BONDI DEMANDS $50,000 FOR COLD.

NEW YORK, May 10—Alessandro Bondi, the opera singer, has begun a suit in the Supreme Court for $50,000 damages from the New York Central Railroad and the Pullman Palace Car Company for a cold which he alleges he contracted while going from New York to Toronto in a sleeping car. It is charged that the employees in charge of the car carelessly shut off the heat while the temperature outside was below freezing point.

SATURDAY'S EVIDENCE AT THE M'GEE HEARING

Miss Agnes Mahar, Katie Hicken, Henry McGuigan, Stephen McGuigan and Miss Annie Mahar Were Examined—Their Testimony

(Special to The Guardian.) GEORGETOWN, May 11—The preliminary hearing in the McGee case was resumed in Georgetown this morning at ten o'clock.

The first witness called was Miss Agnes Mahar—I live in St. Mary's Road, am a daughter of Michael Mahar. He keeps a small store and lives about one quarter mile from McGees. I wait on customers in the shop.

Louis got some matches the day that his father went to the factory. He told me his father had just gone. I think that was the same week that the children died. We have the same kind of matches yet. I remember a short time before or after one of the children buying five cents worth from me. I made the remark to my mother at the time about Mrs. McGee buying so many matches.

Katie Hicken Sworn—I live at Allison Street. My husband's name is William. I keep a store about two or three miles from McGees. They bought goods on several occasions. They bought matches on the 16th of April. It was Johnnie who bought them, eight packages. They were just the old fashioned ones. He also bought a pair of socks and a stick of candy.

Henry McGuigan Sworn—I have a farm and live on St. Mary's Road about a mile from McGees. I did not know that the children were sick until they were dead. I saw the children and noticed that they were black and blue. I had no conversation with prisoner or her husband that day. Stephen McGuigan and I went to the house the Thursday after I found Johnny sick. He was in bed. Johnnie and his mother were alone in the house. She said she didn't know what a sickened him unless it was the candy. She made no fuss. Then I went home and returned later in the evening. I met Mrs. McGee on the road. She said she was going to get some one to stay with her over night. When I arrived at the house Michael Gormely, the school master, others were there. I thought the boy was getting worse. The doctor was then attending the boy. He asked us if we would stay while he was gone. Mrs. McGee seemed to be with communication.

COMMUNICATION THROUGH PROVINCE AND WITH MAINLAND

Saturday the Northumberland left Charlottetown at 7.00 a. m. for Pictou with passengers, mail, express and freight and arrived at 10.30 a. m. She left on return to Charlottetown at 2.50 p. m. with passengers, mail, express and freight and docked at 6.15 p. m. She leaves today at 7. a. m. for Pictou returning at night.

Saturday the Harland left Charlottetown at 6.00 a. m., for West River and returned about 9.00 a. m. She left again in the afternoon for West River, returning at 3.00 for Orwell ports, remaining over night at Brush Wharf and returning Tuesday morning. The Guardian of Friday should have said that on the previous day the Harland left Charlottetown at 3.00 p. m. for Victoria and returned at night.

Saturday the eastern express arrived in Charlottetown at 9.15 a. m., on time; the southern express at 9.25 a. m., on time; the Tignish accommodation at 12 noon, twenty minutes late; the Summerside accommodation at 4.15 p. m., one hour and thirty-five minutes late; the eastern accommodation at 6.30 p. m., one hour and ten minutes late; and the Tignish express at 10.40 fifty minutes late.

the boy a lot during the doctor's absence but did not say anything except that the cornmeal and fish poisoned the other children and that she thought the candy had poisoned Johnnie as he didn't eat the cornmeal or fish. The doctor then returned. I stayed till four in the morning and the doctor went home about twelve. About two hours after he had left Mrs. McGee went to bed, in the same bed with Johnnie. The boy slept by times and appeared to be drowsy. Mrs. McGee gave him a raw egg before going to bed. I never saw him alive after that.

I went down to McGees the following Saturday. Mr. Bradley was there then and was taking the prisoner to Montague. I thought the night that Johnnie was sick that the prisoner did not appear to be in her right mind. The Sunday the five children were dead she did not appear to be very sad as a mother would naturally be under the circumstances. She seemed to be more fretful over Johnnie.

The court opened at 2.00 p. m. Stephen McGuigan (sworn)—I live on St. Mary's Road, am a farmer, live about 600 yards from McGee home. I was at the inquest at Montague, but I was not at inquest at St. Mary's Road. Ned McCarron told me about the five children being sick. I think this was on Thursday. I went to the McGee home on the day the first child died. Saw Mrs. McGee. This was about noon. Asked her if the children were dead. She said yes. I then asked her if the rest were sick, and she said yes. She said she did not know what happened them and seemed to be worried. I am no relation of Mrs. McGee. I then went away home and returned back in about an hour. The doctor came about the same time. Mrs. Gormely, James Gordon and Philip McGuigan were all there. While I was in I saw our children sick and one dead. Saw the prisoner. Sometimes she seemed to care, and sometimes she didn't.

I don't remember anything she said. I went home about 5 o'clock and came back to the McGee house about 10. Peter McGuigan was with me this time. When we got to the house the doctor and Michael Gormely were there. I stayed all night. I did not happen to be in the house when any of the children died. Mrs. McGee was attending the children when I was there. Sometimes she seemed quite unconcerned, other times she would be crying and lamenting about the children. Louis seemed to be suffering, but the other children did not. Louis was rolling around in bed, groaning. I asked the children if they were very sick and they said they were very sick and they said they were very sick and they said they were very sick. I did not notice any peculiar smell. I returned to the house the same afternoon. Saw the prisoner then, but had no conversation about the sickness or death of the children.

DETROIT PUT IT OVER NEW YORK

After One of the Wildest Baseball Demonstrations in Years SCORE 9-5

(Canadian Press.) NEW YORK, May 12—In one of the wildest games ever played in the American League Park, Detroit today defeated the Highlanders by a score of nine to five.

The largest crowd of the season was out and early in the game began to growl at O'Loughlin's umpiring. Wolverton was put off the field in the seventh inning and when Quinn was put out in the eighth by throwing a glove away pop bottles and glasses were thrown at O'Loughlin. A fresh volley was hurled at the umpire when he ousted Street for protesting a ball.

RICHESON MAY YET ESCAPE LEATH.

BOSTON, May 12—Had the usual procedure been followed Clarence V. T. Richeson, the murderer of Miss Linnell would have awakened in a cell in the State Prison close to the chamber where he is condemned to die during the week of May 19. Executive action, pending reports as to his sanity by certain experts has delayed his transfer from the County Jail. Governor Foss stated today that he had not heard from the alienists who were to examine Richeson, and until these reports were in hand he should take no action in the case.

A PAINFUL ACCIDENT

MISS CROCKER'S DOGS ARE TO BE MANICURED.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 10—Miss Jennie Crocker, before leaving for the East, made a number of changes in her $150,000 dog kennels at Hillsborough, which she believes will help in promoting the happiness of her sixty or more blue-blooded dogs. Henceforth, each of her pets will have its nails manicured once each month by a woman expert. Each animal will have a tooth brush all its own. The teeth will be polished twice a day.

HIS NEWSPAPER TRAINING PROVIDED GOOD THING.

HALIFAX, May 11—G. W. Yates, private secretary to Hon. Frank Cochrane, minister of railways, is a former newspaper man, which largely accounts, of course, for his ability in the position he now occupies and for his being a good all-around man. Mr. Yates began newspaper work in his native city of London, Ont., afterwards going to Toronto on the big dailies and finally becoming private secretary to the premier on Ontario and now to the minister of railways. He has a thrilling story to tell a meeting in the city hall, London in 1898, when the platform collapsed and twenty-two persons were taken out dead. He was taken out to the ambulance himself, and at first was considered among the dead. The undertaker looked into his face—but in vain. Three weeks afterwards, while still unable to rise from his bed, he dictated a story of his escape which was published and was so good that J. S. Willison, then on the Globe, at once sent for him and he joined the staff of that paper. He made good in journalism, but found another field in which he has also shown himself to be of good stuff.

CEMETERY LOT IS TOTAL OF ALIMONT.

NEENAH, Wis., May 10—Mrs. Charles Rusch received a cemetery lot valued at ten dollars, when she obtained a divorce in the Circuit Court. This was her share of the property. The couple had been married fifty-five years and have ten children.

Causes General Comm-ent--Voted For Home Rule and Returned to Weymouth

(Canadian Press.) NEW YORK, May 12—A London cable says everybody is talking of Winston Churchill's sensational journey to London to vote for the Home Rule bill on Thursday night and return to Weymouth the next morning in time to join the King at the inspection of the fleet and witness target practice.

Mr. Churchill left Weymouth with Mr. Buller by the six o'clock train, arriving at London at ten o'clock. After taking part in the Home Rule division he returned by automobile to Bourne-mouth where he left the car and was rowed out by the destroyer Swift, one of the fastest vessels in the world.
