PERKINS TELLS OF BUSINESS METHODS

and state how they were to think—gone for never to return. Inter-communication and education have, with their monstrous strides, brought us face to face with problems just as great as have been the causes which created them.

"The individual owner and manager becomes eliminated. Something must be found that will take the place of one directing mind, and the only thing that will do it is a large number of directing minds, by which of course is meant, co-partnership, corporations, reciprocity, profit-sharing, co-operative methods, are all different names for the one central thing, which is 'peopleizing' our own industry."

"Those of us down in the United States have felt that there were only three ways out of the present situation; first, the adoption by business men of a broad co-partnership method of doing business, or second, a rapid drifting towards government ownership of many branches of business, or third, socialism."

"No thoughtful man, having the real interests of his country at heart, can doubt for a moment that the choice of these three methods should be the first one—an honest, vigorous, determined attempt at co-partnership."

Mr. Perkins went on to say that experiments along this line in some of the larger industrial concerns in the United States had been most gratifying, but while they had been carried on, it had become very clear that co-partnership must be practiced in the broadest and most complete sense of the term. By this he meant, he explained, that it must stand for co-partnership between capital and labor, co-partnership between capital and consumer, and co-partnership between business and the State.

In his opinion the question of wages was not so much whether a man should have so many shillings per day, as whether or not his whatever it might be, was the proper proportion that was his due out of the earnings of the business in which he was engaged.

"Unless the spirit of co-partnership is such as to make the manager of a business honestly weigh and settle this question, co-partnership as between capital and labor will not work in practice," he said in this connection.

There is always something going on in the Crystals and Victorias meet. Friday night will be no exception. The game promises to be one of the hottest ever played in the Big Arena.

Yesterday the Murray Harbor trail was one hour and ten minutes late, the South thirty-five minutes late, the English one hour and forty-five minutes late and the West on Friday thirty minutes late. The Cape Traverse train arrived here on time.

In connection with the alleged assault on a party in Rusticoville recently, The Guardian in conversation with one of the parties concerned, is requested to state that in the conversation the name of Mr. McPherson, the successful Liberal candidate at the recent election, was not mentioned, and consequently was in no way responsible for the trouble. It is said to have been caused by the objectionable conduct of a party under the influence of liquor. Legal proceedings are likely to ensue.

The feature photo play at The People's Theatre last night was a very strong military subject, "The Pagu-tive." It held the audience spell bound as they watched its development, and was strong in plot as well. The Crow Pancher's Glove was another equally as good, while the Lady Barber's supplied lots of comedy. A fourth reel was run by request, "The Colour Sergeant's Horse," and it is long since an admirable combination of subjects has been arranged for a program there.

Newly Sawyer, the inimitable, was all hearts by his magnificent rendering of the dear old favorite, "O' Argyll," and was repeatedly recalled. His splendid voice had ample scope in the simple ballad—and he certainly did it justice. He was just as funny as ever in "The Traveling Man," which he sang for the first time and he already has that hold on his audience that brings them back again. The People's Theatre is a house desiring of an encouragement and commendation, and there is never any doubt about seeing a show "that is a show" any time one feels like going.

Last evening in the Y. M. C. A. a number of the business men, sustaining members, contributors and friends of the Association gathered to meet C. K. Calhoun, Canadian Field Secretary. After lunch had been served by the Ladies' Auxiliary and a vote of thanks to the ladies had been tendered, on motion by Dr. J. H. Ayers, president of the Y. M. C. A., who presided, Mr. Calhoun was introduced. This speaker then delivered an excellent address on the work of the Y. M. C. A. and spoke of the international committee which was organized two years ago. The choice of these methods should be the first one—an honest, vigorous, determined attempt at co-partnership.

Mr. Perkins went on to say that experiments along this line in some of the larger industrial concerns in the United States had been most gratifying, but while they had been carried on, it had become very clear that co-partnership must be practiced in the broadest and most complete sense of the term. REFUSE TO AMEND RECIPROCITY PACT possible amendment of the item making barley free, were met by the unopposed statement of the chairman that the committee would sanction no change of any item.

Notwithstanding this fact the pressure brought to bear on the committee has resulted in the granting of hearings to all persons who appear in Washington prior to 5 o'clock next Thursday afternoon, Feb. 9. This date was fixed to permit Pacific coast lumbermen to reach Washington and make statements.

The hearings will be confined to new conditions that have arisen since the granting of the general tariff bill two years ago," said Chairman Payne. "It is not the committee's purpose to go into a second edition of hearings on the general tariff subject."

Farmers, lumbermen, barley raisers and manufacturers of barley malt were given hearings today. The spirit of the committee was such, however, that the witnesses had difficulty in making a serious impression in presenting their arguments against the Canadian agreement.

The barley malt interests of Wisconsin, Minnesota, Illinois, Nebraska and Iowa were represented by a large delegation. Bruno P. Funk, of Milwaukee, presented their protest against the abolition of the thirty-cent duty on barley, and said that it would mean the wiping out of the northwestern malting and barley raising industry and the transfer of that industry to western New York and Canada.

Mr. Funk explained that climatic conditions were peculiarly necessary in the barley industry, and that eastern Ontario would at once capture the barley market. This appeal to Chairman Payne of the committee, who had made a vain fight when the tariff was up two years ago, to secure free barley to aid the malting interests of New York.

"Will free barley mean a larger glass of beer?" asked Chairman Payne.

"No, it will not," said Mr. Funk. "The price of a glass of beer will remain at five cents whether barley malt pay a duty or not."

The malting interests claimed that the peculiar conditions of the trade were such that if barley is admitted, eastern Ontario would supply the product, and western New York the malting houses, so as practically to cancel the malting industry.

Representative Clarke expressed the opinion that Missouri could raise as good barley as Ontario, but Mr. Funk assured him he did not know anything about the technical process of the malting and beer-making business.

Representative George R. Malby, of New York, attacked the reciprocity agreement because of its agricultural items, and its lowering of duties on lumber and wood pulp and paper. He declared that the tariff board had spent months accumulating all facts bearing on the paper-making business but that paper was taken off the free list by this treaty without any reference to what the tariff board had found out.

"This treaty with Canada is but the entering wedge," said Mr. Malby. "It must be followed by treaties with other countries, and it threatens the whole policy of protection."

BRITISH TO BUILD PANAMA RAILWAY

COLON, Feb. 4.—Ratification by the Panama Canal Commission of a contract between the Panama government and the Balboa and Pacific Estates, Limited, of London, Eng., for the building of a railway from end to end of the Republic is expected at an early date.

This is the project long considered under the title of the Barren line. It is intended to open up the virgin country on the Pacific slope, and will parallel that coast, and one day will be an important link in the inevitable line linking North and South America.

The United States is watching proceedings with anxious eyes, as the ratification of the contract will give Great Britain a foothold on the isthmus at the very brink of the canal, and the right to assert a "sphere of influence."

SENATORS LEARNING THE LORD'S PRAYER

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 4.—At a session of the state senate recently Rev. F. A. Randall, the chaplain, requested the members to repeat with him the Lord's Prayer. Only eight senators were able to join in its recitation.

Since coming to the city after several years absence, I have had the pleasure of viewing several fine hand-drawn sketches by S. F. Tarshish, showing true to life the island roads with the terrible pitches and slides, and the very small loads of produce coming to market. He also shows up the Ontario good roads, which is also a system, showing the ordinary loads on good roads.

For the benefit of the people on P. E. Island, I would strongly recommend the adoption of that system here as early as possible. Then you will find prosperity the result.

Yours Truly,

CHINAMEN WEDS AMERICAN GIRL

SEATTLE, Feb. 4.—A university romance was revealed yesterday when George A. Chan, a young Chinaman, until a short time ago student at the Northwestern University School of Commerce, admitted to interviewers in Seattle that the pretty young woman who was accompanying him was his wife.

Mrs. Chan was Miss Lota Bell Stevenson, daughter of the family with which the young Chinaman lived during his student days in Chicago. He told the questioners that it had been a case of love at first sight, and, strange to relate, the course of true love had not been impeded by parental objections. They were married a few days before their departure for Washington.

Chan is a son of Rev. S. A. Chan, a Chinese minister living in Portland. He studied law and commerce at the Northwestern University, although he did not expect to practice law.

ASHBY GIRL WAS TERRIBLY BURNED

SYDNEY, C. B., February 6.—After her clothing had caught fire from a stove Josephine McDonald, aged 20, lingered so long in securing the safety of her baby niece, whom she held in her arms at the time of the accident that she was terribly burned from chin to ankle, and is now lying in a very serious condition at Brookland hospital.

She is so grave at all it is probably due to the prompt action of John O'Hanley, a street railway motor-man, who was near when the girl staggered down stairs and into the open air. He seized her and rolled her in a snow bank until the flames were extinguished.

Miss McDonald was at her sister's home in Ashby at the time. She was severely burned over almost every inch of her back, breast and lower limbs. Her recovery will not be possible without skin grafting. Dr. James Bruce is attending her.

FEARS HER SISTER WAS LURED AWAY

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—All day Friday Miss Margaret McDonald, of 12 Bremen Street, East Boston, searched this city and suburbs for Helen McDonald, her missing sister, fifteen years old.

It has been nine days since Helen has been seen by any of her family and friends.

That she has been lured away by some man is the belief of her sister Margaret, and her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth McDonald, who are nearly wild with grief over the mysterious disappearance of the girl.

The greatest interest has been aroused in East Boston over the case, for Mrs. McDonald, the mother of the child, is a working woman, earning her living by going out to work. Helen McDonald is described as a large girl, more than usually well developed for her age, possessing a wealth of golden-brown hair and has brown eyes. When she was last seen at home she wore a blue dress brown coat and a black felt hat, trimmed with blue.

VOTES FOR WOMEN BILL IN BRITISH PARLIAMENT

The bill will be mainly the same as that of last year, but will be amended so as to enfranchise all women householders. This title will be also changed.

SHE WAS SURPRISED

When Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills Cured her Chronic Liver Complaint

Mrs. R. Smith, of Winnipeg, Man., tells an interesting story of relief from almost intolerable sufferings:

"I can hardly tell you how great my sufferings have been. Chronic liver complaint accompanied by biliousness was a daily source of trial to me. Every day I experienced the sickening effects of these ailments. I longed for some medicine that should permanently drive them away."

Heating of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, I thought they were worthy of a trial. My surprise was indeed great. From the very first I experienced relief. Continuing with them I found my troubles were slowly but surely leaving me, and before long I once more knew what it was to be free from the harassing effects of the ailments that had long sickened and weakened me. So great is my faith in Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills that I shall never on any account be without them."

MISS HELEN GOULD WEDS LORD DECIES

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Helen Vivian second daughter of George Gould, who was married yesterday afternoon to Lord Decies, English army officer. She is eighteen years old and he 45.

The wedding was the most notable of the kind that has taken place in the metropolis for a long time.

The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock in fashionable St. Bartholomew's Church, in Madison Avenue, assisted by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Leighton Parks.

Lord Decies awaited his bride at the altar with his cousin, Lord Alastair Graham, of the Royal Canadian Navy, third son of the Duke of Montrose, who was his best man. Miss Ethel Gould attended her sister as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Emeline Holmes, a daughter of James and Mrs. Holmes, of New York; Miss Louise Cromwell, daughter of Mrs. Oliver Cromwell, of Washington; Miss Beatrice Chaffin, daughter of Arthur and Mrs. Chaffin of New York; and Lakewood; Miss Alison Pierce, daughter of Winslow S. and Mrs. Pierce of Bayville, N. J.; Miss Hope Hamilton, daughter of William A. and Mrs. Hamilton, of New York; and Miss Hannah Randolph, a daughter of Phillip and Mrs. Randolph of Philadelphia.

Miss Helma Gould, the five-year-old sister of the bride, and Miss Diana Dalmel, the little daughter of P. Y. and Mrs. Dalmel, were the flower girls.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, George J. Gould. She wore a robe of white satin, trimmed with point lace. The veil was of point lace and extended to the hem of the train. After the church ceremony the bride party and guests were driven over to the Fifth Avenue home of the Goulds, where an elaborate reception was held.

The bride is not yet eighteen years old, and made her social debut only a few weeks ago. She is the fourth child of George J. and Mrs. Gould. Miss Gould is rather tall, slender and dark, with a richly colored complexion, and is fond of outdoor sports.

Lord Decies is forty-five years old and succeeded to his title a short time ago through the death of his brother. He is a Lieutenant-Colonel of the Seventh Hussars, and a member of the Distinguished Service Order. He has fought, in many campaigns, serving against the Mad Mullah, in the Malakale war and the Boer war. He is famous as a polo player with a cricket, and is keenly interested in hunting and racing.

The peerage of Lord Decies is an Irish one and does not carry with it a seat in the House of Lords. It was created just a century ago in favor of the first Marquis of Waterford's younger brother, William Beresford.

EXPENSIVE PRACTICAL JOKE.

HALIFAX, Feb. 8.—An expensive trick has been practiced in connection with the liquor suit of Sydney vs. Union Jack Club of that city, which will cost some one $1,000.

Recently the inspector seized liquor from the club, who (later) secured the return of the liquor on a replevin process.

After two trials, the case went against the club, and it was up to them to return the "goods." When the city got the "goods" back, it was found that the entire lot consisted of nothing stronger than water, every bottle having been emptied and refilled with the City's own brand.

UNIONIST PRESS IS BADLY RATTLED

food tax, and is calling upon the Unionists to recognize that imperial preference is dead, admitting that there is no enthusiasm in Canada for the so-called Chamberlain policy and suggesting a campaign in favor of the protection of manufactured goods, with a reduction in the duties on British manufactures within the empire, as likely to appeal strongly to the Canadian and British peoples and initiate imperial free trade.

The climax of this diversity of views was reached today when the Harnsworth-owned Observer attacks its fellow Unionist organ, the Daily Mail, for "the political development, which is as needless as it is amazing."

"At this particular moment in the critical situation," continues the Observer, "the Daily Mail thought it well to devote itself to a campaign against imperial preference, to the joy of every German journal that hated Chamberlain's policy, to the utter contentment of the American apologetics of annexation, to the dismay of Canadians who have given the best of their lives to the fight for imperial union."

The Observer concludes its analysis of the "extraordinary argument" of the Daily Mail, with the proposition that imperial preference can be perfectly well combined with Anglo-American reciprocity, and declares that in the present instance Canada has given its grave warning, adding, however, that if the Unionists adhere to preference, keeping their hands free to negotiate with Canada and the United States alike, the empire may still be saved.

Austen Chamberlain, speaking at Birmingham last night, said that the reciprocity agreement was the greatest commercial feat since the German Zollverein. The blow to English trade must be serious. The hold of the Americans on the Canadian market, he predicted, would become firmer and Canadian development would be jeopardized. Whatever the result, he said, it cannot affect the policy of preference, which the Unionists cannot drop.
