First Cost is Last Cost and Only Cost

Tried and found wanting! The experience of fifty years of success is given in a very handsome book, "The Test of Time," which we ask the privilege of mailing to you. May we? Its purpose is to prevent you from ever buying another hair mattress. It will show you that the use of hair is out of date, unsanitary, comparatively uncomfortable, and outrageously expensive. It will convince you, with no financial risk, that the only kind for you to buy is the

MISSIE'S SAILOR SUIT, CONSISTING OF BLOUSE NO. 311 AND SEVEN-GORE PLAITED SKIRT. (No. 3135.)

Sailor models continue to be the favorite for growing girls' and misses' wear.

Green and blue plaid mohair was used to make this stylish suit. The collar of plain blue was trimmed with green braid.

The pattern is equally pretty for washables, as the style is one that lends itself to tubbing.

The blouse is fitted by shoulder and underarm seams, and slips on over the head. It may, however, be finished to open down the front.

The applied yoke facing may be omitted, if preferred, and the collar made separately. The sleeves are of an entirely new shape, cut very full at the top and fitted to the waistband with tucks.

The skirt is of the popular seven-gore variety, with deep backward turning plaits overlapping each seam and forming an inverted plait at the centre back.

It is an admirable style for making up as a separate skirt, and will develop excellently in storm serge, cravenette, knickerbocker tweed, Rob Roy checks, plaids, mohair and covert cloth, as well as for linens, ducks and piques.

The waist pattern (No. 3131) is cut in sizes 12, 14 and 16 years and requires 2 1/2 yards of 36-inch material, with 2 yards of contrasting goods for the 14-year size.

The skirt pattern (No. 3135) is cut in sizes 12, 14 and 16 years, and requires 4 yards of 36-inch material for the 14-year size.

A Simple Story Indeed

but one that we want every lady in the land to know by heart—that our Dress Goods stock is very superior—that it was selected with fastidious taste and infinite care—that it has no superior in this Province either in quality, quantity, variety or exclusiveness—that our prices are acknowledged by discriminating buyers to be even lower in most cases than that asked for inferior qualities—that our trade is immense and still growing—that our constant aim is to anticipate your wants and wishes, and that the most agreeable part of all is in helping you to save money by investing it wisely.

It would be impossible in the space at our command to convey a clear idea of the beauty and elegance of the new Summer goods. They must be seen and felt and priced, to get a full idea of their artistic beauty, their softness of texture and their irresistible prices.

We are very enthusiastic about our dress goods this season, and once you know their superiority, you will feel convinced that there is decided economy in buying them here—AT THE STORE THAT SAVES YOU MONEY.
