WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Reads of the off-year elections, headed by Mayor F. LaGuardia's return to office in New York showed tonight that the voting generally ran just about true to form.

LaGuardia's winning of a third term by a 133-81 plurality, smaller than those he enjoyed in his previous victories, constituted no upset. His opponent, District Attorney William O'Dwyer of Brooklyn, had potent support from Tammany Hall and Democratic leaders although President Roosevelt endorsed the Mayor.

Final returns showed 1,186,394 votes for LaGuardia, 1,062,553 for O'Dwyer and 21,402 for George W. Hartman, Socialist.

Demimion Debt increases $377,431,801 Interpreting The War

OTTAWA, Nov. 5.—(CP)—The total debt of Canada increased $377,431,801 in the past year ending March 31, 1941, said the public accounts of W. C. Clark, deputy minister of finance, tabled in the Commons today by Fin. and Minister of Finance.

The total net debt of the Dominion at the close of the fiscal year was $3,648,891,448.

Total expenditures of the government in 1940-41 were $1,249,601,446, this being the sum of ordinary war and special expenditures, operating losses of and non-active advances to government-owned enterprises, capital expenditures and other charges including the write-down of assets.

Total revenues, including special receipts and various credits, was $872,169,645.

Total outlay for war purposes was $778,424,391. Included in this sum was $26,379,065 representing loans and advances charged to the government.

Total net war expenditures, including the write-down of assets, was $782,043,326. Loans and advances included purchase of railway equipment leased to railway companies, and advances to merchant marine and other commodity companies by the munitions and supply department, the latter amounting to $9,800,792.

The net war expenditures, $380,344,766, went to army services; $98,162,511, navy services; $77,532, British Commonwealth International Plan, $121,501,922; armament operations, $608,203 and sundry, $2,084,620.

The munitions and supply department required $7,676,556 and other departments $24,415,087 from the total of net war expenditures.

The report said that subsidies paid provinces since July, 1867, to March 31, totalled $574,444,529.

HELSINKI, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The United States demand that Finland quit fighting Russia is an effort to open the Murmansk-Moscow railroad to British-American planes and to release the Russian forces we have tied down on a long front," the newspaper contended tonight.

Russia still holds "strategically vital parts of our land," Finland's leading newspaper declared, and compliance with the United States demand would mean "sacrificing the military security of our army and the whole nation we have achieved on our eastern borders."

Finland has not yet announced an answer to State Secretary Cordell Hull's note that Finland risks loss of United States friendship if she kept on fighting Russia.

only a short time" before the Nazi submarines "will be close to our Nova Scotia coasts. The battle of the Atlantic was growing ever more intense.

But, the Admiral added, that battle slowly but surely was being won, as witnessed by the fact that to date close on 40,000,000 tons of cargo have been safely transported to the United Kingdom in some 6,000 merchant ships.

The two discussions by Mr. Macdonald—first that the subs were operating near Newfoundland's shores and then location of the attacks by a corvette and an air force coastal plane—were prompted by a reporter's request for elaboration of the minister's speech in the House of Commons last night. The minister told the Commons that "more than one" Nazi sub had been sunk by the Canadian navy.

The announcements here and at Oakville were the first official confirmation of such reports that had been reaching Atlantic ports since shortly after the outbreak of the war. So there was no surprise in marine circles at Halifax, focal point of Canadian naval activities, or at New York.

New York marine observers said three ships of a convoy were sunk by Nazi U-boats less than 280 miles from St. John's, Newfoundland, several months ago. Unofficial reports in New York said that Canadian planes based at the island's airport had sunk several of the subs.

A group of survivors of a torpedoed ship reported Halifax some weeks ago from Newfoundland and reporters were given to understand the torpedoing occurred near the Newfoundland coast.

Naval authorities at Ottawa recalled that in the first Great War the German underwater craft had operated more than once just 25 to 30 miles from the coast of Canada. At least one ship was torpedoed just a few miles from Halifax. "Spotter" submarines lay silent near the coast of east coast harbors in the last war to radiate information about outbound convoys.

This consisted of three hoses linked together producing one stream of water which was being applied chiefly to the burning heap of coal.

Several explosions occurred in the building as the flames spread to the various sections. These were believed to be caused by drums of oil.

Thousands of citizens stood around the block watching the fire. Some of the stock in the school supply was carried out before the flames reached that part and the street was white with papers which were scattered about. Boys and girls were gathering armfuls of books and taking them away with them.

Expansion of Shipbuilding in Canada

OTTAWA, Nov. 5.—(CP)—Munitions Minister Howe today announced an expansion of Canada's war time shipbuilding program, with negotiations under way for construction of an additional 55 Corvettes, 25 minesweepers, 16 trawlers, and an additional 50 merchant vessels.

After referring to the laying of keels in Canada for two large destroyers of the Tribal class, Mr. Howe said in his statement.

"Investigations also are in progress with a view to further progressive development of the shipbuilding industry in this country to a point where even larger vessels may be produced."

The minister said that extensive facilities for ship repairs now are being provided at an estimated cost of $4,500,000 from the rear.

"By this means a system, has been evolved which will permit naval and merchant vessels operating in the Atlantic and which have been damaged by enemy action or other causes to be repaired in Canadian ports for repair," Mr. Howe said.

"This important innovation not only will avoid congestion of United Kingdom repair facilities but will provide a means of escape from enemy bombing while in port."

Mr. Howe's statement disclosed the increase in the shipbuilding program was issued only a few hours after his speech to the House of Commons in which he gave an outline of construction work accomplished so far.

The minister said the 25 additional minesweepers will be "of a size substantially larger than those made heretofore in Canada." The 16 trawlers would be used for minesweeping but would be suitable for fishing after the war.

In addition to ships already launched, Canadian yards were working on the construction of more than 230 other naval units.

The 50 extra cargo-boats would be delivered in 1943 raising the ultimate cargo-vessel construction program to 133 ships at an estimated cost of nearly $275,000,000. It will be of 9,300 tons deadweight. Included in the cargo-ship program are 10 vessels of 4,700 tons.
