REVIVALIST CHARGED WITH USING MAILS TO DEFRAUD

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 2.—Victory H. Arnold, banker and revivalist of this city will be arraigned in the Federal court at Superior, Wis., August 7 to answer to an indictment charging him with using the mails to defraud. Arnold was president of the Madison Bond company and conducted wide publicity by his religious revival meetings in New York City. United Madison before the United States government began investigating his alleged bond selling work in Wisconsin. The Federal Grand Jury, meeting here last December, returned a complaint against Arnold which pointed to transactions in which investors were found to have lost nearly $600,000. Residents of southern Wisconsin are largely concerned.

While those responsible for the complaints leading to the indictment claim that Mr. Arnold lawfully acquired and incurred the money of other persons, Arnold during the illness and death of his himself takes the position that he is a victim of a "vicious circle" of Madison business men who oppose him.

The indictment sets out three alleged schemes which it says are fraudulent and which Arnold will be called upon to explain during his court hearing. He is charged with using the mails to defraud by sending out circulars and other literature containing the value of securities offered for sale by his company with a view to defrauding investors by the use of company bonds by offer of an increased price and by making the false statement of company officials.

In December of 1921 Arnold gave the needs of Madison a Christmas dinner totaling $25,000. Theoretically he led a series of revival meetings at which he urged a return to the teachings of the Bible. Then he and his family moved to New York where the revival meetings were continued.

Mr. R. P. Matias, desires to thank kind neighbors and friends lawfully acquired and incurred the money of other persons, Arnold during the illness and death of his himself takes the position that he is a victim of a "vicious circle" of Madison business men who oppose him.

SEE SAFETY FROM DUST EXPLOSIONS.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Development of a method of testing the amount of explosive dusts in suspension in the air at commercial plants, with the aim of reducing the number of disastrous explosions, is under way by engineers of the Bureau of Agriculture which expects shortly to announce the perfection of a successful testing instrument. Such a device, it is said, would result in the saving annually of many lives and an untold amount of property.

Procedures in many industries are productive of considerable dust clouds, which, hanging finely suspended in the air, form a combination that is highly explosive. Among the establishments in this category are grain elevators, rubber working plants, spice, flour and feed mills, and plants in which powdered sugar, corn starch sulphur and aluminum are used or manufactured.

Through a period of many years fires and explosions in these and other industries have taken an immense toll. The attention of engineers, has been applied to their prevention, and the government has organized a laboratory under the direction of David J. Price, in the Department of Agriculture, for the sole study of dust explosion prevention. As a result fires and explosions in several industries have been reduced almost to a minimum; especially is this true in flour mills.

The problem of the engineers has been to discover how much dust must be suspended in the air to form an explosive mixture. While the lowest limit was not definitely ascertained, it seems to range from a content of from 7 to 35 ounces of dust per thousand cubic feet of air. The instrument devised by Mr. Price and his engineers is to enable plant engineers to check up on this condition by drawing the dust-charged air through a paper filter and comparing the weight of the collected dust with the amount of air thus analyzed.

The concentration of the convention reports, speeches, resolutions, etc. this was a most welcome diversion. Starting from the quiet suburban city of Fredericton, situated as it is aside from the Travelled Highway of the continent, the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the cars bearing the visitors slipped swiftly along the river road. After a few miles for a moment they digressed from the main road to the summit of the high bank and here they paused to glimpse a rare view. Such a one was enjoyed by Prince Edward, when he too was taken to the soft-same farm house for ginger ales and milk. It was such a view as one sees from the towering banks of the Peace River—where never even a ripple disturbs the perfect pictures of the great trees and the quaint old farm buildings along its banks.

There is no long level stretch of road! It is up and down grades that are steeper than those of the New Bank—Windermere Road, which has been literally chiselled out of the mountain side.

In the names along the way one follows the history of the country—Lower French Villages, Pollock—Campbells, McKays, Murphys, McKens, Indian, French and British—some from "New England" and some from "Friends to Government" in 1776, later known as United Empire Loyalists.

At Pokok again the party stopped to see, far above the high falls which cling themselves over the jagged rocks and through the very narrow canyon in this silver spray to join the river.

A short distance away on the river bank is a lumber mill—and the pitch watched log after log rush down into the confines of the boom in the river.

Always there were the churches and those who came from the west were struck by the numbers of cemeteries in these quiet church yards, under the elm and maple trees.

A few late apple blossoms remained. At every door were fragrant lilac bushes—and everywhere the charm of older cultivated rural landscape. Suddenly it came to some of us from the wide prairies that this is where we would have lived—had not our parents gone to the north west in the early '70's.

For a moment I was swept upon us—all we had missed of this poignant beauty.

Then came back the infinite spaces, the beautiful sunsets—the distant blue mountains.

And through the still descending twilight—there was borne to us a feeling of kinship—a feeling of home after all. There was no east! There was no west!

It was all one Dominion from sea to sea, from the Atlantic to the Pacific—from the St. John River to the Peace. It was one country. It was Canada!
