Magnesium Plant Opens At Arvida
ARVIDA, Que., March 14—(CP)—Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd., announced today that its new magnesium plant here has started operations, with a capacity of 1,000 tons of metal a year.

The announcement said present Canadian requirements are not sufficient to consume the scheduled output but after these are met it is expected the bulk of production will be exported.

The process used is electrolysis of magnesium chloride, made from magnesite ore.

PETERHEAD, Scotland—(CP)—While a $50,000 ($200,000) fire was raging in the kipping kiln and finishing department of a big canning factory, employees in other departments kept up production.

Directors:
"The Best Years Of Our Lives" as the best movie of 1946.
Anne Baxter for her supporting role in "The Razor's Edge."
William Wyler, as director of the "Best Years."

Shkor Gains Upset Over Mauriello

BOSTON, March 14—(AP)—Courageous Johnny Shkor, the towering Boston heavyweight, weathered a furious storm to gain an upset eight-round technical knockout victory over New York's Tami Mauriello, rated just below champion Joe Louis, in their scheduled 10-round feature boxing bout tonight at the arena.

Shkor opened a wide cut over Mauriello's left eye in the second round and concentrated on that injury thereafter.

After Dr. Isaac Klien of the Massachusetts Boxing Commission ordered referee Johnny Martin to end the bout, the bleeding and enraged Mauriello protested strenuously.

His seconds had to restrain him from rushing at Shkor and when the latter attempted the post-bout courtesies, Mauriello tried to kick him and then aimed a left at his head. Rotund Johnny Buckley, Shkor's manager, also came in range of one

HUNTERS' CORNER

The Dominion Wildlife Conference held at Ottawa on February 27th and 28th is now past history and sportsmen and others interested, are still in the dark as to what really transpired, particularly with regard to Departmental intentions in respect to this year's duck season.

Prince Edward Island was represented by H.H. Cox, M.L.A., where, although he faithfully attended all sessions, he earned the sobriquet of "The silent delegate". Keeping mum at a conference of this nature has its advantages for it leaves the other delegates in the dark as to how much or how little one knows.

With the possible exception of Quebec, all the rest of the provinces were unanimous in voicing the alarming scarcity of ducks. It came as a shock to eastern delegates to learn that the West was equally hard hit in the current duck shortage. Several provinces stated bluntly that a close season for one year was the only safe course to pursue. The Quebec delegates insisted that as far as their province was concerned there was no need for any drastic action. However, in taking this stand Quebec is merely running true to form. Gunners in this province are loath to relinquish shooting privileges.

It is evident from information seeping into circulation that the Department at Ottawa responsible for the enforcement of the Migratory Birds Convention Act did not commit itself to any definite statement as to what seasons would be allowed the different provinces for shooting ducks this coming fall, apart from intimating that further and drastic shooting restrictions will, in all probability, be implemented. Many delegates left for their respective provinces with the feeling that there would be no extreme shortening of shooting seasons.

The census for the south eastern United States has been completed and returns submitted. The count shows a 25 per cent decline over the same period in 1946. So that every gunner will understand where there were 4 ducks in the spring of 1946 there are only 3 in the spring of 1947. The decline is general over all the North American continent. One reason is given in one section; something else is forwarded as the cause in another, but it all adds up to the same thing in the end...the ducks are not there.

There was one exception to the general late fall flight. A section of the Maritimes with Prince Edward Island as the focal point was the only area where the November flight of Northern Red-legs was apparently up to normal.

The ice is fast breaking up under the strong March sun and anglers are looking to their fishing tackle. Many of the more enthusiastic have already overhauled their gear and are anxiously counting the days till April 16th which incidentally falls on a Wednesday.

There was a heavy run of spawning trout up our rivers and streams in October and this should indicate a normal trout year if heat and rainfall are average during the summer months.

Among those who are all set when the trout season opens is Mr. Osbert Enman, Vernon. Although he is in his 88th year Mr. Enman expects to land a string of speckled beauties on the opening morning as he has done for many years past.

Mr. and Mrs. Enman celebrated their 58th wedding anniversary this winter. Since they were married in 1889, better known as the Island's oldest active gunner, has never missed a season when their table was not graced with toothsome black ducks that fell to his own straight shooting. When it comes to cooking ducks, Mrs. Enman (formerly Edith Vessey, York) doesn't take a back seat from anyone. She is an expert in preparing them for the table as her husband is at shooting them...that's what I call a perfect team.

Snowy owls are reported to be picking up quite a few partridge dinners this past few weeks. Those big birds may be expected to increase in numbers from now until the middle of May. They're beginning to dribble back from the south and gather in sizable flocks in the Tignish area preparatory to kicking off for the long journey up the Labrador coast to their nesting grounds. They begin to flock up in the Nall Pond area of western Prince around May 1st.

No flight of Canada geese is reported or noted to date. No large flocks are expected to arrive until the 1st of April although the odd family flock may be looked for anytime after March 20th.

There is nothing more stirring than the wild music of Canada geese when the honking squadrons sight the old familiar spring feeding grounds. I wonder if the boys around Searletown are as 'goose minded' as they were last spring.

A little bird whispered not long ago that a few of the die hards have the old rickety shooting iron standing in a handy corner with a couple of goose lods reposing on a nearby shelf.

Watch your step boys. I saw a fella you all know quite well putting a razor edge on an ugly looking knife a few days ago. He's figuring on picking up a few of the scalps he missed last spring and... maybe getting a second slice off where he got the ones last time...its the second scalping that really hurts.

Bantams Stage Close Games In Playoffs

The playdowns for the City Bantam hockey title continued yesterday morning and afternoon at the Forum. All games yesterday were keenly contested and each of the eliminated teams bowed out only after fighting all the way.

Connaught Square Abbies took a 1-0 decision over Brighton Bantams in the opener. In the second game of the day West Kent Rochfords defeated West Kent Tigers by a score of 3-2. Ron Nicholson notched up all three goals for Rochfords while Beaton and Jenkins got one each for Tigers. In the third match of the day, King Square eased out Prince St. Battlers by a 5-2 score with Burke of King Square gathering three goals, while his teammates Hurry and F. Howatt got one each. Jack Turner and McFadyen got one each for Battlers.

Actress Sisters Refuse To Make Up Despite Oscar

HOLLYWOOD, March 14—(CP)—Olivia de Havilland's Oscar gleamed on a table near her bed today, but words of felicitation remained to be spoken between Olivia and her sister, Joan Fontaine.

Miss de Havilland was presented the gold statuette for her performance in "To Each His Own," voted the best work by a movie actress in 1946, at the 19th annual ceremonies of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences last night.

Miss Fontaine, who herself won one of the top feminine awards in 1941 for her work in "Suspicion," said she waited in the wings last night to congratulate her sister.

"I started to shake hands with her, but she seemed very occupied and busy," Joan continued. "Maybe she didn't see me, there were so many people around her, so I went and joined my husband."

Miss de Havilland told a reporter: "Our relations have been quite strained for some time—I couldn't change my attitude."

Other top awards of the evening went to—
Frederic March, best performance by an actor, in "The Best Years of Our Lives."
Harold Russell, former paratrooper who lost his hands in the war, best supporting performance by an actor, in "The Best Years of Our Lives." He also received a special Oscar from the Academy
