Paton & Co report that their grand sale which ends on Saturday has been the greatest and most successful in the history of their business. This is no doubt accounted for by the exceptionally large amount of advertising done by the firm, especially in The Guardian which is circulated so widely all over the Province. On Monday the firm intend making a special announcement.

At latest reports last night the steamer Minto was still in Pictou and the Stanley was off Pictou Island making for Pictou. It was curiously rumored yesterday that the mails would go by the Capes route today but nothing definite as to that route has yet been ordered by the Marine Department. There is hope that the steamers may be able to cross today, and if so there will be no immediate further need.

A very interesting debate was held by the Cherry Hill debating society on the 20th inst. Subject: "Which is the better form of Government, Republic or Limited Monarchy?" Wm. McKenzie creditably performed the duties of chairman, and after hearing both sides ably and eloquently presented, decided in favor of the Limited Monarchy. A sum has been voted by the society to purchase a library suitable for the literary requirements of the members, the following committee being appointed to make the selection: Henry Coffin, Robert Affleck, E. S. Coffin, Ester Compton and Annie Douglas.

The lecture on Tam O'Shanter, delivered by Professor Caven, at St. Dunstan's College last Tuesday night, was highly entertaining and instructive. It was remarkable for its interesting style, its high literary value and refined humor. The rapid attention paid to the lecturer was as predicted, after the lecture a vote of thanks was tendered the lecturer by P. J. Hughes and J. L. Kennedy, on behalf of the Faculty and students. Professor Caven replied with a few fitting remarks and with a cheery good night boys aroused the desire that he would soon lecture again in the old college hall.
