes. He is a strong supporter of light harness-racing and also an owner and driver of fast horses. His support of sport extended to hockey and for years he was one of the mainstays of the Charlottetown Abegweits of the Maritime "Big Four". In the business world, Col. McKinnon is well known as a publisher of the daily newspaper The Charlottetown Guardian.

While in Fredericton, the Battery trained as a four-gun-unit but in France it became a six-gun unit with the acquisition of one section from the 29th Field Battery from Guelph, Ont. After sending drafts overseas, the unit was recruited to full strength by enlistments from Fredericton and district and other parts of the Maritimes.

Among those returning here for the reunion from Cape Breton will be Ex-Sergt. Major Wm. Thompson, President of the Club; D. W Morrison, Mayor of Glace Bay, District President of the United Mine Workers, and Vice-President of the Canadian Trades and Labour Congress; A. G. J McDonald, Manager of McDonald's Brokerage Co.; James McDonald, Manager of Miles Ltd.; Eddie A. McDonald, Foreman of Eastern Electric Light Co.; E. W. McCully, Post Master and J. J.
