At Southampton, on November 14th, there passed peacefully away, at the early age of 15 years, Josephine, beloved daughter of Laughlin MacKinnon. Although in failing health for some time, no one ever realized that the end was so near but, despite medical aid and tender nursing she passed to her Eternal home on the above mentioned date. Besides her parents she leaves to mourn four sisters and three brothers and a large circle of sorrowing friends. Her remains were followed on Saturday morning to their last resting place by a large concourse of people. After a high Mass sung by the Rev. Bernard A. MacAulay, all that was mortal of a loving child was laid to rest in the beautiful cemetery adjoining the Church there to await a glorious resurrection. May her soul rest in peace.

Their passed peacefully away on St. Peter's Road, Cardigan on Tuesday, August 6th, 1918, George Ployer at the age of 42 years. Deceased has been in failing health for some time and decided to try the climate of Western Canada for a change but after spending some time there his condition gradually grew worse and he was obliged to return to his native home in March, where all that kind hands and medical skill could do was done, but of no avail. The late Mr. Ployer was a man of kind and cheerful disposition a good neighbor he was always ready and willing to offer help to any who needed his assistance. The above was well exemplified by the large number of carriages who followed his remains to St. Andrews Presbyterian church, Cardigan. The services at the house and grave were conducted by the pastor Rev. D. McVicar. Besides two brothers and five sisters, he leaves to mourn a sorrowing widow and three small children, who will long cherish the memory of a kind and devoted husband and father. The pall bearers were Messrs W. L. McLaren, John Scrimgeour, Allen Shaw, Robt. McLaren, P. J. Sharkey and M. J. Flynn.

A PLEASANT MEETING.—Among those who had the pleasure of conversing with the Duke of Devonshire during his recent visit to Charlottetown was Mr. Henry Hine. Mr. Hine's uncle served Lord Cavendish for 32 years as head game-keeper. Lord Cavendish was the present Duke of Devonshire's father. He spoke of the regiment to which Mr. Hine belonged, the Royal Artillery in which he served 23 years and with which regiment the Duke was acquainted. Needless to say the Duke was much pleased to meet the old veteran and the veteran was as highly pleased.

EDUCATION FOR OCCUPANTS.—Education for Occupants is the title of a very helpful address given by Dr. James W. Robertson, Chairman of the Lands Committee of the Commission of Conservation, before the Ontario Education Association and who is so well-known in this Province. It is particularly useful in this period of reconstruction. The Commission of Conservation has a few hundred copies and will be pleased to distribute them on request to teachers and others who are interested. Dr. Robertson was head of the commission which investigated the subject of technical education for the Dominion Government before the war.

There passed away at Little Sands, Mr. Roderick MacLeod at the advanced age of 80 years, his wife having pre-deceased him ten years ago. The deceased underwent an operation in the Prince Edward Island Hospital in the hopes to restore his eyesight which had been failing for some time but the operation proved unsuccessful and he became totally blind and was failing in health for a year, when the end came very suddenly. He was patient in his sickness and affliction and trusted firmly in his Saviour. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church for the past forty years. He moved from Dundas to Little Sands forty years ago. He will be missed in the community as he was a kind neighbor and a good friend. He leaves to mourn two daughters, Mrs. John MacPherson, who so kindly ministered to him during his illness and Mrs. Joseph Mestico who resides in Haugh's Neck, Quincy; also two brothers Murdoch and Duncan and one sister Mrs. Mary MacLeod, all residing in Dundas. The funeral services were conducted by his pastor Rev. Mr. Sweet.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING.—Prof. P. H. Sexton, Vocational Officer for Quebec and the Maritime Provinces with the Department of Soldiers Civil Re-establishment has been in town for two days organizing the vocational work for P. E. I. The work has been slow in developing because the convalescent hospital in Charlottetown has only been opened recently. Vocational work for convalescent men has been under way at Dalton Sanatorium for nearly a year. Lieut. P. E. Palmer has been engaged as the representative of the Vocational Branch for this province and will devote all of his time to the work. He enlisted with the 50th Battalion. After receiving a severe wound in the head he was invalided back to Canada and continued his military service with the Depot Battalion until the armistice was signed. He has had a broad and responsible experience in industry and returned men can rely on the most expert advice and sympathetic interest from him in their return to civilian life. There are now in Canada over 2,000 disabled soldiers being trained. Some 400 or 500 have finished and are making good in their new callings. Over half of them are making more now than before they enlisted and should rise progressively as time goes on to good positions. Friday seventeen disabled men were investigated in Charlottetown and seven on Saturday in Summerside. They were recommended for various trades according to their previous experience and ability, such as harness making, bookkeeping, tailor cutter, garment maker, electrical wiring, house furnishing, stock raising, farm tractor operation, machinist, garage mechanic, arm machinery, repairer, cabinet maker, wheat farming in the West, barbering, gasoline marine engine repairing, navigation etc. There is no danger of overloading any one industry where each individual is considered by himself and they are recommended for different trades. In the Maritime Provinces at the present time there are 800 men eligible for training and about 100 different trades being taught. Such practical methods are bound to put most of our returned heroes on their feet.

"Stands Strenuous Wear"

John MacKinnon of Strathcona, P. E. Island; also a large circle of relatives throughout the province and elsewhere and a host of sympathetic friends in various parts of the country where her duties as a teacher required her lot to be cast. Her remains were temporarily buried in the West owing to the unfortunate condition of the telegraph wires which prevented any instructions being forwarded as to what arrangements were required regarding burial.

From information contained in a letter received by her brother, since the telegraphic news of her death arrived it appears that Miss Nicholson, after the schools had been closed offered her services in a hospital where such was urgently required and immediately accepted and while thus engaged an appeal for assistance came from a private home where all members of the family were suffering from the disease. She was asked if she would go and although warned of the danger of responding to such a request she felt the call of duty so strongly that she willingly became a sacrifice if need be.

Two days after taking charge of this case she was stricken and following a brief illness her spirit passed away to Him who gave it. "Greater love hath no man that this that a man lay down his life for his friends" but Miss Nicholson not only fulfilled but surpassed this Christian ideal, she gave her life for strangers. Truly it may be said of her she laid down her life in this temporal world that she might take it up again in the great eternity. She died as she had lived—in sacrifice and service. She saved others, herself she could not save.

TUESDAY
ORDERS FOR PELTS.—The P. E. I. Fur Sales Board has received an order for 200 fox pelts varying in value from $200 to $500 from a company to whom goods were sold last year. The Board also has an order for 100 skins from a firm in South America.

At the close of last school term she decided to try her fortune in Western Canada and about 1st of September took up her duties as teacher in Hanna, Alta. High School where although only during a brief two months period of service she was apparently duplicating the reputation she had gained in her Native Province.

She leaves to mourn her untimely death one brother, Daniel J. Nicholson of Kilmuir and one sister, Mrs.

Rheumatic Pains
Are relieved in a few days by taking 30 drops of Mother Selig's Syrup after meals and on retiring. It dissolves the lime and acid accumulation in the muscles and joints so these deposits can be expelled, thus relieving pain and soreness. Selig's Syrup, also known as "Extract of Roots" contains no opium nor other strong drugs to kill or mask the pain of rheumatism or lumbago, it removes the cause. E.C.C. a bottle at drugists.

WAR PRISONER RELEASED.—The good news has been received that Pte. Wilfrid Gunn, of Winnipeg, son of Mrs. John Gunn, of Clifton, New London who has been a prisoner of war in Germany has been released. Pte. Gunn was among the prisoners on Canon Simpson's list and had the good fortune to be kept supplied with parcels sent by a number of adopters from his home district.

MILITARY MEDAL.—Word has been received in this city that Sergt. Alban McDonald, has won the Military Medal. The many friends of this brave soldier will be delighted to learn this good news. He was recommended last year, and now received the medal as a reward for his splendid work on the field. Sergt. McDonald enlisted at the outbreak of the war and has been in the heavy fighting ever since, and has had some pretty narrow escapes having had two horses shot from under him. Last year at the inspection of the troops at the front he was called out and congratulated by the officers on the splendid appearance and efficiency of his section. Before enlisting he was a member of the famous 4th regiment, and he has certainly done his part to uphold its splendid reputation. Sergt. McDonald is a son of Mr. John W. McDonald of Grand Tracadie, and is also a brother of Rev. Dr. William V. McDonald of the staff of St. Dunstan's Cathedral of this city.

OLD CITIZEN DEAD.—The death occurred in this city on Friday night of an old and respected citizen in the person of Mr. Daniel Mason. He was a familiar figure upon the streets for many years and always had a cheery word for everyone. He is survived by his wife, one daughter and three sons, one of whom, Russel, has been in France almost since the beginning of the war. The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon to St. Peter's Cathedral where Canon Simpson performed the last rites.

SOME SPLENDID PELTS.—Mr. Chester McLaren, manager of the P. E. Island Fur Sales Board came in from the East Saturday bringing with him a collection of fifty silver fox skins ranging in value from $150.00 to $1,000. These pelts were from different ranches and one would only have to see them to note the difference in the value, as they were graded and classified. They were on exhibition in the window of the Fur Sales Board until yesterday morning and much interest was manifested in the display. They are being shipped today to the American market.
