Claim Former Red Spy Aids R.C.M.P.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1—(CP)—A former Russian spy now living in Canada is proving a valuable source of information to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, it was reported today.

The story, which drew no comment from official sources here, was that the former agent had been picked up by the R.C.M.P. in 1938, and ever since had been living under an assumed name with a police guard.

His whereabouts was described as "a large Eastern Canadian city."

One report here was that Louis Russell, chief investigator for the House of Representatives un-American activities committee, recently visited Canada in an unsuccessful attempt to interview the Russian.

U. S. Beach Wear Has An Admirer Across Atlantic

By Muriel Narraway
 Canadian Press Staff Writer
 LONDON, Feb. 1—(CP)—American playsuits for British beaches is the aim of Captain Molyneux, one of London's "Big 10" in the fashion world.

American playsuits and beach separates are charming and practical says Molyneux. "It is of interest that this contribution to fashion leadership by American designers should be acknowledged."

And from March onwards copies of American play clothes under the name of each designer will be shown in Molyneux salons, in London and Paris.

In the United States these clothes sell for about $25.00, but in Britain they will cost about 15 pounds ($46.50) due to higher costs of materials and taxes. However, the 15 pounds will get a British woman a complete ensemble of separates.

One of the ensembles will consist of a basic black elasticized swim suit topped by black jersey shirt blouse and white linen shorts. For day wear there is the addition of a full swing floral print skirt; for evening wear the black strapless swim suit can top a cotton emerald-blue sarong skirt.

"Useful, Beautiful" "Paris," says Molyneux, "gives fashion inspiration to the world. Yet nowhere but America can such inexpensive, practical and beautiful beach wear be found."

"Often a full ensemble of separates costs only $20.00, and many of the American play clothes are made of British materials.

Molyneux's spring shows in Paris and London will give fashion parades of the 25 playsuits bought on his recent tour in the United States.

Among the nine American Designers whose names will soon be known this side of the Atlantic are three New Yorkers: Brigrance, Carolyn Schnuser and Tina Lesser.

BRITISH HOUSEHOLDS MAY GET GERMAN HELP

LONDON, Feb. 1—(A plan for employment of German women as domestics in British households has been announced by the ministry of labor.

Under the scheme, a German placement office will send to prospective employers details of a suitable worker, along with the names and addresses of two persons given by the woman as references.

Later, the woman in Germany may write directly to the employer.

Employers must make their own arrangements for bringing the women to Britain. The plan applies to single women and childless widows between 18 and 45, to be engaged as full-time domestics on a living-in basis in private households. All women will be medically examined before leaving Germany.

AGE FINDS LEISURE, WOMAN TURNS ARTIST

MOOREFIELD, Ontario, Feb. 2—(CP)—A Canadian Grandma Moses is Mrs. Catharine Wildfang, 86, who recently has held two exhibitions of pictures she painted within the last twelve years.

Like New England's famous Grandma Moses, 89, Mrs. Wildfang grew up in a farming community, showed an interest in art during childhood, but put aside her artistic leanings until late in life.

A busy life made the postponement necessary. Mrs. Wildfang helped her husband run a country general store at Elmwood in Ontario's Grey county and took charge of a military department. At the same time, she carried on household duties and raised four sons and four daughters, seven of whom are still living.

At 75, with her husband dead and her children grown, she bought brushes and paints and revived her dreams of painting.

She prefers oil paints to other media. Landscapes are her favorite theme, but she also paints animals well. Her color sense is good and she has a flair for delicate and accurate detail, especially in her paintings of trees.

Seated upstairs at her easel, she works happily almost every morning.

SACRED MEMORIES

There's a dear little church in Valleyfield by road,
 Scenes of my childhood where Sweets in peace abide,
 Well I remember our own family pew
 Where we sat together till the Preacher was through.

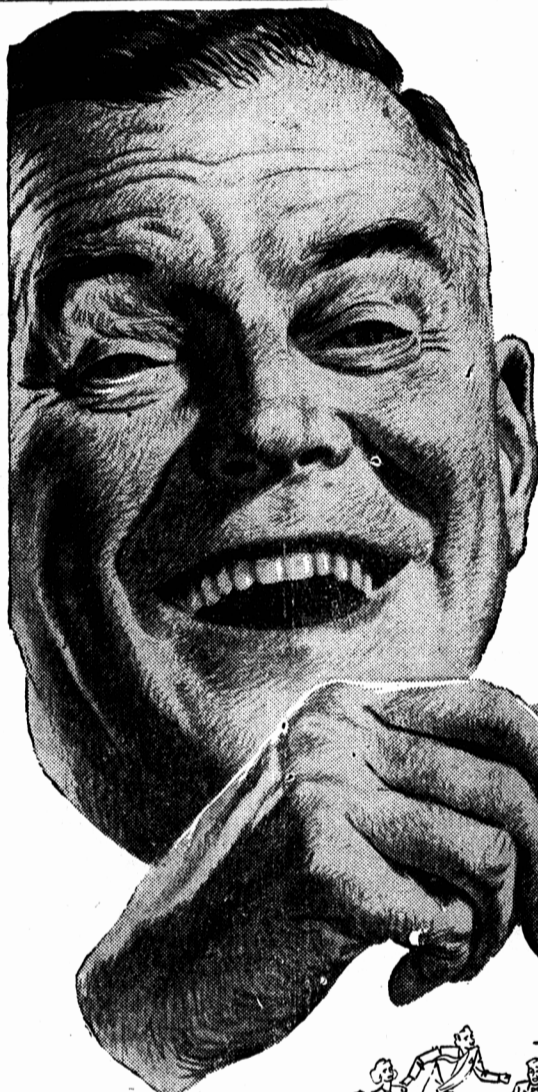

We went with our parents who taught us to pray,
 And taught us to read God's word every day.
 The Pastor proclaimed God's Word in Holy Spirit Power,
 Precious souls were saved in that Church tower.

Singing, such singing! With all voices raised
 When the Pastor announced that the Lord be praised,
 As I think of the dear old church by the road,
 Sweet memory lingers with love untold.

People drove from afar over rough country roads,
 Others walked many miles through storms and the cold,
 Great blessings were theirs as many have told,
 Oh Lord! Send the power as in days of old.

There was power in prayer, singing and preaching,
 Precious souls were saved; that power was far reaching.
