(Canadian Press) MONTREAL, June 25.—Madame P. Lalime an immediate neighbor of the Delorme family on St. Hubert Street swore this morning that she heard a woman's voice in the Delorme home January 6th, 1922 calling to some person in the cellar to come up stairs. It was at one a. m. This brought the first district corroborations of the statement made by Lilly Delorme that she had so called to her brother on the night his half brother was slain. When Father Delorme entered the dock this morning he bore evidence of the strain of long sittings in the stifling court in which he is being tried for his life. Lengthy sessions will be held this week in an effort to complete the proceedings. British Labor Unions Lose Over Million Members

(British United Press) LONDON, June 25.—The loss of more than one million by the British Labor party in 1922 reflects increasingly worse economic conditions during the year. It does not however mean a lessening of the political influence of the party. Membership figures are based almost entirely on trade unions which were formerly affiliated with the labor party dues into its coffers. Owing to unemployment and inability to pay dues members have dropped out of these unions. There is therefore an automatic increase in the number of members of the Labor party. Thousands of persons however who do not officially belong to the party either because they do not belong to unions or do not desire to pay dues out of their own pockets will vote for Labor candidates. This was shown in the last general election when labor polled 4,102,425 votes.
