ROMA, June 20.—(AP)—French colonial troops stacked arms on the conquered German prisoners, while Allied armies on the Italian mainland advanced toward Rome. The mud of 30-hour downpour and kept the Nazis on the run toward the Pisa-Florence-Rimini defence line in northern Italy.

The ancient communications centre of Perugia, 85 miles north of Rome, and 100 miles from the sound of battle as British 8th Army troops expelled the last stubborn German rearguard from its streets and buildings. For several days the enemy had braced and made a bitter stand on the approach to the city, whose peace-time population was 88,500.

(The Berlin Radio said tonight that German forces had evacuated Perugia.) German forces in the centre of the Peninsula were believed under orders to contest every foot of ground as they pulled so that the shattered Nazi 14th Army near the west coast might withdraw in as much order as possible before the 8th Army.

Not counting the bag of prisoners on Elba, it was announced that 37,000 German soldiers had been captured. The prisoners since they opened their drive toward Rome on May 11th.

In Memoriam

THE DEATH OF MR. C. J. MACLEAN occurred at his home in Mitchell River on May 18, 1944, at the age of 65 years.

Deceased had been in his usual health until a few months previous to his demise when sickness forced his retirement, and despite medical attention, and care of his family he gradually succumbed to the immortal lot of all.

In 1897 the late Mr. MacLean merited a certificate from Prince of Wales College, which entitled him to a teachers license and from then, and for upwards of 33 years, he labored zealously in the teaching profession in the eastern part of Prince Edward Island.

Being well read and always informed of the activities of the day he was an intelligent conversationalist.

His funeral took place from his home to St. Paul's Church, Charlottetown, on May 20th. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. P. MacMahon, P. E. I., in the presence of Rev. Mr. Coffin. The pallbearers were: Messrs. Grant MacLeod, Gerold Fleming, Robert Stead, James MacIsaac, Eric Bell, John Redmond.

Card of Thanks

Mrs. Harry Cole and family wish to thank their many friends and neighbors for the many acts of kindness shown during their recent sad bereavement and those who sent cards of sympathy. 6-21-44.
