The Home —OF— Quality

Our constant effort is to make this a store where the idea of quality is at all times paramount.

In some lines of business there may be good reasons for having a variety of grades—not so in the drug line. When drugs are needed only the best will do. Anything less than the best is dangerous.

We carry this principle of quality throughout our entire stock. In some lines, like brushes, we have goods at a variety of prices but each is the best grade to be had at the price, and in addition to the usual assortment we carry the finest grades which cannot be found in the ordinary store.

Comparison did the trick this morning on Sables Minks and Coons. The one third off Paton's Honest Price Tags is a guarantee that you get whats advertised. Our furs are marked at the beginning of the season as low, if not lower, than most stores mark furs at the end of the season We say one third off, because We can't and won't carry furs over from season to season. That's why—we say, compare, compare, and then you'll buy at Paton's.

THE CHARLOTTETOWN GUARDIAN

TUESDAY, JANUARY 18 1910

THE FIRST DAY IN A GREAT ELECTORAL BATTLE.

There was great interest here in the result of the first day's polling in the British elections—more than ever before, and there were many inquiries by telephone before and after The Guardian's bulletin was received at 11 o'clock on Saturday evening. The contents of the first bulletin were but slightly changed by the fuller returns printed yesterday morning.

As was then stated, there were considerable Unionist gains, but these were to be expected in any case as the general election of 1906 was held at a time of flood tide and any probable change could only be in the way of diminishing the Asquith Government's very large majority. But the Unionist gains on the first day were less than the leaders of that party had expected, and were by so much disappointing to them.

It is to be remembered that the elections of the first day were mainly in England, which is not the best ministerial ground. Scotland, Wales and Scotch electors, and the most part of Ireland have yet to be heard from, and from these the Unionist Opposition has not much to hope. It is true, however, that these grand divisions of the United Kingdom return but 205 members collectively as compared with the 465 members for Gnglaod.

In Canada, if elections were thus held from day to day, the effect of sweeping gains by the Opposition on the first day might be to decide the election in their favor. But in the Mother Country the electors seem not to be so much moved by the chances of success as by honest conviction in regard to the questions at issue. Yet almost beyond question the Government's large majority in the late House will be much reduced, in the new Parliament. It may be so diminished as to throw the balance of power into the hands of the Nationalists, who have aims and interests not shared very fully by the English and Scotch electors.

THE NAVAL BILL IN THE OTTAWA PARLIAMENT.

Advices from Ottawa intimate that pending the gradual recovery of Hon L. P. Brodeur, who had the naval bill in charge, the further consideration of that measure will be postponed for a time. In any case the Government is assured of a strong majority in the House, whether the bill is pressed in its present form or with some modifications. In the meantime if the delay is long enough, the Ottawa by-election, in which one of the Opposition candidates has taken up the Dreadnought idea will have come off and may afford an indication of the trend of public opinion there.

There appears to be some division in the Government ranks and much more in the Opposition camp as to the proper policy for the Dominion to adopt. The split between Mr Borden and Mr Monk seems to be incurable. Mr Monk, it is said, will be joined by a dozen other Opposition members who will stand opposed to the creation of a Canadian navy. There is not likely to be any such division on the ministerial side.

Western Conservatives of whom Mr Magrath is a type, will advocate a direct contribution of a Dreadnought or a cash equivalent to the British navy. One despatch from Ottawa estimates the strength of this element at twenty members of the House mainly Conservative. Thus it would appear that the line of cleavage in the Opposition party lies between those who think the Government is going too far and those who think it is not going far enough.

These differences are apparently not reconcilable. The Government policy is between these extremes. It is well that the matter shall be considered with calmness and deliberation as in any case it is a costly and momentous undertaking that the country is entering upon. Any policy now adopted must, in the nature of things be continuous, whatever party may hereafter be in power. This affords one of the strongest reasons why the policy should be determined on patriotic rather than party grounds.

Hon J. H. Cummiskey is to be commended for his efforts to have the country roads made and kept passable during the winter season. The road law imposes certain duties upon the road officials of which they have been officially reminded by the Chief Commissioner. Much depends upon their careful and prompt attention to these duties.

Regret is felt here over the removal of the steamer Earl Grey to the Georgetown-Pictou route. But the direct route to and from Charlottetown was this year kept open till the heavy freight and passenger traffic of the early winter had been transported and this has been of great benefit. We hope in the future the service may be even longer kept up. We also feel there are fair chances of the Tatamagouche route proving better than the present route by way of Pictou.

And you won't give me any discount off that 19.00 muff" said she

"I am sorry madam, but it is priced too close" said the saleswoman

"I can get a much better discount at 's" said she

"Probably so, but can you buy as good a muff for 19 00"? said the saleswoman. And the lady laughed. I can get exactly the same muff marked 22.00, but they will make it 19.00" said she

"I'll take it, I just wanted to see if you meant what you said"

And so it goes each day, its just a matter of comparing, if you compare closely, you will do as the customer did, buy where the best price is given you at once without haggling Moore & McLeod 1...5dtf
