WEDNESDAY MORNING, MARCH 11, 1908.

POSTHUMOUS APPOINTMENTS.

The question has arisen in New Brunswick as to the right of the Robinson Government to make certain appointments after their defeat at the polls. Among the provincial offices that were vacant at the date of the election were those of Judge of Probates in St. John, Reporter of the Supreme Court, Reporter of the Equity Court of the Province and Registrar of Probates in York County. It is understood that the right is claimed for the outgoing Government to fill these vacancies.

It would appear that both in Great Britain and in Canada an outgoing Government has sometimes but not always been permitted to fill existing vacancies. In Canada something appears to depend both upon the attitude of the representative of the Crown and also upon that of the successful incoming party. If both the Lieutenant Governor and the incoming leader are consenting parties such appointments may be made and will be held to be valid.

It is abundantly clear, however, that the representative of the Crown may, if he choose, decline to approve of appointments sought to be made by a moribund Government. That course was taken by Lord Aberdeen in regard to certain recommendations of appointment made by the Tupper Government after its defeat in 1896. The election took place on June 23, of that year and left the Administration of the day in a minority of 34. On July 8 following the defeated Government recommended a number of appointments which Lord Aberdeen declined to sanction on the ground that the Government had been defeated.

It was, however, within the prerogative of the Governor General to have sanctioned these appointments had he choosen to do so, though it might have exposed him to a later conflict with his incoming advisers. He seems to have acted with prudence and his action was approved by the Colonial Office. Still, in certain quarters at the time Lord Aberdeen's refusal to endorse the proposed appointments was regarded as savoring of partisanship.

In the present case in New Brunswick no recommendations of appointment had been formally made down to the last meeting of the Robinson Government which was to have been held last evening. Lieutenant Governor Tweedie was wholly in accord with his late advisers several members of which body had been his colleagues when he was Premier, before his acceptance of the Governorship. It seems therefore not improbable if the dying Government shall recommend the filling of vacant offices, Governor Tweedie may take a course precisely the opposite of that taken by Lord Aberdeen twelve years ago.

If the appointments are so made it will remain to be seen what action the Hazen Government will take thereupon, whether to permit them to stand or recommend dismissal. The St. John Globe says it seems to be pretty generally taken for granted that no opposition will be offered to any appointments, provided the new office holders are men fitted to fairly discharge the duties imposed on them.

The St. John Telegraph, which strongly supported Mr. Hazen in the election offers no editorial opinion in the premises but prints a despatch from Montreal, mentioning that Premier Robinson is on his way to Ottawa where it is understood he will seek advice of the federal leaders regarding appointments. The opinion of "a leading French Liberal member" is quoted to the effect that Sir Wilfrid will advise Premier Robinson to get out of office at once, and above all to make no posthumous appointments. This would accord with Sir Wilfrid's strongly asserted attitude in 1896.

THE TUNNEL AGAIN.

The Tunnel question has again been before Parliament, Messrs Martin, McLean and Lefurgey making strong pleas for this important work, and Mr. Hughes speaking again as the apologist for the Government and for delay. The last-named representative is thus quoted in the friendly Patriot:

"The Province was in need of improved transportation facilities but the Government would not be justified in proceeding with an undertaking of the magnitude of the Tunnel until there had been the fullest investigation."

We beg to remind Mr. Hughes that he has from time to time voted for vast and costly works in the west, undertaken without investigation—the Grand Trunk Pacific, for instance to cost the price of fifteen or twenty Tunnels. But a work involving the very life of Prince Edward Island must not be undertaken "without the fullest investigation." Seventeen years ago Sir Wilfrid Laurier practically promised us the Tunnel. He has been now almost twelve years in power. If the Tunnel question has not been fully investigated in that time, whose fault is it?

All honor to Mr. Wright of Renfrew, Ont., who had the fairness, courage and patriotism to endorse the construction of the Tunnel, if it can be built for ten millions, "as the only way of keeping faith with Prince Edward Island." That is the only way. Mr. Wright is a Liberal and quite puts to shame some of the Liberals nearer this longitude.

THE AUTOMOBILE.

Dear Sir,—I have been reading some letters in your paper regarding the running of automobiles and asking for an expression of public opinion on the question. Speaking for myself and those that I have talked with they are strongly opposed to the running of autos and think they should pay a tax of not less than $500 with restrictions.

Take the case of last spring when two ladies were driving a horse, and met an automobile. The horse became unmanageable and one of the ladies, the mother of a family of little children, was injured. She has been in the hospital for months, unable to attend to her household duties or look after her little ones at home, and today with all the expense her husband has had to pay through this trying ordeal, she is no better.

This is only one case of a number and the like is liable to occur again at any time. We do not know who may be the next to suffer. It may be you or it may be me. Therefore I claim that the most drastic legislation that can be enacted will be the only way to keep the automobile in its proper place. I would like to own an automobile myself and would enjoy it immensely but I deny myself that luxury, knowing that it would be a menace and a danger to the travelling public.

HUMOR.

Humor dwells with sanity, and common sense, and truth.—Bishop Brewster.

Humor dwells with sanity,
Truth and common sense.
Humor is humanity,
Sympathy intense.

Humor always laughs with you,
Never at you; she
Loves the fun that's sweet and true,
And of malice free;

Paints the picture of the fad,
Folly of the day,
As it is, the good and bad,
In a kindly way.

There behind her smiling mien,
In her twinkling eyes,
Purpose true is ever seen,
Seriousness lies.

Hers the tender mother's touch
Easing all distress;
Teaching, e'en though smiling much;
Moulding with caress.
