This is the first case in Prince Edward Island of the admission of a lady to the study of law. POTATO SHIPPING DIFFICULTIES.—Serious difficulty has been experienced this season in securing sufficient protected cars for potato transportation. Several reasons are assigned among them the fact that a great many cars are detained in the United States; another and the principal one, that the extaordinarily large crop of apples in Nova Scotia is making a heavy demand on rolling stock. A large proportion of these apples are not marketable in Europe and are therefore thrown on the Canadian market, necessitating the employment of more protected cars than usual. The situation in this province has latterly become so serious that Mr. W. P. Fox, of the Dominion Fruit Department who is here as transportation agent, took up matters with Ottawa emphasizing the absolute necessity of making better provisions than has so far been made to prevent serious loss to farmers and merchants Mr. Fox made matters very plain and as a result received the following telegram Saturday evening from the Transportation Agent at Ottawa: "Number of Eastman heaters and refrigerators supplied for today and more in sight. Efforts will be made to continue supply next week."

Six barrels labelled black molasses arrived there on Saturday night from Montreal, three addressed to George McDonald and three to a Mr. McFarlane. As there are no such people living at Hunter River certain suspicions arose as to the nature of the contents and the Inspector was notified and started to do some inspecting One of the barrels was opened and sure enough it contained black molasses but there was something beyond this of a more exuberant character. All the barrels which were of 35 gallons capacity are reported to be of similar make-up and the whole consignment valued at about $2000.

The bride was attired in a suit of blue serge with hat to match. The bridesmaid was Miss Jennie Curley while the groom was supported by Mr. T. A. McQuaid. A PARSONAGE PARTY.—On Friday evening, November 28th, the Rev. and Mrs. Webster entertained the young people of Cornwall and vicinity. Upwards of forty youth and maidens assembled at the Parsonage and whiled away the evening in games and merry talk. The genial host and his wife aparently know the way to young folks' hearts as signified by the dainty and substantial lunch served during the evening and to which ample justice was done. Even though Jack Frost was in evidence that evening, yet ice-cream seemed but to warm the hearts of the youth assembled.
