Uncle Tom's Cabin

MARGUERITE CLARK MAKES A HIT IN PICTURIZATION OF MRS. STOWE'S FAMOUS NOVEL.

Appearing simultaneously in two roles, Marguerite Clark, the famous Paramount star, was seen with signal success in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" her latest starring vehicle, at the Prince Edward Theatre yesterday. The picture, directed by J. Saurie Dawley, which is based upon Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe's immortal story, proved satisfactory in every respect, a credit to all who appeared therein and a delight to the audience that witnessed it.

The picturization of the famous novel was extremely faithful and it will serve as an educational factor to the masses in that it depicts faithfully conditions existing in the South just before the Civil War when the shackles of slavery were removed from the black race in this country. In this respect "Uncle Tom's Cabin" as a picture, is even more satisfying than the novel. To repeat the story of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" would be much like carrying coals to Newcastle, but it is perhaps necessary to say that none of the beauties or heart appeal of the story have been lost in this sterling screen adaptation.

What promises to be the best serial ever presented at the Prince Edward opened yesterday with the first episode of "The Lightning Raider," featuring Pearl White.

A rare musical treat was furnished Charlottetown theatre-goers by Mr. Clarence Causton, violinist. This artist although young in years, played with excellent skill and judgment. Mr. Causton will be heard in the evenings at The People's Theatre, and the Prince Edward afternoons.

THE GERMAN GUNS ARRIVE TODAY

Field Pieces Captured by the Canadians will Reach Charlottetown this Morning.

The guns to be placed on exhibition in this city in connection with the war art are shown in Prince of Wales College on the 10th 11th and 12th inst are expected to arrive in Charlottetown this morning. These are field artillery pieces which were captured by the Canadians in the greatest fighting advance of the war at Amiens. There is not a citizen in the Province who can afford to miss seeing these great trophies of the great conflict. They came direct from London having been shown only in St. John since coming to this side. The attendance at the exhibition in St. John was equal to the whole population of the city.

Serious Strike In Essen, Germany

(Special to The Guardian) ESSEN, April 7.—The strike situation here shows little change today. The street car employees voted to join the Krupp workers so that the city's transportation system is at a standstill.

Provincial Legislature

knows there are in this province many acres of land which require to be reclaimed. The intention of the government was that those lands, reclaimed, should be placed at the disposal of the returned soldiers. Through representations made by this government at a provincial conference at Halifax certain changes were effected in the terms upon which soldiers could borrow money on the farms they occupied. These changes had not been made, as the Leader of the Opposition intimated, because of criticism by the Opposition last year. They were made at the instance of this government, and after a thorough investigation of the subject by provincial premiers. In the west the government is setting aside land for the returned soldiers. It is also arranging for the expropriation of lands by the provincial governments and he felt sure that our Island soldiers would prefer taking advantage of the government loan and settling in this province, to settling on isolated and unsettled farms in the West, even if obtained free. The dominion government had acted wisely in making provision for such land settlement for the soldiers. Agriculture is our basic industry, and in the interest of the country it was deemed wise to encourage agriculture to a greater extent than any other calling.

The Leader of the Opposition says the government is not doing its duty towards our returned soldiers. He says the government should buy the land outright. He, the Premier, believed the government was doing everything possible. They were giving free lands in the West to soldiers from all parts of Canada, to the soldiers of P. E. Island as of each of the other provinces.

Mr. Bell had much to say about an interview given by him, the Premier to The Guardian, and he read many things into it which were entirely foreign to its meaning. If any government ever pressed provincial claims and pressed them successfully, that government was the present one, Premier of a former regime had expressed the opinion that it was no use dangling the claims of this province at Ottawa. They were told by the Premier of a former federal government that if Prince Edward Island presented any further claims the door would be shut. There was no further hope from Ottawa. Contrast this with what the present government had done.

In the interview referred to he, the Premier, had stated that if we gave the government more credit for what it had done and did a less criticism it might be to our advantage. And why not? Why criticize the government that had done all for us? Why not give credit where credit was due?

Here the Premier mentioned concessions received from the present government at Ottawa: The car ferry for the four cars cable between this province and New Brunswick; the subsidy of $100,000, the telephone system across the straits, favorable tolls, etc. At present the government is engaged in widening the gauge of the P. E. I. Railway. The province would not come into its own until the whole road was widened from one end of the province to the other.

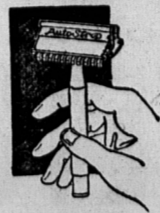

Coming to the question of the Island claims and the manner in which they had been pressed by the respective governments, he said he would

Girls! Girls! Try It! Stop Dandruff and Beautify Your Hair

Hair stops falling out and gets thick wavy, strong and beautiful

Your hair becomes light, wavy fluffy, abundant and appears as soft lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair. But what will please you most will be after a few weeks use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it, surely get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter for a few cents.

It would wonder if the leader of the Opposition would want to relegate this question to oblivion. His party had a most unenviable record in the matter of claims. They had bungled for years over claims until they and the province sickened of them. Mr. Bell deplored the fact that when we asked for $200,000 we received only $100,000. We had received that $100,000 on account, and since 1914 was a poor time to go to Ottawa to press our claims. The claims are still there and will be presented at the proper time.

Re enlargement of boundaries of Quebec, Ontario and Manitoba, and consequent claims of this province, Mr. Bell wanted to know why he had not put in our claims. These claims, continued the Premier are good and Sir Robert Borden is on record as saying that when the value of these lands is ascertained the Maritime Provinces would be given their equitable share. Mr. Bell knows, or ought to know that the claims for this proportion had been filed.

MR. BELL. When were they filed? PREMIER. In January, 1913.

After some further discussion and a somewhat lengthy explanation by Mr. Bell as to what he had and had not aid in the course of his former speech, the Premier moved the adjournment of the debate.

The House resumes this morning at 10 o'clock.

Proceedings In House of Commons

controversy on the tariff is again looking up. The Toronto Star in despatches from Ottawa published today stated "a man of national importance" without naming him, to the effect that the parties are so divided over the tariff questions, there is certainty of an election in the autumn, with tariff as the issue. Just what the attitude of parties will take is not known. Despite the fact that Unionists at caucus recently expressed confidence in Sir Thomas White's plans for tariff changes, this session followed by a Canada-wide enquiry which would bring in a report on which a general revision would be based next session. At the opposition members' caucus tomorrow it is generally understood the tariff will be the chief subject of discussion. More than passing interest was also aroused among opposition in the question of continuance of prohibition or an amendment which will allow the sale of light wines and beer. Quebec votes on this proposition on April 10th. If that province decides for wine and beer, the opposition will frame a motion suggesting similar change in dominion legislation. They claim soldiers and labor men all over the country favor change which while doing away with the open bar, would permit the sale of moderate beverages containing a maximum of five per cent. of alcohol beer, twelve per cent. wine, or about double "kick" of what is at present legalized.

Members heard with deep regret of the death of Captain Read. All papers pay tribute to him. Not until this morning's papers came out was the news of his death generally known. It was known he had contracted a slight cold, but no one thought it serious, and announcement in the morning papers that he had died in a local hospital of pneumonia after nine o'clock on Sunday night, was a great shock. Captain Read was popular in the House, his long career as sea captain giving him a knowledge of men that frequently found expression in his speeches. Referring to Captain Read, the Ottawa Journal says, he was a "homely philosopher, who added to the humor of the House without subtracting from its dignity. With his grizzled beard, tall, erect figure, he was one of the personalities of the House. Many others the House of Commons could better afford to lose." The Ottawa Citizen says: "Rarely was there a discussion in which the genial and kindly old man did not have his say, and very often the House was entertained by his mellow wisdom."
