Renounces Right To Empty Glory

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, (CP): July 21—Describing his gesture as an appropriate measure in our democratic times, Axel Gyllen-Krok, a Riksbank auditor, in a letter to the government has stated he wishes to forego his privileges as a nobleman. The Gyllenkrok family was knighted by royal decree in 1674 and introduced at the Swedish House of Nobles in 1675.

The only privileges now left to Swedish nobility is the right to be executed with a sword instead of a broad-axe. Even this last remnant of former glory is somewhat illusory, the death penalty having been abolished in Sweden for a number of years.

Mr. Gyllenkrok himself is a man of rather radical views. His resignation will be forwarded to the government to the House of Nobles but in all likelihood cannot be acted upon since this would call for a new law.

One previous case of a similar character occurred here more than 130 years ago when a distinguished well known publicist and statesman, Hans Hierta, resigned his rank during a session in the Swedish Riksdag.

Fairbanks Named Co-respondent In Divorce Suit

(By Albert W. Wilson)
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
(A.P. By Guardian's Special Wire)

LONDON, July 20—New charges of misconduct during recent months were made today against Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., and Lady Sylvia Ashley on behalf of Lord Ashley, who is suing for a divorce from his former chorus girl wife.

The allegation was made that the famous motion picture actor and Lady Ashley, who now are in Monte Carlo, continued misconduct at "various places and various dates," which are cited, since Fairbanks was first named as correspondent in the case on Feb. 5.

Fairbanks and Lady Ashley will be served Lord Ashley's suit, said, but "it will probably take several days." Arrangements for the service are to be made through their solicitors.

The supplementary petition, a solicitor explained, requires an answer within 14 days if the couple wish to resist it.

Fairbanks and Lady Ashley already have placed themselves in a position to defend the suit which is expected to come to trial during the Autumn.

"At Monte Carlo where Fairbanks and Lady Ashley are visiting the latter's sister, a Mrs. Black, it was said today that neither would discuss the supplementary petition."

In Memoriam
MISS JESSIE LOWRY

The Rev. J. W. S. Lowry, of Cambridge, Mass., has suffered a very sad bereavement in the very sudden and unexpected passing away of his last surviving sister, Miss Jessie Lowry, at her home in the County of Down, Ireland. The deceased was in her usual enjoyable health, during the day of her demise, and passed peacefully into rest at the evening. The late Miss Lowry spent some time in Canada, and also visited the U. S. A. several years ago, and on returning to her native land, settled down again in the locality of her birth, where she spent a happy evening of life, and was finally laid to rest in the ancient burial place of the family for many generations. Her death is a great sorrow to the family at Cambridge, who spent some weeks at the home of his sister last summer, while attending the Pan-Presbyterian Council in the City of Belfast. The decease of Miss Lowry severs the final link of the family circle in the old home-land, Dr. Lowry himself being now the only remaining member of the household of his people.

JOHN J. CAIRNS

At the funeral of the late Mr. John Cairns, which took place from the family home, 56 Taft Street, East Lexington, Mass., there was a large attendance of friends and neighbors. Impressive services were conducted by his pastor, Dr. J. W. S. Lowry and Elder of the Church of Scotland, of which the deceased was a life-long member, and an elder for many years. Following solemn devotions and comforting Psalms, sung to plaintive melody, Dr. Lowry spoke effective words of consolation and exhortation from Matthew V: 4, "Blessed are they that mourn, for they shall be comforted." The remains were laid to rest by loving hands in the West View Cemetery, North Lexington. He leaves to sorrow for his passing away, his widow, one son and one daughter. The late Mr. Cairns was a much respected member of the community in which he resided, a devout and faithful churchman, an affectionate husband and father, a member of Arlington Lodge of the Orange Association, he was an ardent Imperialist and a loyal citizen of the Commonwealth.

The Value Of Correct Lenses

The lenses prescribed to correct an error of vision are valuable to the extent that they render a perfect service. As merchandise they are without value.
