The distinct cleavage between the policies of Premier King and Hon. R. B. Bennett with respect to British preference was strongly stressed by Mr. MacDonald, who pointed out that a bargain which is all one-sided can never be satisfactory to either party.

"Even looking at it from a patriotic standpoint, isn't it our duty to build up Canada as best we can for Canadians?" he asked. "If we leave Canada a weak link in the chain, it leaves the whole Empire weak."

The trade of the country, and the channels through which it passes, are the chief concern of any government. While Mr. MacDonald believed in foreign markets to the largest possible extent, he believed in home markets even more strongly.

THE ONE REMEDY

"There is one remedy, and one only, if this country is going to stay in the dairy business, and that is protect the home market." Mr. MacDonald continued. "We know that farming cannot be carried on successfully without dairying, yet this unfair New Zealand competition means the death of the dairy industry."

Mr. MacDonald dealt also with the decline in wool prices following the tariff tinkering of the King Government. He referred also to the potato industry. Last summer Cuba put a prohibitive tariff on our potatoes. This was an illustration of what we are exposed to any time if we have to depend on foreign markets.

The advantages which the United States and other countries have reaped as a result of tariff protection were convincingly illustrated.

SEED POTATOES

"Take our seed potatoes in the Southern States. What has the King Government done to open up that market or maintain it for us? They have absolutely failed to do a single thing. Worse than that, within the last few weeks the tariff against us on this market has been increased 100 per cent. Don't you think the King Government has failed in that regard? They have knuckled down and toed to Washington and all they got was a slap in the face. So it is fair to say that their policy has absolutely failed in this regard."

A QUEBEC PORTFOLIO

"We do not disparage Dr. Cyrus MacMillan at all," Mr. Stewart continued. "I would be the last to do that. I appreciate his ability; and I know that in his own walk of life he is a credit to the Island Province in which he was born. But the unfortunate thing is that he was taken out of his sphere where he could do good work and placed in a sphere for which he is altogether unfitted."

OLD AGE PENSIONS

"Three years ago," he continued, Old Age Pensions was a live issue in the provincial election campaign in this Province. What have we heard about it since? There are two gentlemen here on the platform, the present Liberal candidate and his colleague, who were active in that campaign and they are members of a Government that absolutely failed to implement that pledge given in 1927. If they have an explanation I think the people of this district might ask them for it tonight. If the Liberal candidate failed to implement his pledge in this regard, if he ignored the mandate handed to him in 1927, what can you expect from him if you hand him a larger mandate? Are you not justified in thinking that he will forget all about his pledge now just as he did after he was elected in 1927?" (Applause.)

Mr. MacDonald stressed the delay of the King Government in implementing the Duncan recommendation for a second car ferry.

He referred also to the discrimination exercised against King's County by the King Government showing that of a total vote of $137,000 for public works for the Island, only $1,000 was earmarked for King's.

"When you look at those things it is not surprising that the Prime Minister of this country who can adopt such an attitude with regard to districts that did not elect Liber-

THE FISHERIES PORTFOLIO

"The Prime Minister came to Charlottetown about four years ago and what did he say about Cabinet representative? He practically promised it. For four years that promise has been forgotten. It would still be ignored and forgotten if the exigencies of an election didn't prompt him to feel that he needed to get votes on the Island. So he brought down a man from Montreal. He says: 'This will be your nominee; I don't care about your convention; You needn't hold it at all. This will be your candidate.' Mr. Macmillan has been a resident of Montreal for twenty-seven years and all his interests are there. He is a former Islander. We are not criticising him at all as a teacher of English but I think that what he knows about business affairs, about the practical administration of a department, would not fill a very large book. Yet this is the man that is taken down here. For what reason? We have had men that the Liberals of this Province have thought worthy of nominating as candidates. We had some of them already elected—Mr. A. E. McLean, Mr. R. H. Jenkins and Hon. J. E. Sinclair. There was also the Liberal candidate for this constituency who was duly nominated by his party."

"First of all it was an insult to the Island to say that there was no man in the province fit to sit around the Council Board of the King Government. (Applause). And it was a particular and direct insult to the four men that I have named because there is only one inference possible and that is that Premier King did not consider any one of these men fit for the job."

PROVINCIAL LEADER'S ADDRESS

"I do not think it lies in the mouth of any one who has recently been a member of the present provincial Government," said Hon. Mr. Stewart, referring to a statement by the Liberal candidate "to say anything about the condition of the roads today. I have driven over them on several occasions in the last two weeks, and I have not felt any the better for it; and I am sure Dr. Grant was not either. I am sure, too, that it has not helped him any in his canvass."

"On two or three occasions in his speech the Liberal candidate referred to the present Minister of Fisheries. He has said that Hon. Mr. Macmillan's appointment is going to help him. Well, I can only say that if Mr. Macmillan can do that he is an abler man than most of us think he is."

"We do not disparage Dr. Cyrus MacMillan at all," Mr. Stewart continued. "I would be the last to do that. I appreciate his ability; and I know that in his own walk of life he is a credit to the Island Province in which he was born. But the unfortunate thing is that he was taken out of his sphere where he could do good work and placed in a sphere for which he is altogether unfitted."

PROVINCE "HUMBUGGED"

"We have the Prime Minister's statement on the floor of the House of Commons that no representations had been made by the Provinces for increased subsidy; and we have heard contradictory statements made on the floor of the legislature. We have had the flat refusal of the late Premier to file or present to the House the record of what had been done, because, he said, it was not in the public interest. So the people of this province will have humbugged for the last eight years by these gentlemen who assured us in 1927 that the only thing that was necessary in order to get all our provincial rights was to put two Liberal Governments in line. We have had them in line for three years and how much did they get? How much better off are we today? (Loud Applause)."

"What have they done with that matter now? Mr. Saunders became very much alarmed when he was

OLD AGE PENSIONS

"The Liberal candidate told you that the King Government would probably appoint a Commission to decide which was the best way to pay old age pensions," Mr. Stewart continued. "The next thing we will hear will be that he will be appointing Commissions to help him make up his mind about everything."

"We have two alternative propositions with regard to old age pensions before the people, and they are very concrete and very clear. Under the legislation passed by the King Government the Provinces must pay fifty per cent of these pensions. Hon. Mr. Bennett's policy is that the Federal Government pays 100 per cent. In this Province we have no hope whatever of ever having an old age pensions scheme under the King Government system because our provincial treasury is too poor. Which policy, then, is the best for Prince Edward Island? That is the question which you will be asked to decide on July 28th, and I do not think you will have much hesitation in coming to a decision." (Applause.)

SUBSIDY INCREASE

Mr. Stewart then took up the important matter of subsidy increase. He said in part: "There is no doubt that we are entitled to increased subsidy. But will we get it with the present Government in power at Ottawa and in this Province, and if so, when? What is the history of this question? I am not going to go back into ancient history with regard to the different amounts that we have received, nor shall I take time to go into the different purposes underlying the payments of subsidy by the Federal Government. It is sufficient to say that since 1926 we had got an increased subsidy to this Province of $165,000. Dr. Grant stated on one occasion that we got all that as a result of the Duncan Commission report. That, of course, is not correct, because $40,000 of that amount was obtained in 1926 before the Duncan Commission began to function at all. It was obtained as a result of an inter-provincial conference held in Ottawa when the matter of railway taxation was dealt with."

"That was the position we were in when the present local Government came into power. The Duncan Commission had functioned, and representations with regard to increased subsidy were made before that Commission at Charlottetown by myself representing the Government of this Province, and their report with regard to those representations recommended that an immediate interim annual subsidy of $125,000 should be paid to this Province. But that was only an interim payment. It was further recommended that immediately, or as soon as possible, a complete readjustment of all the provincial subsidies should be made in order to do justice to the Maritime Provinces."

"There is not any question that as a result of that recommendation we are entitled to receive a very large increase in subsidy; an increase sufficient to satisfy all our legitimate wants as a Province. But what has been done during the past four years to gain that increase in subsidy? Absolutely nothing. The door was opened; $125,000 on account had been paid and received by this Province. In 1927 a conference was called by the Provinces and the Federal Government, and if ever there was an opportunity for presenting our claims it was at that moment. Nevertheless our claims were not pressed I understand that Hon. Cyrus Macmillan in dealing with this matter has stated that all these things has been done in pursuance of a brief presented by the Provincial Government in 1927. That statement is not correct. Not one concession of any kind has been received by this Province in pursuance of the brief presented in 1927. It was taken up by Premier Saunders and presented at that conference, and there it stopped. No pressure was brought to bear. This brief died still-born, and it has never been of one cent's worth of value to this Province."

DR. GRANT'S BON MOTS

Hon. Dr. Grant, the Liberal candidate, in his opening remarks contended that the King Government gave the best administration Canada ever had. His opponent, Mr. MacDonald, he said, was "sore" because they were beautifying Ottawa at present. "He thinks that that was good enough for him should be good enough for me!" he jested.

A sign of the Government's prosperity, Dr. Grant insisted, was that its expenses were increasing. "The farmer who is in the rut pays no taxes; but the farmer who is prospering pays more and more. Why not apply the same argument to Government," he argued.

The increased subsidy, he declared, would be received "some time this fall; and no doubt this winter old age pensions will be granted."

He insisted that he had not forgotten his promise to make good roads in the district. Launching into an eulogy of Hon. Cyrus Macmillan and his fitness for the Fisheries portfolio, Dr. Grant was halted by a question from the audience: "Why didn't you get the job?" "I am a different kind of a doctor," he retorted. Then, after a pause: "He is a doctor of Letters; that's the reason he is Minister of Fisheries." (Laughter).

meeting the legislature last session, and he went to Ottawa and made some frantic representation to the Government. What did they do? They referred the matter to the Audit Board? And who comprise the Audit Board? Three officials, three bookkeepers, of the Federal Government, who have no authority to make any readjustment of our subsidy claims. That is the position the subsidy question is in, and there it will remain so long as you have these two Governments in line."

"That is the hope that they extend to you of getting the old age pensions; because, under the King Government, we cannot have them without increased subsidy. You cannot have improved roads, you cannot have any great provincial facilities without increased revenue; and you will never realize that hope so long as you have the conditions you have not at Ottawa and in this Province."

Mr. Stewart in conclusion dealt convincingly with the Conservative policy of federal grants for highway improvement and with the need of a straightforward policy of tariff protection that will build up a properly balanced population throughout the Dominion.

Hon. Dr. Grant, the Liberal candidate, in his opening remarks contended that the King Government gave the best administration Canada ever had. His opponent, Mr. MacDonald, he said, was "sore" because they were beautifying Ottawa at present. "He thinks that that was good enough for him should be good enough for me!" he jested.

"I have just as good friends among Conservatives as among Liberals," he shouted. "Its only ignorant men who would niterruut any speaker! I can go to a Conservative house and eat my dinner just as well as at a Liberal house."

Mr. P. A. Scully, M. L. A. speaking in support of Dr. Grant, also had to steer his course through frequent noisy interruptions. He advanced the customary Liberal arguments in support of the New Zealand treaty, the reduction on tea, the countervailing duties, etc., lauding Hon. Cyrus Macmillan's appointment to the Cabinet and defending the delay in securing a subsidy readjustment.
