The residents of Highbank, who are not satisfied with their mail arrangements, seem to have good ground for complaint. The courier leaves Murray Harbor every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday morning for Highbank but six miles distant, conveying the mails which arrived at Murray Harbor the two previous evenings. The mails for Little Sands, but two and a half miles distant from Highbank, leave Hopefield every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evening after arrival of train and thus are delivered promptly.

The Highbank courier should from this time forward be required to leave Murray Harbor in the evening instead of in the morning, or the mail for Highbank should be forwarded via Little Sands as it is unfair that the mail which arrives at Murray Harbor on Saturday evening should not reach Highbank until the following Tuesday and in like manner the other mails during the week. The attention of Postmaster Waener, who is ever ready to improve the service, is respectfully directed to this matter.

Provincialists, says a correspondent, have not got as much for eggs this winter as usual. There has been plenty of them. At first they went up to thirty cents, but they have been since down to half that price. It has been so mild that the most unprogressive hen has had to do a little laying, in order to join in the universal cackle. I was reading, the other day, about dried eggs in Australia, and, perhaps, it will interest my readers to examine the process, although we are far from it yet. Publication has been given to a process devised in Melbourne, and carried out in Sydney, for desiccating eggs. For this process, high claims are made. It has been thus described:—Desiccated eggs are not substitutes for eggs treated by a process by which only the shell and water contents of the egg are removed, and the whole substance of the egg, yolk and albumen converted into powder. The eggs first pass through a dark room, being carried on a perforated rolling table over a fifty candle-power light. Any eggs not perfectly fresh, or dirty in any way, are at once detected and put on one side. The sound eggs are carried along and go into a centrifugal separator, revolving at a tremendous rate. Here the eggs are smashed and the shells separated from the liquid matter which flows into a small tank, and is then pumped up to another tank, where a preservative is added. Below this tank, in a very hot room, with a temperature of 120 to 130 degrees, there are great cylinders, or drums, slowly revolving at the rate of 1 to 2 1/2 minutes. The liquid egg substance goes from the tank into troughs below these cylinders and as they revolve become attached to them. By the time a cylinder has completed its revolution the coating has dried, and a further coating adheres. Ultimately this coating comes off in flaky pieces, which are ground into a powder. This powder will, it is claimed to have been proved, keep for years, and only requires the addition of milk and water, when the powdered eggs will reconstitute, and be ready for use for any purpose the same as a newly laid egg. The powder is rich and attractive looking, and is reported by the government analysts of New South Wales and Victoria to contain no chemical preservative. No part of the egg, except the water, has been removed. In all probability an account of this process will reach Canada. There is no question that if it were perfect, as the newspapers state, it would be of great value in Canada and in Australia. It must, however, be added, that the process is not yet perfected. The inventor has some difficulties still to overcome before it can be a commercial success; one of which is the reduction of the dried egg powder. It is hoped that this and other obstacles to success will shortly be overcome. If so, the appliance should receive consideration in Canada where a cheap process of preserving eggs would be most useful.

The funeral of Abel Simmonds, a well-known and respected citizen of Chatham, took place recently at the Riverside cemetery and was attended by a very large number of friends and sympathizers. Mr. Simmonds was a citizen of the Miramichi for nearly 37 years and was connected with St. Andrew's church for about 22 years. He was born in Halifax, N. S., and his younger days were spent in P. E. I. from where he came to Chatham.

Attention was briefly called in yesterday's Guardian to the regretted death of Miss Ella Blake, daughter of Maurice Blake, of this City, which occurred on Tuesday. Miss Blake was one of Charlottetown's most accomplished and popular young ladies. She had been in falling health for the past two years, the greater part of which was passed at Saranac Lake, New York, where for a time her health was much improved. Her entire school days were passed at the Convent of Notre Dame here, after which she spent four years at the Sacred Heart Convent Halifax. On graduating from the latter institution she won four gold medals and, at the same time, an additional gold medal as the most popular girl in the school, which was decided by vote of the pupils. Deep and general sympathy is felt by all for Mr. Blake and his family, which is the more pronounced because of this talented and cultured young lady having held the place in the family circle of her esteemed mother since the latter's death.

The funeral of the late James E. Doyle Bradalbane, whose death was reported in The Guardian took place from his home in Bradalbane Monday morning to St. Joseph's Church, Kelly's Cross, and notwithstanding the bad roads, was largely attended. The members of the Emerald Branch, B. I. S. to which the deceased belonged for many years, were present in a body. The Mass of Requiem was sung by Rev. T. Campbell, P. P. and the services at the grave were conducted by Rev. M. J. Smith a lifelong personal friend of the deceased. The pall-bearers were Mr. Kennedy, M. L. A. and Robt. Todd, Bradalbane, Thomas Hughes and M. Lamb of the B. I. S., Emerald, and John P. Bradley, and W. Bradley, Kelly's Cross. The late Mr. Doyle is a son of Mrs. Wm. Doyle, Bradalbane, and was married four years ago to Miss Katie Croken, of Norboro, whom with two little children he leaves behind, also one sister and four brothers.
