NOVA SCOTIA ARTISTS SHOW
 HALIFAX, March 27.—(C.P.)—"Windjammer", a water color by Earl Bailey, Lunenburg's famed artist, was the center of an enthusiastic audience which listened very attentively to the program. Dr. Calbeck, chairman of the Library Committee, president, and in opening the exhibition, expressed appreciation for the great community interest manifested, and stated "that we owe an immense debt of gratitude to the Carnegie Corporation and the Ontario and Federal governments for the acquisition of this circulating library branch in Crapaud which may be regarded as an immense treasure at our disposal and absorption. The Chairman then introduced Miss Nora Bateson, who to a large measure has been instrumental and responsible in making this Carnegie Demonstration work such a real success in this town. She explicitly pointed out the many advantages and possibilities of such a branch. With its circulation new material is always available. Almost every subject is covered in their collection of books. Readers must also learn the value of good literature, and select only such material as is beneficial and uplifting. The members should care for the books by having clean hands, and paper covering them while in their homes. Speeches full of appreciation were delivered by Rev. Mr. Ayers, Rev. Father Pittre, Rev. Mr. Lund, Rev. Mr. Crozman, and Rev. Mr. Bridgewater, all of whom complimented the program. Mrs. Katherine Greaser, Mrs. Frank Macdonald, Dr. Boyer and Verner Moore expressed great pleasure in there being a library branch established here. They also congratulated Miss Bateson and all others who had any connection with its development. Meeting closed with National Anthem. In the evening Mrs. Bateson presented the members of the library with two hundred membership cards have already been taken out. The branch is open on Monday morning, Thursday afternoon and Saturday afternoon and evening. Miss Mary Newsome, who is highly qualified, is the librarian.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER—A very enjoyable evening was spent on Thursday, March 22nd at the home of Mrs. Ralph Bearlato, Malpeque, when about one hundred of the friends and neighbors gathered to tender their best wishes to Miss Blanche Stewart whose marriage is to take place in the near future. The room was daintily trimmed for the occasion with pink and white streamers and bells. The bride and groom were seated in the heavily laden wagon, which was also brought into the room by Miss Shirley Woodside and Master Lawrence Ransome, who were dressed as bride and groom. The many gifts were opened by Misses Hazel Hopwood and Rosa Bell, while the accompanying verses were read by Misses Thelma Woodside and Marjorie MacRae. Miss Stewart, in a few words, thanked the people for their many gifts and good wishes. Then all joined in singing "For His Sake, a Holy Good Fellow". The gifts included china, linen, silverware, glassware and many other articles very useful in the home. A dainty lunch was then served by the ladies and the remainder of the evening was pleasantly spent in music and dancing.

Oil And Fuel Farmers Predicted By Science

NEW YORK, March 27—Immediate start of a new type of farming, with fields growing the "hydro-carbons" of coal and oil for use as power, is urged by three Iowa scientists in a report issued by the Chemical Foundation tonight. A congressional hearing, at which they are invited to give their findings, is announced to begin on April 15. The hearing is on the United States farm relief plan to mix 40 per cent of corn alcohol with gasoline for motor fuel. The Iowa trio hopes to show that instead of being simply temporary relief, this use of "power alcohol" will inaugurate the great agricultural revolution predicted by scientists for the past twenty years. This is the growing of chemicals as well as food on farms. The report is written by Dr. Leo M. Christensen, Dr. Ralph M. Hixon and Dr. Ella J. Fulmer of the Iowa State College, at Ames, Cal and oil, most of man's present power source, they explain, are hydro-carbons. Chemically, the crops and the coal and oil are all made of the hydrogen, the atoms of carbon and same prime elements, carbon, and hydrogen are differently fitted together, and chemists have discovered how to interchange them so as to change a plant into a hydro-carbon, a fuel which will burn and explode. The report says that farms can produce all the fuel hydro-carbons the world can use—all that is now gets from coal and oil. They foresee this, not as an abrupt change, but as a progressive conservation move, growing as the supplies of coal and oil dwindle. The farmer's historic hand-to-mouth existence will change, they forecast, for it is due greatly to all this crops being perishables. As he changes part of the harvest into power hydro-carbons, he will have imperishables which can be stored, when needed, against the "lean years." Their tests of "power alcohol" from corn for immediate use, they state, show the way. They point out that twenty foreign countries now mix alcohol with gasoline.

GEORGINA HOUSE CELEBRATES SILVER ANNIVERSARY

(By The Canadian Press) TORONTO, March 27—Georgina House, one of Toronto's most popular residences for business women, recently celebrated its silver anniversary. More than 25 years ago Mrs. Georgina H. Broughall, wife of Canon Broughall, rector of St. Stephen's Anglican Church, was impressed by the urgent need of suitable lodgings for girls who are starting out into the business world and another institution which bore her name. Various legacies have added in the extension of the work. In one year there have been as many as 25 weddings from Georgina House, a number of brides choosing the chapel for the scene of the wedding.

GOT A THIRD CLASS TICKET BACK TO ENGLAND

(By The Canadian Press) JAMAICA, N. Y., March 27—Miss Ellen Smith, aged 40, who came from England recently on a first class ticket supplied by her aunt here, Mrs. Margaret Denman could have remained with her relative had she not brought with her a dog, a cat and a bicycle. The arrival of these items with her niece vexed Mrs. Denman and there was a quarrel which resulted that Mrs. Smith was arraigned before Magistrate Hoekstra on a disorderly conduct charge. She allegedly struck the old woman in the eye. Mrs. Denman told the magistrate she would "gladly" pay her niece's fare back to England. Mrs. Denman remembered the bicycle, cat and dog, and said, "I won't send her back first class with all those things. She can go third class."

RECENTLY ON RELIEF, NOW SHARES FORTUNE

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., March 27.—Three local women expected to receive $25,000 apiece as their share of the estate of the late James Ann of New York City, who left an estate estimated at $650,000. The local women are grandnieces of the deceased Mrs. Mildred Mansueto, a city. Mrs. Margaret Hutcheson and Mrs. Dorothy Ivey, both of Chippewa, Mrs. Mancuso was almost stunned when she learned of her good fortune here today. "For four years my husband Peter has been out of work, and we have been on relief and now we are going to get a fortune. It is almost too good to be true." She has four children. The deceased man was a native of Chippewa, where he was born; operated grocery store many years ago, and when he left he boasted he would go to New York and make his fortune. Local relatives had never received any money from him, and the news of his death and the fact that no will had been left amazed his relatives.

ERIC THE WHALE TOOK HIS TIME

MORECAMBE, England, March 27—Special police arrangements were made along the 300-mile route from Southend-on-Sea to this town for the transport of Eric, the 65-ton whale which was on exhibition at Southend for the past two years. Eric left Southend on a special lorry of 100 horsepower and a trailer 180 feet long. A conductor occupied a cabin at the rear of the trailer, and could communicate with the driver at any time by telephone. Eric's average speed was four miles an hour. Although a spare driver and conductor went with Eric to minimize delay the journey took a week.

QUEBEC LEADS IN BIRD SANCTUARIES

(By The Canadian Press) MONTREAL, March 27.—Of the 41 bird sanctuaries in Canada 25 are in the province of Quebec, the Montreal Women's Club was told by Harrison F. Lewis, Ph.D., chief migratory bird officer for Ontario and Quebec. A number of these are in the vicinity of Montreal citizens in the Hill district and several on the lower St. Lawrence. The Province of Quebec Society for the Protection of Birds, under the presidency of Mrs. G. L. Henderson, Dr. Lewis said, had provided special protection for the European cormorant in a colony on the north shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence in 1922 with the result there had been an increase of more than 500 per cent in the numbers of these birds. French-Canadian school children, enrolled in the Cercle des Jeunes Naturalistes, were doing their bit to protect bird life in the province of Quebec. Legislation on the part of Canada and the United States was necessary to protect many birds which "won't stay put," explained Dr. Lewis. In earlier years many Canadian-bred birds migrating to the southern states had been destroyed and consequently the numbers returning home when warm weather came were greatly depleted. Canada's part in the Migratory Birds Treaty is administered by the Department of the Interior with the assistance of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Dr. Lewis said. This branch also established bird sanctuaries and arranges for publicity.

Ten Troublers In Every 1,000 Make Problems

(By The Canadian Press) TORONTO, March 27.—Problems caused by the "10 troublers in every 1000" and manifold perplexities facing today's generation are reviewed by Dr. Helen MacMurphy, whose volume bearing the twin title "Sterilization? Birth Control?" is the first exhaustive treatment of these subjects by a Canadian authority. For many years she served the cause of child and family welfare as a health officer for the Ontario and Federal governments. In 156 printed pages Dr. MacMurphy has assembled significant opinion expressed over a period of years on both subjects, ranging from almost technical communications in the British Medical Journal and Lancet to such broad statements of principle as the Encyclopaedia of Pius XI on Christian Marriage, and the findings of the Church of England's Lambeth Conference. She avoids the controversial, sets forth the opinion of many physicians, medical bodies and sociological organizations—in some cases contradictory—and arrives at moderate conclusions, simply and briefly. Dr. MacMurphy, writing in the sense of constructive action, finds "unnatural," to be resorted to only in exceptional cases. From the weight of evidence and her own experience, she believes legislation with regard to sterilization must follow a course which shall commend itself to the good judgment of the large majority of the people. Dr. MacMurphy's conclusion should not be interpreted as a condemnation of the subject entirely from the standpoint of mental defectiveness, and the writer refers to segregation and community supervision as other means of control. The first step in any preventive measure, she holds, is compilation of a complete and confidential register of feeble-minded persons. "Out of every 1,000 of you," writes Dr. MacMurphy, "there are about 10 who are the chief cause of our financial, medical, hospital and educational and other forms of relief and care." Varying opinion on the influence of heredity in mental defectiveness and mental illness is quoted. The Alberta, British Columbia and California sterilization acts are reviewed. The author's own opinion is that "in suitable cases and under proper safeguards, it seems that we should consider whether sterilization in addition to segregation and supervision might not help to lessen the terrible burden of feeble-mindedness. Legislation of this character can succeed only if it is well-considered and moderate. She treats birth control from many angles—economic, physiological, spiritual, and finds that "something is wrong, but it is by no means certain that birth control is the remedy."

The following committees were then appointed: Lunch, Mrs. George Haslam; Telephone, Mrs. Ernest Haslam; Program, Mrs. Ernest Haslam; John E. Sinclair; Mrs. H. B. Haslam; Two discussions, "Canadianism and National Events, and Home Economics." Roll call is to be answered at the next meeting with a "housecleaning hint." We had a photograph contest, prepared by Mrs. George Haslam, and Mrs. M. T. Lambie. Another contest, prepared by Mrs. Hyatt Haslam, and Mrs. M. T. Lambie, was also held. The contest was won by Mrs. Hyatt Haslam. Mrs. Arthur MacGregor, assisted by Miss Muriel Haslam, Mrs. Arthur MacGregor, Mrs. MacGregor, section was taken amounting to $1.85. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

What Every Widow Knows

(Continued from Page 2) you left at Mrs. Benedict's did that about an hour ago—the poor girl almost fainted. I saw—we—the beast is locked in the kitchen now but I'm sure you understand that it's not safe for him to be in the same house with a defenseless woman. I suggest you strap up your clothes—I've a car waiting. We can go get him right away." Dexter was thoroughly awake now. His brows drawn in a perplexed frown. "Funny thing," he soliloquized. "Ferd isn't a brute—he's what you'd call a gentleman. He's a good fellow. I want to tell her what commands Ferd will obey. Very careful of me not to have done so before I left—"
