telephone to her husband, Dexter reflected, plodding on through the snow.

Daniel had continued talking to Jerome for a few minutes longer—that would be a pretty costly call, in more ways than one. Dexter could not help thinking Jerome had nothing but his Lieutenant's salary, and if he were going to get married, he would have to watch his pennies more carefully than he had done before. Jerome was careless about money, but Jerome was the real spendthrift of the family.

Whatever had he been doing? Jerome's gone completely off his mind? And then, to fall her over heels in love with a stranger girl behind the counter—a girl who had no home and no name and whose name was Alex St. Cyr. Dexter had gazed across the panelled living room in which the being of so many Farman's he centered, and looked at Judith, who bore her great-grandmother's strong name staunchly, with a deeper sense of thankfulness and security than ever before. He knew her for a girl to say as well as her virtues, and they all had a meaning to him. He would not have wanted her if she had been easy to win, as the French girl who had consented to marry Jerome when she had known him for only a week. Of course it would be harder for a girl to say no to Jerome than to him, he realized that Jerome had always been irresistible, like Jenness. But still...

It was the first time Dexter Abot had ever heard a tremulous voice in Serena Farman's gentle voice. Her hand was trembling as she handed the receiver to her husband.

"A girl has to have time to get ready to be married," she said. "I don't understand about such things. A nice girl like Jerome would want to marry, shouldn't be rushed into marriage like that. Anyway, her folks wouldn't let her do it. Tell him that, Daniel."

"You let me talk to him my own way," Daniel Farman said. He did not speak rudely, in addressing his wife, but he did speak to her as if she were a child. "I hear from you. Yes, it does look bad—Yes, I see, but you've given your mother quite a surprise. How's that again?—Yes, I'll explain to your mother."

Jerome says this girl hasn't got any time to go to or any time to consult," he announced, turning from the telephone. "She was brought up in a convent. Jerome me, her in the jewelry store at Fayetteville where she works. She's from Louisiana, but she had a chance to get the job in North Carolina, so she took it. It's nothing to marry him right away, that is, if his family doesn't have any objection. Oh, I see. What was it you said her name was, Jerome? I guess you better get the telephone again. What do Jerome's named Alex St. Cyr."

Daniel stated in his matter of fact way that Jerome had been straight from heaven. What do you want? I should tell the boy, Mother?"

TAKE 2 STORY
Dexter against his will, before he had given them conscious thought, Judith turned on him almost angrily.

"Dexter, you heard those poor children are terribly sick and the three others in the family have all been exposed. They'll probably come down with scarlet fever too."

"But Judith, if you take a contagious case like that now, you won't be home for Christmas! You won't see Jenness! You and I can't even exchange letters! And, there's so much for us to plan—"

DARING ROMANCE IN "TOGETHER AGAIN"

"Together Again" Starring Irene Dunne, Charles Boyer with Charles Coburn at the Prince Edward Theatre today. It's their most exciting and hilarious love affair!

Their eyes meet again! Their lips meet again! Their hearts meet again. In the year's most glorious, enchanting, daring romantic comedy. What love!

What laughter!

Besides its brilliant stars, "Together Again" boasts of a cast which features Mona Freeman, Jerome Courland, Elizabeth Patterson and Charles Dingle.

The original story was written by Stanley Russell and Herbert Eberman, the screen play by Virginia Van Upp and P. Hugh Vernon. It was directed by Charles Van Upp.

"Together Again" tells the story of a small-town mayor (Irene Dunne) who, through the purchase of a sophisticated sculptor (Charles Boyer), forgets about her devoted husband for the joys of

Islanders Wed In Halifax

A pretty wedding took place at the Wesley Smith Memorial Church, Mansie in Halifax at 11 p.m. Monday, Dec. 25, 1944, when Rev. Dr. W. R. Seely united in marriage Mary Jane Quigley, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Quigley, Carleton, P. E. I., and James Elmer Matheson, son of Mr. William Burgoyne and the late Alexander Matheson of Rose Valley, P.E.I.

The youthful bride was charming in a gown of blue and white crepe, with crystal and gold buttons, and a small hat of matching blue with gold ornament. The young couple were unattended, the ceremony being witnessed by the brother-in-law and sister of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Wilber.

Radio's top comedy star is sitting on top of the hit world. Clowning, go-to-towning, singing, dancing, spooning, mooning, in her most entertaining entertainment to date.

Besides this rollicking serial, there is Jane Frazee and her swing songs and Bob Crosby and his pleasing ballads in an assortment of melodic interludes. The numbers include "Kansas City Kitty" by Walter Donaldson and Edgar Leslie; "Pretty Kitty Blue Eyes" by Mann Curtis and Vic Mizzy; "Nothing Boogie From Nowhere" by Saul Chablin and "Tico Tico No Paba" by Zequinha Abru.

The Only Answer

Of course there had been only one thing to tell him Mrs. Matheson must have known what she would have to say in the end, even before she surrendered the reins of Halifax.

Following the ceremony Mrs. Matheson served a delicious wedding supper at her home, 204 Almon St. Mr. and Mrs. Matheson spent a short honeymoon at the home of the bride's parents in Carleton, P. E. I. For travelling Mrs. Matheson wore a seal coat and a fur hat.

Previous to her marriage the bride was an efficient and popular school teacher, having taught at Albany, Carleton and Borden schools. The groom is employed as a carpenter at H.M.C.S. Dockyard in Halifax. They will reside at 46 Berlin St., Halifax. The Guardian joins their many friends in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Matheson much happiness in their wedded life.

A post-nuptial shower was given Mrs. Matheson at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Thomson, Carleton, on Thursday evening, Jan. 4.

A living room was tastefully decorated with pink and white streamers. To the music of the Bridal Chorus the hostess ushered the bride to a white-trimmed seat under a large white marriage bell, and a basket heaped with interesting packages was placed before her.

Mrs. Brenon Stewart unwrapped the parcels. Mrs. Gordon Ross sang accompanying verses and cards, and passed the gifts to the bride, and Mrs. Wendell MacWilliams arranged the gifts on a table.

In a very nice little speech Mary thanked her friends for their gifts, and her host and hostess gave her their home for the shower. She extended a cordial invitation to all her friends and her new home, 46 Berlin St., Halifax. "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow" was sung and the bride was bounced.

The gifts were pretty and useful and included linen, silver, pyrexware and money. A delicious lunch of sandwiches, cake, cookies and tea was served by the ladies.

FOR PRIVATE SALE

I have been operating a very productive farm at Marshfield, Prince Edward Island since my return from overseas service in the last war, together with a cheese factory at Dunstaffnage and a General Mercantile Business in Charlottetown, with the assistance of a stepson, my only family. Since the Mobilization Board here does not consider his work essential, my chief assistant is to be taken from me, and I cannot carry on, I offer for PRIVATE SALE, the following:—

1. NO. 1. FARM containing fifty (50) acres, new house with all modern conveniences. Barns equipped with electric lights and running water. Well kept lawns and driveway, and in every way a first-class home, situated on the paved St. Peter's Road, seven miles from Charlottetown. Also, my entire herd of TWENTY-FIVE (25) REGISTERED AND GRADED HOLSTEIN CATTLE. Also, ONE HUNDRED AND THREE (103) HOGS (good-sized junks), and a new MASSEY-HARRIS MILKING MACHINE;

NO. 2. CHEESE FACTORY known as DUNSTAFFNAGE CHEESE & BUTTER COMPANY. This plant is all newly equipped and operates all the year round and has the largest production of cheese on P. E. I. Adjoining is a large store 65 x 65 feet, all new electric lighting and is one of the best business stands on P. E. I. Also adjoining is a new bungalow all in first-class condition. This business is a wonderful opportunity for someone; if factory is not sold by a certain date Factory will be closed.

NO. 3. CASH & CARRY STORE. Meats and Groceries operating very successfully for the past fifteen years at 187 GREAT GEORGE STREET, CHARLOTTETOWN. This store is 60 x 30 feet, three floors with good basement. Reasonable rent and operates on an ALL CASH SYSTEM. A very large stock on hand with all necessary equipment. Building can be rented but not sold.

Parties interested, apply to—
