—TORONTO, March 14 (CP)—(Advance)—A surplus of $12,800, 364 for the current fiscal year ending March 31—record high in the seven years the present government has been in office—was announced to the Ontario legislature today by Premier Hepburn, who pledged his government anew to "live within our income" as an aid to the national war effort.

The record surplus was more than $5,000,000 greater than in the best of the so-called "sunshine budgets," $7,347,729 in 1937.

Mr. Hepburn, who is also provincial treasurer, estimated in his budget address last year that the surplus would be $396,364.

For the fiscal year ending March 31, 1942, Mr. Hepburn budgeted for a surplus of $9,743,063. His report for the current fiscal year was based on 10 months actual and two months estimated.

The Premier announced there would be no new taxes and that existing tax measures would be continued.

The 1940-41 surplus was obtained mainly through receipts of $23,000,000 from the corporation tax, whereas $15,000,000 had been estimated. Increases in revenue from the highways department, from the department of lands and forests and from the liquor control board contributed to the surplus.

Reaction to Roosevelt's Latest speech

By The Canadian Press

The Rome radio claimed Sunday that President Roosevelt's speech promising all-out aid to Britain, Greece and China could be interpreted as an announcement that American soldiers will take a direct part in the war and in two continents in Europe and in Asia.

The broadcast said "the whole speech was violently demagogical, and had no intention of clearing up points, but merely of inflaming the masses of the American population."

The British Broadcasting Corporation devoted 11-12 minutes of a broadcast to the continent to the Roosevelt address.

The Greek radio said Mr. Roosevelt's words have "officially and irrevocably signed the death warrant of the 'new order.'"

The broadcast was heard in thousands of homes in Australia and was acclaimed as the greatest news of the whole world for the empire and a direct challenge to the dictators. The Sydney Herald said "Roosevelt never before has spoken with such sureness of authority."

The Spanish Press prominently displayed the address, but the only paper to comment editorially was the Weekly Mundo. Its editorial, however, did not directly concern the address, but said there could be no taking part in the war and that Washington's efforts to "involve the whole American continent in a common fate" could not be of any help to Spain.

The German radio, in an English broadcast, contended Roosevelt appeals to the American people in much the same way that Hitler and Mussolini appealed to their followers when they started on their way to power. The speaker stressed the statement that the President had appealed to the people to be satisfied with longer working hours, smaller profits, higher taxes and other sacrifices.

France is prepared to make any guarantee required, he added, that any and all foodstuffs permitted to be shipped to unoccupied France would be eaten by Frenchmen and not permitted to go elsewhere.

Sell largest British-owned Company in U.S.

NEW YORK, March 16 (AP)—The sale of what is regarded as the largest directly-owned British industrial enterprise in the United States, American Viscose Corporation, to a group of American investment bankers, was announced today by Sir Edward Peacock, British financial envoy.

Ninety per cent of the proceeds of the sale of the huge corporation, estimated unofficially to be valued at from $100,000,000 to $150,000,000, will go directly to the British government.

Seventeen American firms, headed by Morgan Stanley and Company, Incorporated, and Dillon, Read and Company, co-operated in the purchase.

The company manufactures rayon yarn and fibre and is regarded as one of the largest, if not the largest, in its field in the world.

It was established in the United States about 30 years ago and employs 18,000 American workers in seven factories.

Propose U. S. Supervise food in French areas

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—A proposal for the United States to supervise distribution of food in unoccupied France was discussed Saturday in a series of conferences between British, French and United States officials.

Informed sources emphasized that the United States was acting only as a "friendly intermediary," was advancing no proposals of its own, and was exerting no pressure on either of the other governments.

Viscount Halifax, the British ambassador, and Gaston Henry-Haye, the French ambassador, conferred with State Secretary Cordell Hull on the food problem for an hour.

The French ambassador said he was hopeful there was now a "realization of the true situation" and that an agreement might soon be achieved.

France is prepared to make any guarantee required, he added, that any and all foodstuffs permitted to be shipped to unoccupied France would be eaten by Frenchmen and not permitted to go elsewhere.

Steel deliveries Holding up

CLEVELAND, March 16 (AP)—There is "considerable encouragement," the Magazine "Steel" said today, "in the fact that deliveries now are not slipping behind at the recent rapid rate."

Sales volume, the trade publication continued in its weekly review of the industry "is more spotty. Instead of the former steady flow of orders, there are more off days."

"Steel" said a survey of the current delivery situation reveals "that with 22 companies which turn out about 85 per cent of the nation's steel five to six months is the most common delivery now available."

"The greatest extreme is in galvanized sheets, 10 months in the case of one company. Plates, right now one of the tightest products, range from three months for one company to seven months in the case of two other makers."

Production from a tonnage standpoint reached an all-time high last week, the magazine said. "On a percentage basis one point was advanced to 98-1-2 per cent" of estimated capacity.

"Two of 'Steel's' composite price groups advanced, steelworks scrap 12 cents to 10 and iron and steel by three cents to $38.29. Finished steel was unchanged at $56.60." The magazine also noted "there is a growing sentiment against naming steel prices by quarters, a system customary in normal times."

There are so many things I love. A cosy kitchen with its fire-light humming song an old tea-kettle sings. The warm sweet smell of jam upon the stove.

I love the yellow bowls that hold the batter For cakes that smell of cinnamon The patter of the rain drops on the roof, The evening star that shines so bright at night.

I love to hear the Robin sing at twilight, Blooming just outside the door, The sunlight shining on my yellow tea-set, And across the old blue rug upon the floor.

I love these windows facing toward the sun, From which I see the waters of the bay, The potted plants upon my window sill, Geraniums and petunias, bright and gay.

I love the quiet nights and stars, The chirping of the cricket as he sings, And I am glad that God has given me grace To see life's beauty in its simple things.

Warns Americans

As a "studio audience" for his grim remarks, Mr. Roosevelt chose the annual dinner of the Correspondents' Association.

Is Applauded
As the President spoke, he was frequently interrupted by applause, particularly when he said that arms production should not be obstructed by "unnecessary strikes" or "by shortsighted management."

When he called for sacrifices to help the democracies, and added that higher taxes might be involved, he smiled. Then quickly he aroused his audience to applause with his quickly added statement that sacrifices did not mean the loss of any fundamental rights.

Two highly interested spectators were Wendell L. Wilkie, late year's Republican presidential nominee, and a strong supporter of help for Britain, and Viscount Halifax, the British ambassador.

National Unity
Repeatedly Mr. Roosevelt stressed the importance of national unity and as often said it had been achieved. With national unity and a "will to sacrifice" he said, the drive for a maximum output of war materials, he said there already had been a reversal in Nazi thinking that democracy could not rise unaided and "upon that national will to sacrifice and to work depends the output of our industry and our agriculture," he said.

"Upon that will depends the survival of the vital bridge across the ocean—between ships which carry the arms and food for those who are fighting the good fight. Upon that will depends our ability to aid other nations which may determine to offer resistance."

"Upon that will depend practical assistance to people now living in nations which have been overrun, should find the opportunity to strike back in an effort to regain their liberties."

Will Not Be Frustrated
"This will of the American people will not be frustrated, either by threats from powerful enemies abroad or by small, selfish groups of individuals at home."

"The determination of America must not be obstructed by war profiteering, by strikes, by unnecessary strikes of workers, by shortsighted management, or by deliberate sabotage of the war effort."

"For, unless we win there will be no freedom for either management or labor."

"Wise labor leaders and wise business managers will realize how necessary it is to their own existence to make common sacrifice for this great common cause."

"There is no longer the slightest question or doubt that the American people recognize the extreme evils of the present situation. That is why they have demanded, and not a policy of unqualified impotence, but a policy for Britain, Greece, China and for all the governments in exile whose homelands are temporarily occupied by the aggressors."

"From now on that aid will be increased—and yet again increased—until total victory has been won."

British morale is now "stronger than ever," the President said. "The British people are 'braced' for invasion whenever the attempt may come tomorrow—next week—next month." In Winston Churchill they are "blest with a brilliant and great leader. But the essence of their morale is that 'one essential fact' is completely clear in the minds of the masses of the British people. This is that 'they would rather die as free men than live as slaves.'"

"These 'plain people,' civilians and soldiers alike, Mr. Roosevelt said, are 'fighting in the front line of civilization' and holding that line with a fortitude which will forever be the pride and inspiration of all free men" everywhere. But, he added:—

Ships, Planes, Food
"The British people and their Grecoan allies need ships. From America, they will get ships. They need planes. From America, they will get planes. They need food. From America, they will get food. They need tanks and guns and ammunition and supplies of all kinds. From America, they will get tanks and guns and ammunition and supplies of all kinds. China likewise expresses the magnificent will of millions of plain people to resist the dis-

Buck it up right now and feel like a million!

Your liver is the largest organ in your body and most important to your health. It does not like to digest food, gets rid of waste, supplies new energy, allows proper nourishment to reach your blood. member of their nation, China, through the Generalissimo, Chiang Kai-Shek, asks our help. America has said that China shall have our aid.

"Our country is going to be what our people have proclaimed it must be—the arsenal of democracy."

"Our country is going to play its full part."

And when dictatorships disintegrate—and pray God that will be sooner than any of us now dares to hope—then our country must continue to play its great part in the period of world reconstruction."

For the people of the United States—each of whom, he said, has a "stake" in the outcome, the President outlined the nature of the "sacrifices" which he fore-saw.

"You will have to be content with lower profits from business because obviously your taxes will be higher," he said.

"You will have to work longer hours for our defence against the most ruthless brutality in history; for the ultimate victory of a way of life now so violently menaced."

No Half-Hearted Effort
"The concerted effort on our part will lead to failure. This is no part-time job. The concepts of 'business as usual' and 'normalcy' must be forgotten until the task is finished. This is an all-out effort—nothing short of all-out effort will win."

"We are now dedicated, from here on to a constantly increasing tempo of production—a production greater than we now know or have ever known before—a production that does not stop and should not pause."

Recalling that in a speech several weeks ago he spoke of four freedoms—freedom of expression, freedom of worship, freedom from want and freedom from fear—as essential bases of a post-war world, he called them "the ultimate

Oratorical Contest

"They may not be immediately attainable throughout the world but humanity does move toward those ideals through democratic processes," he said. "If we fail—if democracy is superseded by slavery—then those four freedoms or even the mention of them will become forbidden things. Centuries will pass before they can be revived."

"By winning now, we increase the stature and dignity of human life."

On Thursday, March 13, an Oratorical Contest was held in the Baptist Hall, under the auspices of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Seven young people took part in the contest, the program being as follows:
