Pile Sufferers

End Your Misery Without Salves or Cutting

External treatments cannot permanently end Piles. Nor does cutting remove the cause. The cause is internal—bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel. The veins are faulty—the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles an internal medicine must be used to heal and strengthen the affected parts.

ASPARAGUS AU GRATIN

Two cups milk, 2 tablespoons flour, 3 tablespoons butter, salt, pepper. Make a cream sauce of the above ingredients, cooking until thick. When cooked pour this sauce on to 2 slightly beaten eggs, and stir well. Then add 1 cup of shredded, nippy cheese and mix. In the meantime, wash, trim, and cut in inch pieces enough asparagus to fill 3 cups. Boil until tender in very little water and let the water evaporate toward the last, uncovering the dish. Season the asparagus and put a layer of it in a greased casserole, then a layer of sauce and a few pieces of hard-boiled egg. Repeat until all ingredients are used. Bake in a moderate oven until well heated and delicately brown. Serve as a luncheon dish. New peas and string beans may be treated in the same way with pleasing results.

Etiquette By Roberta Lee

Q. Who should take the initiative, the man or the woman, in indicating that it would be pleasant to meet again? A. It is proper for either to do so. Q. What should one remember at dinner when helping one's self? A. To pay attention to what he is doing, and not fling the serving fork in such a way as to scatter particles of food over the floor, table or one's self. Q. May invitations, acceptances, or regrets ever be typewritten? A. Never.

HEATHERDALE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The Heatherdale Women's Institute, ever ready to enlist in the social and economic uplift of the community, staged a successful concert and pie-social in the School Hall on Tuesday, October 28th.

The thorough preparation of a program of music, instrumental and vocal, was even surpassed in the highly entertaining manner in which it was carried out.

The local talent, always to be counted on, acquitted themselves creditably on this occasion as usual and were ably supported by Mr. Malcolm MacKinnon (Mack), of Charlottetown, whose ability to entertain can only be equalled by the generosity with which he contributes his talent to any good cause. There were also present Mr. William Bruce from the City, and Miss Frances Wood and Miss Ballem from Pownal. Miss Agnes Annear of Lower Montague and Mrs. McDonald of Glen William, all of whom delighted the large audience with their pleasing rendering of choice selections, in song and story. Our ever faithful ally on such occasions, Mr. L. McKinnon with his "Brooklyn quartette" contributed a very interesting part, accompanied by Mrs. Malcolm McKenzie of Brooklyn and one of our Heatherdale girls, Miss Christine McPhee, R. N., at present home on vacation, also took a prominent part. The best of order prevailed.

Mr. W. A. MacPhee, Supervisor of Schools, occupied the chair and Mr. J. A. Campbell, M. L. A., successfully auctioned the pies, which, with the door receipts added a substantial sum to the Institute Funds.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to all who helped to make this entertainment such a splendid success. The Third Annual Meeting of the Heatherdale Women's Institute was held on November 11th at the home of Mrs. Malcolm A. McPhee, with thirteen members and three visitors present. After the usual opening exercises, the singing of the Institute Ode and the reading of the Creed, the regular routine of monthly business was capably carried on by the President, Mrs. D. A. MacRae. This being disposed of, the minutes of previous annual meeting were read by the Secretary, who also gave a detailed report of the year's work, showing the financial standing of the Institute to be in a very satisfactory condition.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Mrs. W. A. MacPhee; Vice-Pres., Mrs. J. A. Campbell; Sec.-Treasurer, Mrs. D. A. MacRae, also auditors and convenors of standing committees were appointed.

Sure Cure for Matrimonial Ills Dorothy Dix Suggests Conforming to Partner's Ideal

The Simplest Way to Solve the Domestic Problem Would be for Men and Women to Try Being the Kind of Husbands and Wives Their Partners Desire, Instead of Patting Themselves on the Back for Fulfilling Their Own Conception of Excellence

I often wonder why men and women do not, for a change and by way of experimentation, try being the kind of husbands and wives that their mates crave. This simple way of solving the domestic problem by delivering the goods, as per order and specification, rarely seems to occur to them, however. The selfish ones are the sort of husbands and wives that it is least trouble to themselves to be and those to whom they are married may take them or leave them as they please.

And this explains, as nothing else does, why so many marriages that start out with every prospect of success end in disaster. There is nothing wrong with the husbands or wives. They are fine, noble, upright people. They are doing their full duty according to their lights. They are perfectly good husbands and wives, only they are not the sort of husbands and wives that the others want.

That's the whole trouble. For if we don't get the thing that fires our fancy and for which we have a yearning, it doesn't matter a bit how good what we do get is, it is dust and ashes in our teeth. We all know from personal experience that what keeps us satisfied with a thing is not its intrinsic worth, it is its just being the particular thing on which we had set our hearts.

This being the case, why do husbands and wives not often try to conform to their wives' and husbands' ideals? Why should they not try to give satisfaction as husbands and wives as they would in any other job that they had undertaken and that they wanted to keep? They could if they would, because no man and woman can live together for three months without knowing to the last detail each other's tastes and desires and the secret yearnings of each others' souls.

Why, then, should not the woman who has married a domestic man who lives to putter around the house and who is fond of good food and of mixing the salad dressing at the table, set herself deliberately to work to learn how to cook and to be a prize-winning housekeeper? Fancy the disappointment of a man who has looked forward to sitting by his own fireside and to reveling in his own home when he finds he is united to a woman who never sweeps up the ashes or sets him down to a dinner that wouldn't kill an ostrich!

Why shouldn't the woman who is married to a gay and pleasure-loving man, one who has a yen for the bright lights and night clubs, and making whoopee, doll herself up and step out with him when he wants to go? That sort of man is bound to have a playmate, and marriage is a ball and chain to him if his wife will not tread a measure with him. Of a good wife such a man tires easily, but the wife who is a good sport keeps him perpetually interested.

Why shouldn't the woman who is married to a man who likes to be fussed over and petted and coaxed make of herself his most admiring audience? Why shouldn't the woman who is married to a clever, ambitious man enter into all his aspirations and fit herself to keep up with him? Why shouldn't the woman who is married to an affectionate man pet him and gurgle over him as she does over her baby?

No reason at all, but they seldom do. They content themselves with the knowledge that they are good, virtuous wives, which is all very well, but it isn't the kind of wives their husbands desire. Hence the bitter and disgruntled husbands. And the straying husbands. And the husbands who go to other women for understanding and companionship.

And why don't men try to be the kind of husbands their wives want? Every husband knows that what every wife desires above all other things is love and tenderness and compliments and little attentions, for the husband to make some sign that he still considers her as a lady love instead of just a piece of useful household machinery.

Every man knows that his wife's dream of a perfect husband is one who will tell her that she is prettier than any flapper and that he likes them stout and with grizzled hair, who thinks up little treats for her and takes her to the movies without being prodded into it, who remembers her birthday and the day he first met her and brings her a bunch of flowers instead of ordering them from the florist, who gives her fine clothes if he can afford it and if he can't goes window shopping with her and tells her he would dress her like the Queen of Sheba if he had the money and whose kisses are not perfunctory pecks of duty on the cheek, but warm with love and passion.

It wouldn't take much time or thought or money for any man to be the kind of husband his wife wants, but most of them stick to their own original conception of a model husband; that a man has done his full duty to his wife when he pays her bills. Which is why there are so many peevish and disgruntled wives.

It would certainly be an interesting experiment for husbands and wives to try to give satisfaction in the positions they have undertaken to fill. Let's hope some young couples will be adventurous enough to try.

DOROTHY DIX.

During the year a committee visited the school each month and treated the children to fruit or candy. The books were provided for use in the school and prizes were given for public speaking at the school fair.

In addition to this, the activities of the Institute were directed towards the improvement of the Hall; cement steps and railing were placed at the entrance; cleaning and renovating were done inside; a new Coleman lamp and stage curtains were provided all of which added greatly to the comfort and general appearance of the building. The remainder of the evening was taken up in making plans for the

A Morning Smile

A customer sat down to a table in a small restaurant and tied his napkin around his neck because he had a new necktie. The manager scandalized, called a boy and said to him: "Try to make that patron understand as tactfully as possible that that's not being done here." And the boy, approaching the man very seriously, said: "A shave or hair cut, sir?"

Catarrhal Deafness May Be Relieved

A SIMPLE, SAFE AND RELIABLE WAY THAT CALMS PAIN AND QUIETS TRUMPETS, PHONES OR OTHER INSTRUMENTS. To have catarrhal deafness is very annoying and embarrassing. People who are deaf in this way are generally mighty sensitive on this subject. And yet many catarrhal deaf folks carry around instruments that call attention to their infirmity. Therefore people who are hard of hearing who suffer from head noises or who are actually deaf from catarrhal trouble, will be glad to know of a simple treatment that can be easily made up at home for a few cents cost that is really quite efficient in relieving the disagreeable deafness and head noises caused by catarrh. From any druggist get one ounce of Parmitin (double strength). Take this home and put it into a simple syrup made of 1/2 pint of hot water and a little ordinary sugar. Take a tablespoonful four times a day. This treatment should be tonic action reduce the inflammation in the middle ear that a catarrhal condition would be likely to cause, and with the inflammation gone the distressing head noises, headaches, cloudy thinking and the dull feeling in the ears should gradually disappear. Anyone who suffers from catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises should give Parmitin a trial. It is pleasant to take and is quite inexpensive.

AUSTRALIA STOPS COMMUNIST RIOTS

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Dec. 4.—(By The Canadian Press)—Recent sporadic outbreaks of rioting and disturbances fomented by Communists in different parts of the Commonwealth have led to an examination of the extent to which the Communists have spread in Australia. A writer of the Sydney Sun declares sympathizers with Communism, owing to unemployment and sectional bitterness, number at least 2,000 in Port Melbourne, where that number of votes were cast for the Communist candidate at the last elections. The police in Adelaide say there are hundreds of men in the Port, who, while not avowed Communists, would follow any course that promised excitement and a new shuffle of the cards. Sydney is the headquarters of the party. Five known Reds are on the Sydney Trades and Labor Council. Thousands are to be found on the waterfront. Brisbane is fairly strong, and, apart from the Communist Party of Australia itself, there are a round dozen of organizations, under various names, always changing, which are really Communist in their aims and are governed by the party machine from Moscow.

The Rogers Hardware Co. Limited

Loaded batons and cartridges as much Russian propaganda was seized there. Communists were taken to the city jail in carloads.

The police allege that at the present time Communists are mixing with the unemployed and inciting them to violence. Communists were conspicuous in a big parade of unemployed in Melbourne and their conduct was offensive. Women Communists looped on the running boards of motorcars and male Communists walked slowly before street cars, all their acts being with the object of arousing disturbances.
