Provincial stock breeders and meat dealers and feeders will be interested in the information that Dr. J. G. Rutherford, Veterinary Director-General, announces that the restrictions imposed upon the importation of cattle, sheep, other ruminants and swine from Great Britain, by reason of the existence of foot and mouth disease in that country, have been removed. The recent outbreak in Great Britain was not of a very serious character, and the authorities were soon able to get it under control. The removal of the restrictions will enable Canadian breeders to take up the importation of breeding cattle as of old.

Ever since the hand ball season opened last fall there have been interesting and closely contested games in the League of the Cross A.I., especially when the trophy was contested for. Two members got a grip upon the trophy early in the season and although they were several times so hard pressed that their most ardent supporters lost heart, yet they succeeded in retaining the championship trophy, and are still anxious to add a few more victories to their list before the season closes if any dare give them battle.

While baseball in the sister Provinces is getting well under way, organizations and leagues completed and schedules drawn up, the game here is showing little or no signs of rejuvenation. Last year's experience showed that there is excellent material for a three or four team league and the good old game should not be allowed to lapse here just because it did not receive the support or encouragement it deserved last season. On Monday evening a meeting of those interested in the game will be held in the Y. M. C. A. and it is expected that the result of this meeting will be the formation of a league, including a strong team from that institution, the members of which have expressed an earnest desire to enter into a league should one be formed. All those who are interested in the good old game either as players or supporters of the movement should make an effort to attend this meeting in order that a league should receive the proper impetus. The game here is indulged in solely by amateurs and their love of true sport should prompt a hearty encouragement of the game here.

NEW BANGOR TO BE A "SUPERIOR CITY"

BANGOR, Me., May 8.—That the conflagration which devastated Bangor did not daunt its citizens is proved by the fact that almost before the embers had cooled, they began the task of clearing away ruins and preparing to rebuild a finer and more modern city.

New Bangor will be much superior in many ways than the old town which vanished in flames and smoke. Everybody here has supreme confidence in the future of the city, and there is plenty of home capital to carry out every plan.

The homeless have all been housed. Stocks of food and all kinds of goods to replenish stores are on the way here from New York or Boston or already have arrived. Merchants who were burned out have established temporary quarters. Their new shops, after the devastated section is rebuilt, will be bigger, more convenient and slightly than the ones wiped out by fire.

One fortunate thing about the big blaze was that it did not reach the wholesale section, and so there is no famine and no dearth of goods of any kind.

Retail dealers will but all the goods which the wholesalers now have, and the supplies ordered are to restock the warehouses of the latter. When bank vaults cooled off there was a big fire at Bangor.

Everybody seemed to keep cool during the calamity, and after it was over and stock had been taken there was concerted effort to get business started at once. It is believed now that the fire loss will not be above $4,000,000. Gas and electric light service was resumed several days ago and the telephones will soon be restored to use.

The appointment will be officially announced today.

ROYAL PURPLE STOCK FOOD.

The special attention of all who are interested in stock food and poultry is directed to the large ad on page 2 of today's issue of The Guardian. "Royal Purple" Stock and Poultry Specimens should not be confounded with the so-called stock foods with which the market is flooded. The Canadian Government Chemist in 1907 in a book published in the interest of farmers, stated plainly that upon examining most of these stock "foods," he found they were made up of cheap wheat substances finely ground with very little virtue in them and that the farmer would be further ahead to water on the water. He admitted that the author of the bill had taken a bold and frank course, a possibly helpful course, but said the Government could not accept the proposals as a solution of the difficulty. The bill passed its first reading.

350 LORDS OF PARLIAMENT ARE PROPOSED

LONDON, May 8.—Lord Lansdowne, the leader of the Opposition in the House of Lords, introduced his bill for the reform of the Upper House before a great audience, in which were many diplomats, today. The Unionists, he said, were convinced that an amendment to the constitution of the House of Lords should proceed simultaneously with a reform in the relations of the two Houses. They desired to demonstrate to the country that they could provide an efficient second chamber, which could be trusted to use its powers fairly as between the great political parties, and faithfully to serve the democracy and, at the same time, be strong enough to resist the gusts of passion and prejudice with which all democracies were familiar.

They proposed a House to consist of 350 lords of parliament. No peer should hold his seat for more than twelve years, but they would be eligible for re-election.

The peers themselves would elect 100 members of the peerage possessing the statutory qualifications, such as present or former viceroys, governors, privy councillors, members of the House of Commons, diplomatic, naval and military officials, heads of civil service departments, lord mayors, provosts, etc.

A second contingent would consist of 120 members, to be elected from outside the House of Lords by an electoral college, composed of members of the lower House representing constituencies comprised in the electoral districts, into which the country would be divided by specially appointed commissioners.

The third section of the House, numbering 100, would be appointed by the crown on the recommendation of the cabinet.

Princes of the royal blood would retain their seats, as also would two archbishops, while five bishops would be elected.

Including the lord-chancellor and the ex-lord chancellor, there would be sixteen law lords.

The bill provides that peers who are lords of parliament shall be elected by the House of Commons. Lord Lansdowne concluded by expressing the belief that there could be no permanent party majority in a house reconstructed in this manner.

Under the measure introduced by Lord Lansdowne, the power of the crown to appoint hereditary peers is limited to five appointments each year.

Viscount Morley, who immediately followed Lord Lansdowne, threw cold water on the plan. He admitted that the author of the bill had taken a bold and frank course, a possibly helpful course, but said the Government could not accept the proposals as a solution of the difficulty. The bill passed its first reading.

TOUCHING CITY.

At the present time the lowest salary paid to the operators on the road is in the neighborhood of $67 per month, but it must be remembered that the telegraphers have long hours and work Sundays.

This move is made independently of the telegraphers' convention which is being held in the city today.

THE SUFFRAGETHS ARE PERSISTENT

LONDON, May 8.—The suffragettes and their supporters in parliament, nothing if not persistent, have introduced in the House of Commons another bill "to enable women to vote at parliamentary elections." This latest bill adds to the existing franchise of female enfranchisement, which would give the vote to a larger proportion of women than did the bill of last year, which merely removed the disqualification of sex and marriage and was opposed by Chancellor Lloyd George and other cabinet ministers on the ground that it would only enfranchise the wealthier classes. Last year's bill, if passed, would have enfranchised about one-tenth of the adult female population. The bill to be introduced would enfranchise nearly one-half.

Under the present franchise a male owner or tenant of premises can exercise the franchise. Only a very few married women would qualify as "owner or tenant" of the premises and their husbands jointly inhabited. The present bill meets this point by definitely enacting that when a husband and wife reside together in premises for which the husband is entitled to vote the wife should be entitled to register as joint occupier.

Plural voting, allowed to men, is prohibited by women under the bill.

C. P. RAILWAY TELEGRAPHERS WANT INCREASED PAY.

TORONTO, May 8.—At a meeting of representatives in the Palmer House of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, eight delegates were appointed to go before the C. P. R. officials at Montreal to make demands or requests. The eight telegraphers represent 1,700 men working on the Canadian Pacific railway, from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

At the present time the lowest salary paid to the operators on the road is in the neighborhood of $67 per month, but it must be remembered that the telegraphers have long hours and work Sundays.

This move is made independently of the telegraphers' convention which is being held in the city today.
