A move is on foot in many parts of Canada to campaign for a new National Art Gallery for Canada. Those favoring such a project point out that the present building and facilities in Ottawa are hopelessly inadequate to meet the needs of an ever-growing interest in art. At present the government appropriates $25,000 annually for the art gallery, layout ABOVE shows the present National Art Gallery and an interior scene.

Mr. James Paton Describes Some of the Things His Party Saw and Enjoyed in the Old Country.

Mr. James Paton describes some of the things his party saw and enjoyed in the Old Country. On May 17th, 1934, we left Charlottetown for Halifax. There we remained until the 20th when we stepped on board the Red Star steamer Pennland, which had arrived early in the morning from New York. The Pennland is a magnificent liner with a tonnage of 16,500, length 601 feet, and breadth 67 1-2 feet.

It was a lovely May morning and after locating ourselves in the cabins we looked round and soon found the ship had 104 cabin passengers, many of whom were on deck saying goodby to friends. Shortly after 11 o'clock, while the orchestra played farewell music, the ship moved quietly from the dock, heading for Southampton. After lunch we found the deck steward selected a place for our chairs, then made a tour of inspection through the public rooms.

THEN AND NOW

What wonderful transformation has taken place in the accommodation and comfort offered by the Atlantic liners of the present, compared to that of fifty years ago. When for instance, a stateroom was lighted by a candle set in a triangle shaped lantern with glass on two sides. This served the purpose of lighting two rooms. The lantern was fitted with a door at the back. Every night at 11 o'clock, this door was opened by a steward, who, with a puff, blew out the light, leaving all in darkness until dawn appeared. All rooms are now splendidly lighted by electricity. Again, compare the water supply. All staterooms have a generous service of hot and cold running water. In older days the supply was limited to a pitcher of cold water, and if ordered a small can of hot would be brought.

Other marked improvements might be mentioned, for instance, the spacious, attractive and beautifully decorated homelike lounge, smoking and sitting rooms, with open fire places, so different from the old fashioned heaters that emitted an odor far from being pleasant. There is also the kiddie play room, furnished with toys of all descriptions, including large rocking horses and swings. The barber shop is a convenient place for ladies. Here they have an opportunity of passing some of their leisure hours by having the latest permanent at the hairdressers room.

AMUSEMENTS

Sport competitions are organized every day by the purser, or by one of the stewards; tennis and deck curling being the two favorite games, although horse racing creates most excitement.

After dinner, young and old enjoy a dance in the music room, and occasionally on deck, music being provided by ship's orchestra.

GOES TO JAIL

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) WINNIPEG, April 10.—Aged Ann Numero apparently is caught in the "vicious circle." "If you send me to jail in the summer, I won't be able to work in the garden; then I'll have to sell liquor again next winter," she pleaded in police court today. She went to jail.

TO EXPORT GOLD

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) OTTAWA, April 10.—The Bank of Canada was empowered to export mine gold under a bill passed through the House of Commons last night. A license must be obtained from the Finance Department and up to now only chartered banks qualified.

MINARD'S THE GREAT RUBBING LINIMENT

benefit concert in aid of sailor's widows and orphans, was held in the lounge room. The programme opened with selections from "Faust" by the orchestra. Passengers assisted with vocal and instrumental music. This concert took place on Saturday evening, May 26th, so days and nights during the whole voyage passed pleasantly.

On the following beautiful sunny Sabbath morning we said good by to the Pennland, boarded a tug which conveyed the passengers to Southampton Wharf railway station.

LONDON

From here we proceed to London, a journey of about two hours. In the evening we attended service in the Old Church of St. Clement Danes, situated on the Strand. The service is Anglican with a large choir, assisted by a full orchestra conducted by a clergyman. This church was designed by Sir Christopher Wren, and built by William Pearce in the year 1682.

The following day we visited Canada House, near Trafalgar Square. Here Nelson's Column stands 177 feet high with a statue of the hero at the top, and on the four sides of the base, representations in brass of the Death of Nelson, Battle of the Nile, Battle of St. Vincent and Battle of Copenhagen. There are also four immense lions at the base, the work of Sir Edwin Landseer.

On entering Canada House, we pass our cards to the secretary, and through him are introduced to the Hon. Howard Ferguson, High Commissioner of Canada, from whom we received a very hearty welcome and kind offer to procure tickets of admittance to a number of interesting places otherwise difficult of access. Canada House is situated in a very convenient part of the city. Visiting Canadians should not have any hesitancy in seeking information here which they will obtain correctly from most obliging assistants.

PARKS

Among the many beautiful parks and gardens in and around London we are safe in stating there are descriptions, including the Royal Horticultural Society's gardens, the Kew and Hampton Court. We spent a day at both places. The lawns and flower beds owing to the absence of rain did not look as fresh and beautiful as on our previous visits. The journey to Kew is interesting, and gives some idea of the vast area of the London. Kew Gardens, are said to have the most splendid collection of plants in the world; the palm-house is 360 feet long by 90 feet wide. A pleasant day's outing was brought to a close with a sail down the River Thames to Westminster Bridge. Hampton Court has many attractions aside from its beautiful gardens, fountains, vases and the

COMMUNICATIONS

Dealing with communications of this province was passed at the quarterly meeting of the Charlottetown Board of Trade held last night at which the president, Mr. R. L. McClure presided.

Mr. W. F. Tidmarsh, chairman of the fisheries committee, in presenting the resolution requested that things look encouraging as the Federal Government is disposed to aid the industry. What the fishermen really require, he stated, is assistance in replacing their gear and some system of collection to preserve bait, as at present one third of their time is lost waiting for bait. He referred to the success of the small cod storage plant established at Tignish.

Mr. R. E. Hutch in seconding the resolution stated he would like to go a step further and ask for government assistance in curing fish or in providing supervision. He did not mean that the government should do the work, but that it should reach the fishermen who and supervise them. He suggested also a system of co-operative curing of fish.

Mr. E. T. Higgs spoke briefly in support of what Mr. Hutch had said.

Mr. Tidmarsh referred to Mr. Earle who was here some years ago to instruct the fishermen. Few of them had followed his instruction but they were personally responsible for the acts of those companies or their agents. The sole reproach to be brought against the Brotons was that they had made custom of not Mr. Gendron said which is scarcely a crime.

The hearing is continuing.

BUSINESS GIRL MUST LEARN TO BUDGET HER TIME

The business girl—if she is to be a social as well as a professional success—simply must learn to budget her time outside the office. When she leaves her office at five, she must know how to dash home, bathe, make up, dress and be ready to greet her escort with a calm smiling face when he arrives at seven.

Men, generally speaking, hate nervousness and confusion. Many a beau has lost interest in an attractive girl simply because she always kept him waiting while she finished dressing, greeted him with a distracted glance and seemed to spend more of the evening being upset over something she forgot to put in her bag. Let this be a warning. Plan your getting-ready-to-go-out-in-the-evening routine rather carefully and stick to it.

First of all, try to keep all evening accessories in one drawer. Make sure that your evening gowns and wraps are always clean and pressed. When you've worn a costume, send it to be cleaned the next morning instead of waiting until a couple of days before you intend to step out again. Nothing is worse than to have to press a dress fifteen minutes before you want to wear it.

Learn to make every minute count. For instance, clean your face and cream it before you get in the tub. That way, the cream has a chance to do its work without wasting your time.

COMMITTEE REPORTS

Major T. E. MacNutt, chairman of the Civic Improvement Committee in his report suggested that a row of trees be planted on each side of the park roadway. He also suggested that a civic by-law be introduced forbidding the building of public garages in certain sections of the city. Already some residential properties have been lowered in value by the erection of garages in close proximity.

Mr. Higgs thought that it would be a good idea to have trees planted along the park roadway in connection with the celebration of the Silver Jubilee.

The matter was left with the Civic Improvement Committee to report to the City Council.

Mr. J. J. Morris, chairman of the Time Table Committee, gave a report of the arrival of the trains in Charlottetown.

Mr. P. W. Chalkin announced that it is expected the car ferry will be taken out of service for the annual overhauling about the end of this month.

Mr. J. O. Hyndman gave a resume of what has been done in attempting to get improved train service between this province and the mainland. Mr. Clarkin, Mr. MacKinnon and Mr. Hutch also took part in the discussion.

Mr. Willard Spencer was elected a member of the Board at last night's meeting.

An address on "The Dairy Industry in Prince Edward Island" was delivered by Mr. W. L. Brenton, Dairy Superintendent. A vote of thanks moved by Mr. J. J. Morris and seconded by Major T. E. MacNutt, was tendered Mr. Brenton for his splendid address which appears elsewhere in this issue.

THE REAL APPEAL

Yes, it may be only an extra glass States spend on their holidays each of milk for the mother or child at year something over five billions of dollars a night, or a nice glowing fire in the dollars and there is no reason why a grate on a cool evening, or perhaps generous portion of this amount, an occasional free automobile drive should not come to this Province, into town, or a boating trip on the I asked you, my friends, to enlist in a favourable impression upon the men who are giving of their time and money in the interests of the Province.

It is not the saving of a few dollars-tourist industry of this Province that makes its appeal to the Let us begin by having greater faith in our Province, to let us be extended the unasked for piece of kindness or courtesy that supplies and to work together in the convincing proof that our chieftone great big effort to make this object in opening our doors to vis-Province what it should be—"The let us not for the purpose of fleec-Miami of the North" thereby showing them or to get everything with the rest of the world that can be done because we are anxious to for a progressive and loyal body cultivate their friendship, to gain of people.

Under the auspices of the Travel Bureau, His Honour the Lieut. Governor broadcast the following address:

I gladly accept this opportunity offered by the Prince Edward Island Travel Bureau through the kind cooperation of Station C.P.C.Y. of saying a few words on behalf of the Campaign—"To sell the Island to Islanders." What a worthy undertaking to be engaged in, selling this dear old land of ours, not to strangers or foreigners but to our own people, the sons and the daughters of the noble pioneers who at a great sacrifice and enduring hardship made this Province what it is today—the most beautiful, fertile and peaceful Million Acre Farm in the whole wide world.

After we have succeeded in selling the proposition to our own people then I am going to suggest that we unite in extending an invitation to the people of the other Provinces of this vast Dominion and to the people of the great nation to the south of us to share with us the rich resources and countless attractions which we, in this Garden Province of Canada, have been endowed with.

COMPARISON

When we look around the world and see the chaos, discontent and unrest prevalent everywhere, does not your eye proud to own Prince Edward Island as your home Province and regard your citizenship as something worth prizing. Citizenship that calls, yes, demands the best that is within us to safeguard and develop the splendid heritage that is ours. In this Province there is no great wealth amongst our people but, on the other hand, there is very little of what you might call real poverty, and with agriculture as the basic industry of the country there is no reason why anyone should be hungry or in want. I am afraid that the trouble with many of us is that we have become so accustomed to the richness of our soil and the regularity of good crops, the wealth of our fur farming industry and of our fisheries that we do not half appreciate the many advantages and privileges given to us by the Great Giver of all good things.

No other Province in Canada can offer to the Tourist and tired holiday seeker the rest, the beauty, and the opportunity of participating in the healthy sea and land sports such as can be enjoyed in Prince Edward Island.

COURTESY

Now, the principal thought that I want to leave with you tonight is that of the importance of extending courtesy to "The stranger within our gates," and that I saw in this connection that there is nothing that costs so little and yet means so much as the practice of courtesy, kindness and consideration of others. Someone has said that "Small kindnesses, small courtesies ready-to-go-out-in-the-evening routine rather carefully and stick to it."
