Mr. C. R. Smallwood Receives Letter From Band Manager

The following letter received by Mr. C. R. Smallwood, from the business manager of the Halifax Rifle Band speaks for itself:

Halifax, N. S. Sept. 12th

Rear Mr. Smallwood;

Confirming my wire of the 10th in which I accept your offer for the Band.

As I have already wired you, we have started to prepare an exceptional programme for the occasion. We are preparing to feature our Soloists and Artists, if the occasion warrants it.

I am mailing you some Printed Circulars for distribution. These circulars will show the Soloists or Artists that we are going to feature. Have these placed so as to advertise the Band.

Mr. Smallwood it is up to you to arrange for us to give a complete concert in front of the Grand Stand (One night at least) or every night if you like because we are preparing to play as often as you want us. I am leaving all this preparation to you.

I am under the impression that it will pay the Commission to transport the Band in a Special Car. We will have at least thirty-five men and five women. What I am getting at is this, with forty at least, and our instruments and Traps will pretty nearly fill a whole Car. I am not trying to give you any unnecessary trouble, but it would make it much nicer if you could help me with the rooms and etc. The reason I speak of the rooms for musicians is, we want all the band together so we can give any orders without the least bit of delay. We are there to give you an Exceptional Music Program and therefore we want nothing in our way to hinder us.

If you have not already done so, let us know all information and details, do so.

Thanking you for your engagement, and trusting to exceed your expectations, as we feel we will, I remain,

Yours very truly,
HALIFAX RIFLES BAND
RUSSELL T. WARD,

USE OF CAPITAL LETTERS

Easy Enough When One Becomes Accustomed To It.

The question that always comes before the thought of those who have been heedless at school, now often arises when they attempt to use capital letters in the right place.

Many there are who make the mistake of capitalizing the sea-son—spring, summer, autumn, winter. This should never be done unless the word starts a sentence. But the days of the month and the days of the week always should begin with capital letters.

It's easy enough when you know a few simple directions and explanations in the New Universal Dictionary will make it easy for you to learn.

This new dictionary with its extensive vocabulary and its many exclusive educational features, is just the book you need for everyday use. It is being offered to readers of the Guardian for 50c. with a new or Renewal Subscription.

PACKING FUN AND THRILLS FOR EXHIBITION

Amusement forecasts for the week—high class Trampoline, becoming warmer with the Gandy Knocout Acrobats and the Comedy Table Rockers.

Showers of wonderful music that will bring your temperature jazzing back to normal.

That will compete in the races here and showing fast time in other meets and they will be right in the nick when they face the starter next week.

Added to this large entry list from the island, most of which are now quartered at the exhibition grounds getting in readiness.
