

The Guardian Pictorial Page

Neck to neck down the track tore Miss Clytie (winner on right) Suiva (center) and Sauceboat, in the Private Sweepstakes at Hurst Park

"The birds can fly, and why can't I?" asked the poet. These graceful Torquay divers approach very close to it in the "Prince of Wales Feather" plunge

Many a disastrous spill has occurred at Tottenham corner on the famous Epsom course where the Derby will be run again this year on June 4

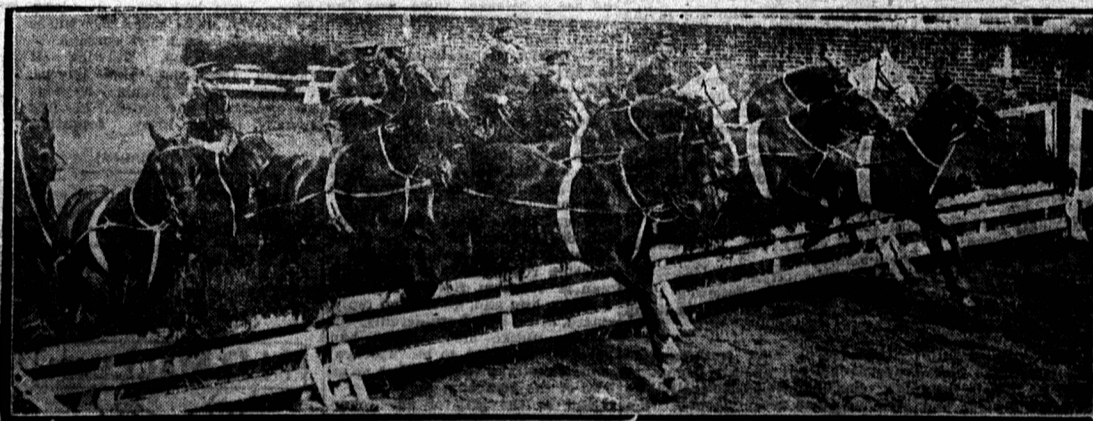

On the extreme left is Mary, champion pea sheller of Covent Gardens, who for more than half a century has been depriving pea pods of their contents. She is still on the job

Four cunning little West Highland terriers that captured a bunch of ribbons at the recent Ladies' Kennel Club Show at Olympia

After knocking about every battery in baseballdom for a homer, Babe Ruth has decided to try his luck with a real battery—the 104th Field Artillery, in which he enlisted a few days ago

Over the hurdles during a rehearsal for the "riding and driving" competition at the Royal Woolwich tournament

Miss Jeanne Gordon, distinguished Canadian contralto, denies she abandoned her child for a career, as was reported in connection with divorce proceedings she brought against her husband.