African Youths Take Cordially To Shakespeare

(Canadian Press)
 MANCHESTER, England, Nov. 21.—Shakespeare is becoming popular in Uganda, British Protectorate in East Africa, through Father B. Doyle, English master at St. Joseph's seminary for the education of native priests, at N'enga, Uganda, training his pupils to act Shakespeare. Father Doyle, on a visit to Manchester, was interviewed with regard to the matter.

The seminary is situated about four miles from the source of the Nile and exists to train African boys for the Roman Catholic priesthood. They come from a vast area and some of them return to their villages without taking orders. None of them know any English at first, and a course in the language and literature is one of the main items of the curriculum.

In 1929 Father Doyle took one of the intermediate classes in "Julius Caesar", and, after the play had been read and studied, he decided to try an acted version. The experiment, which was made in an old dormitory before an audience of the college staff, was so successful that a complete production of "Julius Caesar" in costume, was presented on a stage in the college refectory in the following year.

In 1929 a version of "Macbeth" without the battle scenes was produced. "Julius Caesar", by this time an established favorite, was repeated in 1930 with the King of Uganda and his Court among the audience.

Then in 1931 the climax came with a complete production of "Hamlet" with a cast drawn from eight different tribes. The part of Hamlet was taken by Laurence Mowega, a 17-year-old boy from the Island of Bavuma, in Lake Victoria, and that of Ophelia by Nicholas Owor, aged 17, of the famous Kenya tribe, the Kavondo. Mowega has since won the English prize at Makerere College, the native university in Embury, to which pupils of St. Joseph's graduate, and is a keen Shakespearean student.

"I was myself astonished at the success of the experiment," said Father Doyle. "The boys take to Shakespeare's works with enthusiasm. They at once understand the rhetoric, the vivid action, and the rich humor of the Elizabethan theatre. They love the oratory of Brutus and Mark Antony and the comedy of the gravediggers in Hamlet. Their memories are prodigious, and they can repeat whole plays without a prompter."

"The boys learn English with great difficulty at first, but the brighter among them soon become good at it, and once that is accomplished they are surprisingly quick at Latin."

GIRL GUIDE NEWS

First Charlottetown company held their regular meeting in St. Peter's School Room. Inspection was taken. Patrol corners held and books marked. Three Brownies were then brought up to guides, a ceremony being held. The girls were wished good guiding. The guides had as their visitors, members of the Brownie pack, also three members of the 2nd Charlottetown Company. Games were played, points given to the patrol winning. Points are also given for attendance, neatness and full uniform. Canary Patrol having the most points so far. The girls are busy preparing for tests to be passed in connection with guiding. Five recruits are preparing to pass the tenderfoot tests which has to be passed before they can be enrolled as guides. Camp fire was held. Swallow patrol having charge of the program. Meeting closed with Auld Lang Syne followed by taps. Thrush Patrol have charge of program for campfire at meeting next week.

WOMEN OF PHILIPPINES GIVEN RIGHT TO VOTE

MANILA, Nov. 21.—Suffrage was granted women of the Philippines yesterday, marking the first extension of the right to vote to the women of an Oriental country.

Enfranchisement came through the action of the Insular Legislature. It passed the Suffrage Bill on recommendation of Governor General Frank Murphy, former mayor of Detroit. Women will be placed on the same electoral basis as men.

"Women have given ample proof of their capacity for unerring appraisal and energetic action in the treatment of problems involving personal and human relationships," Governor Murphy said.

Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home

Big Saving! No Cooking! So Easy!

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It takes but a moment to prepare, and costs very little, but it positively has no equal for quick, lasting relief.

From any drugist, get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a 16 oz. bottle and fill the bottle with granulated sugar syrup, made with 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's so easy! Thus you make 16 ounces of better remedy than you could buy ready-made, and you get four times as much for your money. It never spoils and children love its taste.

This simple mixture soothes and heals the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing. Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, the most reliable healing agent for severe coughs. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Victorian Girls Not so Clinging As People Think

(By Thomas T. Champion Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, Nov. 21.—Mrs. Oliver Strachey, the famous publicist, derides the popular notion that the young lady of the Victorian era was but a timid, clinging, easily influenced creature. For every Dora Copperfield, declares Mrs. Strachey, there were a dozen Becky Sharnps.

Mrs. Strachey was speaking at Bedford College on "Changes in woman themselves during the last 100 years."

Mrs. Strachey accepted the contemporary idea of young women which holds them to be self-reliant, energetic, plucky, tough, realistic, tacticians, outspoken and ambitious.

She pointed out, however, that the traditionally feminine and clinging qualities were most attractive to young men, and that Miss 1933 certainly did not evince any abatement in her desire to attract.

"On the other hand," said Mrs. Strachey, "I have failed to satisfy myself that Victorian girls were really what they were supposed to be." A study of 16th century novels, biography and letters certainly proved no conclusive evidence. As for the tracts and lectures for young women which had been so popular in the 19th century, all the evidence showed that the Victorian girl was wanting in those very qualities for which she was famed. Otherwise it would not have been necessary to tell the woman about to marry: "One important rule to be impressed upon your mind is the superiority of your husband simply as a man," or: "At home it is but fitting that the master of the house should be able to enjoy every personal indulgence"— extracts from a work on "Female Duty," by Mrs. Elis.

"Emancipation has not changed young women," Mrs. Strachey concluded. As far as older women were concerned, however, there was no doubt at all that 100 years ago women grew old much more rapidly and suffered more extensively from ill-health than they do today.

AKOLA, India, Nov. 21.—Questioned about reports that he is going to United States in the spring, the Mahatma Gandhi told The Associated Press he had received no invitation to go there.

He added that only recently he declared his utter inability to go to America or elsewhere, stating he would not depart from his vow to devote his energy to the cause of the Untouchables of India until the end of July.

Household Drudgery The Bane of a Woman's Life

Nature intended women to be strong and healthy instead of weak and sickly, but how can a woman have good health when she has to go through the household drudgery without any relaxation. Is it any wonder she becomes nervous and irritable, has hot flushes, faint and dizzy spells, shortness of breath, sinking and smothering sensations, and can't sleep at night.

Women who are weak and run down will find in Milburn's H. & N. Pills a remedy to strengthen the system and bring back the much desired health.
